REAGAN DEPLORES CAMPUS PROTESTS

Governor Applauds Hayakawa's Hard Line Policy; Raps Teachers Who Back Students

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today California has come "to a point of confrontation" with college protesters and "we must take a stand."

In his strongest attack yet on campus rebels, the governor, at a news conference, praised San Francisco State College acting president Dr. S. I. Hayakawa for his tough line against demonstrators.

"I think on the basis of attrition, Dr. Hayakawa is winning," Reagan said.

The governor announced that neither the University of California nor the state colleges will get as much money as they are seeking in the forthcoming state budget.

"We're not going to go to the people and ask for new taxes," said Reagan.

And he chided television for its coverage of the San Francisco State College demonstrations. He said television newsmen should photograph students in class "instead of dwelling on the noon hour" demonstrations which he said were "very exciting and make good photography."

It was Reagan's first news conference in the Capitol since Nov. 6, and most of the time was occupied with questions on the protests that have erupted at San Francisco State, San Fernado Valley State, College of San Mateo, and other colleges by members of the Black Students Union, the Students for Democratic Society and other groups.

He was especially critical of professors—mostly members of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO—who are joining the protests.

Again, Reagan said he opposes any negotiations over the protesters' demands for departments of black studies and other changes in state college educational policy.

He said that the contracts of teachers who engage in the protests shouldn't be renewed and that student demonstrators should be dropped from school.

"There is nothing to negotiate with them," he said of the professors. "These professors are there on a contract basis."

Reagan maintained that despite his cuts in educational budget requests, state colleges will be able to set up departments of ethnic studies by shifting faculty members on individual campuses.

On other matters, Reagan said he:

Couldn't say when he will appoint a successor to Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, who is the new secretary of health, education and welfare.

Believes Senate President pro tem Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, had always acted in "an honorable manner" as a legislator. Burns, it was disclosed yesterday, spnosored legislation to help some insurance companies while he was president and a main stockholder of another insurance company.

Lawmakers Draft New Region Plan

Proposed Superagency Would Be Born By 1970

By PAUL E PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A detailed proposal for setting up a regional government in the Bay Area in 1970 was unveiled today by a legislative committee studying the need for a new layer of government.

The proposal was drawn by the Joint Committee on Bay Area Regional Organization (BARO) after hearings throughout the nine-county region, and is likely to set the form of any similar proposal to come before the 1969 Legislature.

It was presented here in the State Building by the chairman of the committee, Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond.

The regional government would meet only present, critical Bay Area problems, explained Knox, but would be empowered to "add on" to its jurisdiction additional powers "as are required."

Specifically, the proposal calls for a regional government which would take over the functions of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission after it goes out of existence in late 1969, would begin work on the billion-dollar regional sewage disposal facilities needed by 1980, would "designate major transportation corridors for the region and coordinate the various types of transit which will use such corridors," and would acquire, operate and maintain regional parks and open space.

Knox told newsmen that the proposal does not call for the immediate take-over of other regional agencies or districts for two reasons. First, there is no clear indication that this would "produce better services or lower costs for Bay Area residents," and second, more time is needed to work out the details of transferring existing agencies to a regional government, he said.

Knox said the proposal did not yet have the formal approval of his committee, but predicted the committee would approve it next month in Sacramento. Knox also predicted "a broad base of support" for the proposal among Bay Area residents.

However, he conceded, "it will be somewhat controversial in the Legislature."

Adele Alpers Quits County School Post

Mrs. Adele J. Alpers, 74, who has served on the Marin County board of education longer than any member, has submitted her resignation because of illness.

Asst. County Superintendent Stanley Friese said a letter of resignation was received yesterday. He said the board will hold a special meeting at 6 p.m. Thursday at the district offices in Corte Madera to consider the resignation.

If accepted, the resignation would be effective immediately, Friese said, and the board would then establish a procedure for replacing Mrs. Alpers. Her term expires June 30, 1971.

Mrs. Alpers, of 139 Bay View Drive, Bayside Acres, San Rafael, was elected to the board May 18, 1956. She was board president in 1960 and was re-elected as president in 1961. She also has served on the County Parks and Recreation Commission, and in 1962 was on the California Council on Crime and Delinquency.

Fair-Marin Given Grounds Control

The County of Marin and Fair-Marin Inc., today agreed to let Fair-Marin manage the Veterans Memorial Auditorium and the 80-acre fairgrounds site at the Civic Center.

The action came on a motion by Supervisor William A. Gnoss and a unanimous vote of the board of supervisors. The contract gives the Fair-Marin board autonomy in managing the fairgrounds but gives the county control over planning and development of the fairgrounds site.

Fair-Marin will have two budgets — one to operate the county fairgrounds property and another to run its own cultural activities off the Civic Center site.

Today's action climaxes a year-long battle between Fair-Marin directors and the county administrator's office over the extent of authority Fair-Marin would have over the fairgrounds.

The administrator originally wanted to limit Fair-Marin's authority to the memorial auditorium and a few acres around it, but Fair-Marin won control over 80 acres of the 140-acre Civic Center site.

Fair-Marin originally wanted independence in hiring its own employees, but the contract gives the county the final word.

College Calm; Talks Set On Teacher Aims

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Representatives of the state college system at San Francisco State College arranged to meet today in efforts to avert another kind of campus turmoil — a teachers' strike.

The two Bay Area campus troublespots — San Francisco State and College of San Mateo 10 miles to the south — remained free yesterday of disturbances by students now on Christmas vacation.

Up to 400 policemen guarded the 150-acre hilltop San Mateo junior college to prevent repetition of Friday's rampage.

Police limited entrance to the campus to one road, scrutinized every car and turned away a score of persons who didn't have proper identification. As an extra precaution, they checked student body cards against enrollment records.

At San Francisco State, closed for Christmas a week earlier than usual because of two weeks of violence, meetings were arranged to try to head off a teachers' strike threatened for Jan. 6.

Yesterday Theodore Meriam of Chico, chairman of the state College Board of Trustees agreed to the "discussion" with the American Federation of Teachers, a militant union which backs the demands of dissident students who have kept the campus in an uproar since early November.

Meriam appointed Norman Epstein, general legal consel for the trustees and Dr. C. Mansel Keene, assistant chancellor for faculty and staff affairs, to meet with AFT representatives, but the president of the local union said there was nothing new in Meriam's statement, which gave approval for grievance hearings.

"It is only a statement that it is legal for the trustees to meet and discuss the issues with the AFT," said Gary Hawkins. "The AFT has always known that such meeting are legal."

Hawkins said Meriam did "not indicate to Local 1352 any willingness to negotiate on the issues."

Meriam's statement was made in a telegram to Ronald Haughton, a mediator brought

Postal Service Honors Johnson

The award credits the Johnson administration with creating better conditions for the postal employees and providing better mail service.

In a ceremony at the departmental auditorum Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson also gave to President Johnson an album of stamps issued since Johnson became a congressman in 1937.

In his reply, Johnson thanked the 740,000 postal employees for devotion to duty.

FBI Agent Found Shot To Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The body of an FBI agent was found shot to death in a parking courtyard of the Justice Department today. Authorities said he apparently committed suicide.

The FBI identified the man as Special Agent Thomas Elrod, 35, Woodbridge, Va. He was assigned to the FBI Laboratory in the Justice Department building.

There were said to be indications Elrod might have shot himself and then plunged out an eighth floor window.

Illinois Court Stays Speck's Execution

CHICAGO (AP) — The electrocution of Richard Speck, 27, for murdering eight student nurses was stayed today by the Illinois Supreme Court pending possible future action by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Jan. 21 had been set as the date for execution.

Developer's Daughter Is Kidnaped

ATLANTA (UPI)—An Emory University co-ed, the daughter of a wealthy Miami real estate executive, was kidnaped from a motel room today by a man with a shotgun who identified himself as a policeman.

The gunman tied up Mrs. Jane Mackie, mother of Barbara Jane Mackie, 20 then fled with the girl, a darkhaired beauty who is a junior at the Atlanta school.

The FBI refused to discuss the case, but officers swarmed around a motel on the edge of the Emory campus throughout the morning.

Motel employees were ordered not to discuss the case as were employes of the Deltona Corp. in Miami. The girl's father, Robert F. Mackie, 57, is secretary-treasurer of Deltona, vast land development company.

Mrs. Mackie was apparently unhurt by the gunman. Officers said Mrs. Mackie admitted a man to her room after he identified himself as a policeman. He immediately trained his shotgun on the women, tied up the mother and took the girl away.

Soviets Launch Another Cosmos

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today the launching of an unmanned earth satellite in its Cosmos series with an orbit ranging from 24,591 miles above the earth down to 310 miles.

Tass said that Cosmos 260, launched yesterday was circling the earth once every 11 hours and 52 minutes.

Nixon Still Planning To Appoint Democrat United Nations Envoy

NEW YORK (UPI)—President-elect Richard M. Nixon will name the man who will serve as his ambassador to the United Nations later in the week, it was announced today.

The individual, according to press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, will be a Democrat.

Last Wednesday when he unveiled his cabinet, Nixon promised that he would choose a Democrat for the post. His aides said the announcement would be coming "within the immediate days."

R. Sargent Shriver, currently U.S. ambassador to France and previously director of the anti-poverty program under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations had been considered the most likely choice, but the relatively long delay in making the announcement has raised speculation Nixon may now be looking elsewhere.

Ziegler was peppered with questions by reporters wanting to know whether Nixon had changed his view on Senate ratification of the nuclear proliferation treaty. During the campaign Nixon said he favored the treaty but felt that the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia had changed the situation and the United States should not ratify it while Soviet troops are in Czechoslovakia.

However, yesterday, following a Nixon meeting with GOP congressional leaders, Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois indicated he would support ratification if President Johnson asked the Senate to act on the pact between the outset of the 91rd Congress Jan. 3 and Nixon's inauguration Jan. 20.

"Mr. Nixon will not be stating a position on foreign or domestic issues before Jan. 20 and this includes the non-proliferation treaty," Ziegler said.

Humphrey Son's Engagement Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The engagement of Douglas S. Humphrey, youngest son of Vice President and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, and Jan Irene Thompson was announced today by her mother, Mrs. McDonald Thompson of East Tawas, Mich.

Miss Thompson, 21, attended the University of Minnesota for the last three years and now is taking a law course at the Minnesota School of Business in Minneapolis.

Humphrey, 20, is a junior at Hamline University in St. Paul.

No date has been set for the wedding.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Warns Students

PARIS (AP) — With student unrest on the rise again in France, Premier Maurice Couve de Murville said last night the government will tolerate no more university sit-ins.

Four hours after France's largest student organization called for a nationwide class boycott, Couve de Murville asked in a television address for students, teachers and the government to work together.

"Contention must be ended," he declared. "This signifies that politics has no place in the high schools. This signifies that first of all no occupation will be tolerated in the universities."

The student strike call was not considered a serious threat to public order since the Christmas holidays are about to begin. But new campus control measures touched off first fights and other confrontations between students and police.

Quads Again

IMPERIA, Italy (AP) — A 28-year-old woman whose first set of quadruples died at birth a year ago gave birth to four more babies today. One died.

The other three were reported in good condition by doctors at the Villa Rosana Clinic. The mother, Maria Columbu Gariano, wife of a policeman, was reported well.

The couple had expected three babies, and had chosen names for two boys and a girl.

Two boys and two girls were born. One of the girls died.

$10,000 Reward

MONTREAL (AP) — The city of Montreal is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of bomb terrorists and is challenging the Quebec Federation of Labor and the Confederation of National Trade Unions to match the sum.

Fifty-five bombs, most of them sticks of dynamite attached to timing devices, have either exploded or been found in the Montreal area in the past seven months.

70 Pins Back

CHICAGO (AP) — A Sears, Roebuck and Co. spokesman said yesterday about 70 jewelry pins garnished with deadly beans and sold by Sears across the nation have been returned.

But some 200 to 330 of the pins decorated with the extremely toxic jequirity beans still have not been brought back, he said.

Electoral College Makes It Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Electoral College has made it official—Richard M. Nixon will be the 37th president of the United States.

And many of the 538 members who cast their ballots yesterday also made something else clear—they think the college is outdated.

Balloting by the college went pretty much according to script as members met in the 50 state capitals and District of Columbia to fulfill the tasks voters chose them for Nov. 5.

There were exceptions in North Carolina and Michigan that left Nixon with 301 votes instead of 302, Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey wound up with the expected 191, and George Wallace, the third party presidential candidate, got one more than originally expected with 46.

In North Carolina, Dr. Lloyd W. Bailey of Rocky Mount, jumped the tracks and cast his ballot for Wallace while the other 12 electors voted for Nixon.

"The Electoral College is one part of the system of checks and balances which guarantees that the minority voice can be heard," said Bailey.

In Michigan, former Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency, something of a political maverick, refused to cast his ballot for Humphrey who had won the state's 21 votes. The other electors picked a replacement to keep the delegation's Humphrey vote intact.

The U.S. Constitution technically allows the electors to vote for any candidate they choose. But tradition dictates, and some state laws demand, that the electors follow the result of the popular vote in their respective states.

There were some other minor foulups.

North Carolina's electors found themselves without someone to administer an oath and it was more than an hour past the appointed time when they finally dug up a judge.

Modern Americana stalled the New York session at Albany when one bloc of electors got delayed in a stackup of commuter trains and the man who was supposed to preside was delayed when his flight got held up at crowded Kennedy International Airport.

The New York Democrats finally cast their ballots for Humphrey in the afternoon after eating lunch on the state's Republican administration—a fact they gleefully noted.

Reagan Sees Elector Rule As Outmoded

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan and other California presidential electors agree the current Electoral College system is too old-fashioned for jet-age politics.

"I think some correction could be made," Reagan told newsmen yesterday after joining 39 other California electors in officially casting the state's electoral votes for native-son Rchard M. Nixon.

Following the requirements of the 164-year-old 12th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, the electors met in the State Senate chamber, went through a half hour of necessary bookkeeping and filled out ballots showing they favored Nixon, who carried the state over Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey by 233,000 votes out of more than 7 million cast in the Nov. 5 election.

All that kept it from being a routine day was a minor traffic crash. A bus carring about 30 of the electors to a luncheon at the Cal Expo site was hit in the side by an auto.

U.S. Leading Major Push On Red Fort

SAIGON (UPI)—About 7,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops today attacked a Communist jungle mountain fortress threatening Da Nang, the nation's second largest city. First reports said they killed at least 123 guerrillas and captured 41 suspects.

It was reported from the battle zone that Leathernecks and South Vietnanese troops engaged in Operation Taylor were using saws and machetes to chop their way through steaming, sun-blocking jungle to reach the Red fortress. Today they fought at the fortresses' outer defenses.

KEPT A SECRET

Allied commanders ordered the drive Dec. 7. But they kept it secret while some 3,000 Leathernecks wheeled down from South Vietnam's northern border to join the drive into the triple canopy jungles 25 miles southwest of Da Nang, the bastion city 30 miles up the coast from Saigon.

U.S. spokesmen said 18 Marines have been killed and 73 wounded in the fighting. The battle zone is 15 miles southwest of a Red stronghold called "Dodge City" where allied forces killed 1,025 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese earlier this month in the war's largest jungle dragnet operation.

LOWLAND POST

The Communist mountain fortress commands the lowlands—called "Arizona territory" by the GIs—that leads into Da Nang, a city of 347,000 persons.

Allied warplanes literally blew off the tops of nearby hills to clear the way for the American artillery batteries that, in the final analysis, have proved the death of previous Red fortresses in South Vietnam's northern provinces.

Saigon Holding Firm On Talk Table Shape

PARIS (AP) — The Saigon government's negotiators in Paris say they will yield no further in the dispute over the shape of the table for the Vietnam peace talks.

The South Vietnamese delegation "has gone far enough" and "cannot diverge from the formula of a two-sided conference," delegation officials said.

Saigon's view on the procedural dispute holding up the peace parley was conveyed again to the Americans last night at a dinner session of the top allied negotiators: U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and his deputy, Cyrus R. Vance; South Vietnam's Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Ambassador Pham Dang Lam.

Earlier yesterday Ky issued a sharp denial of U.S. Defense Secretary Frank M. Clifford's implication that Saigon was much to blame for the continuing delay in the start of the conference. He said ever since Clifford succeeded Robert S. McNamara, "Secretary Clifford has shown a gift for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time."

The new chief of the Viet Cong delegation, Tran Buu Kiem, censured both the United States and South Vietnam equally upon his arrival from Hanoi yesterday.

Preparations for the meeting are "being dragged out by the delaying tactics of the United States and the Saigon administration," he told 300 cheering welcomers at the airport. Kiem is considered the foreign minister of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The shape of the table at which the negotiators will sit is the focal issue in the quarrel over arrangements for the conference because the shape will symbolize status.

New Purge Expected In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's military-dominated government is expected to launch a sweeping purge stripping hundreds of its opponents of their political rights, as a result of President Arthur de Costa Silva's first major speech since the suspension of Congress last Friday.

The president told the graduating class of the army staff school and top military leaders last night that the housecleaning undertaken following the 1964 revolution "unfortunately" had not been completed.

Catholic Theologians Ask Six Vatican Curia Reforms

ZURICH, SWITZERLAND (AP) — Some 40 internationally known Roman Catholic theologians stated today that the teaching authority of the Pope and his bishops must not impede the theologian's scientific task.

The group, which included at least one scholar whose teachings are under investigation by the Vatican, warned that "any form of inquisition" would cause immeasurable damage to the church.

The theologians petitioned Pope Paul VI to make six major reforms in the Vatican Curia, the central administration of the church. Among them was retirement of cardinals on reaching 75.

The petititon was published by the Neue Zuercher Zeitung, which said it originated in Nijmegen, Holland, and soon would be printed in Concilium, an international review of theology.

Signers included leading progressive theologians, among them Prof. Eduard Schillebeeck of Nijmegen, Hans Kueng of Switzerland, Karl Rahner of West Germany, M.D. Chenu and Yves Congar of Paris, and John McKenzie and Ronald Murphy of the United States.

Progressives at the Vatican reported in September that the conservative-dominated Congregaton for the Doctrine of the Faith, the former Holy Office, was preparing a heresy trial against Prof. Schillebeeckx, a Dominican father who is theological adviser to the Dutch Catholic bishops. The Vatican, however, said there would be no trial.

Old Del Mar Hotel Declared Nuisance

DEL MAR (AP) — The 120-room Del Mar hotel, once-glamorous setting for gala parties of movie stars and socialities during the horse race season, is a public nuisance, city officials said yesterday.

The city says most windows now are broken, there have been 20 small fires in recent months, and it wants the church organization that owns it to board up windows and install a guard.

Rohnert Park Center Work Stalled By Rain

Heavy rains have slowed construction on the Rohnert Park Community and Recreation Center and will delay its opening by at least a month, the city council learned last night.

Originally planned to open Jan. 1, the center will not be completed now until the end of the month, construction officials reported. They said weather conditions will govern the progress since roofing has been scheduled for this time period.

Vice Mayor Jimmie Rodgers is establishing a committee to plan official dedication. The council last night also approved a progress payment of $15,636 to project architect Larry Simons.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

TEEN-AGERS — Considered in closed session the appointment of teen-agers to vacancies on the park and recreation commission and the cultural arts commission. Robert Daggett, principal of Rancho Cotate High School, had submitted the names of three students.

SALARIES — Approved monthly salary raises from $950 to $1,025 for C. A. Wiggins, director of public works, and Bradley Koch, public safety director, effective Jan. 1.

CATV — Adopted ordinance establishing basic rate for cable television service at $4.70 per month with Storer Cable TV, Inc.

DANCES — Introduced for study an ordinance requiring licensing and regulation of dances and dances halls as requested by Koch.

PLAQUE — Presented plaque of appreciation to Dr. Donald Davis for six years' service as chairman of the parks and recreation commission. Davis resigned Nov. 4.

PAYMENT — Approved final payment of $1,993 to Northwestern Pacific Railroad for construction of a grade crossing at Wilfred Avenue. Total project cost was $12,378.

GOLF COURSE DRIVE — Approved payment of $1,505 for soils engineering inspection fee on Golf Course Drive.

POOL RATES — Cut rates in half for entrance to the Benecia swimming pool for the month of December. If patronage requires, the pool will be kept open on a year-round basis.

Execution Slated For Sonoma Man

RENO (AP) — Washoe Dist. Judge John Barrett has set Jan. 13 for the execution of a 24-year-old Sebastopol man convicted of murder in 1962 and scheduled four times to die in Nevada's gas chamber.

Barrett scheduled the execution date yesterday for Lester E. Morford III after refusing to rule on a petition by a defense attorney asking that Morford's guilty plea be withdrawn and the State Supreme Court name a three-judge panel to reconsider the case.

Morford had been sentenced to die by a three-judge panel after he pleaded guilty Aug. 22, 1962, to a charge of murder in the slaying of Jack Foster, 23, of Medford, Ore.

But execution has been delayed by a variety of unsuccessful appeals, three of them which reached the U.S. Supreme Court. Morford testified in the 1962 trial he was intoxicated from model airplane glue when the incident occurred.

College Boosters To Plan Drive

The board of directors of the College of Marin Foundation will hold a planning meeting for the 1969 scholarship and loan fund drive at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Fine Arts Building, Ernest N. Ketterhoffen, second vice-president, said.

Drive chairman J. Galen Foster of San Rafael and his co-chairmen, Donald L. Johnson of Novato and Edwin Johnson of San Rafael, are expected to outline the campaign's methods and objectives. The campaign is slated to start early next year.

Foundation funds go for scholarships, short term emergency loans and matching funds for National Defense student loans.

Bigger Planning Voice On Agenda

A committee-approved plan giving the Marin City Council and Marin City Community Services District a greater planning voice will be heard when the Marin County Redevelopment Agency meets at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at Manzanita Center in Marin City.

A coordinating committee representing the agency, council and district last week approved a plan to have the council and district meet to study any plans for development of a nine-acre commercial site in Marin City before the plan comes to the redevelopment agency.

The agency will also consider several questions presented earlier by the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association about legality of giving planning power to the council and other community organizations.

The Marin County Housing Authority will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Manzanita Center to consider a proposed county election in April to authorize more than the present 200 units of senior citizens' housing in Marin.

Innocent Pleas To Growing Marijuana

Suzanne Ziegler, 21, and William Kreutzmann Jr., 22, both of Nicasio, pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge they gew marijuana at their residence Sept. 18.

Jury trial for the couple was set for the week of April 7.

Board Lets Pupils Decide Skirt Length

The Tomales Bay School District board last night left the length of girl's dresses in the school's dress code up to the student council, according to Supt. Ralph E. Nixon.

The student council met this morning and decided that the dresses should not be more than five inches above the floor when the girl is in a kneeling position, Nixon said.

"By this action, the board let the students set their own code and gave them a chance to put democracy into action," Nixon said.

The Tomales Bay School District board also:

APPLICATIONS — The board authorized Nixon to apply for $200 in library book funds from the federal government and $3,000 for matching funds for audio-visual materials from the National Defense Education Act funds.

BLOOMFIELD — Decided not to sell the approximately two acres of the Bloomfield School property at this time. This is the playing grounds across the street from the school building. The district has sold the building.

CREDIT CARDS — Approved the use of credit cards for making telephone calls. This action was necessitated because it constitutes a contract and must be approved by the board, according to Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell.

ATTENDANCE — Heard a report from Nixon that the average daily attendance this year was 237, compared to 210 last year.

Sewer Districts Merger Sought By Bay Board

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A March deadline for the Bolinas Community Public Utility District and the Stinson Beach County Water District to conclude arrangements for a merger will be considered by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Alameda County Board of Supervisors chambers, 1221 Oak Street.

The regional board long has tried to stop the Bolinas district from dumping raw sewage into the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon, and has been encouraging merger of the two districts to seek a joint solution of their sewage problems.

The deadline would be enforced by imposing a cease and desist order to stop the Bolinas district from dumping into the lagoon.

The item is number 27 on the board agenda, and probably will not be covered until late in the day, according to a spokesman for the district.

Novato Planners Vote For Mobile Home Law

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved an ordinance establishing standards for mobile home parks within the city.

The ordinance will go before the city council Jan. 14, according to Planning Director Brian W. Mattson.

Some of the standards set were: a minimum of 20 acres per park with a maximum density of seven units per acre and a minimum lot size of 3,000 square feet. Parking should be provided for two cars per unit with guest parking as required by the plan review committee, according to the standards.

The ordinance also required a green belt, underground utilities and storage facilities.

Other items which may be included in the park are offices; park maintenance workshop; coin operated laundry and dry cleaning facilities, vending machines inside the community building, recreation and meeting halls, storage facilities and car wash facilities.

The ordinance calls for a minimum of 50 spaces ready for occupancy before any mobile home may be moved into the park. The wheels of the mobile home should be concealed either with fencing or grading.

Meeting Not Held

The Marin City Target Area Board did not meet last night for lack of a quorum. The board will meet at 8 p.m. Jan. 6 in the Manzanita Center, secretary Reba Mason said.

San Anselmo Planners Vote For Apartments

The vote came on motion of Commissioner Wilbur H. Tusler Jr. and was backed by Commissioners John F. West and Joseph Gue. Dissenting, saying density would be too high, were Commissioners Allen J. Creighton and Philip S. Heinecke.

The commission Dec. 9 gave tentative approval of the application, by Emily Merriman, to rezone her property from single family to planned development for the apartment project. She had asked for 24 units, but agreed to cut two units, and also agreed to dedicate frontage on Madrone and Center Boulevard for street widening.

The commission approved 33 parking spaces for the project, with 31 to be provided first and two others at a later date.

The application now goes to the city council for consideration.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

PARKING — Denied the application of Andrew Stafford to provide three instead of four parking spaces at an apartment building at 188 Tunstead Avenue.

VARIANCE — Granted Stella A. Ehrenfelt a four foot and a six-foot sideyard setback variance for rebuilding a house at 33 Scenic Avenue.

ACCESS — Agreed to recommend to the city council that Center Boulevard be made a limited access street from Madrone Avenue to Fairfax. This would prevent driveway access on Center from new residences.

PUBLIC HEARING — Scheduled a public hearing for 8 p.m. Dec. 30 at city hall for proposed widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from a 60-foot right-of-way to 64 feet from San Francisco Boulevard to Butterfield Road.

Lagunitas Board Drafts Guides For The Future

Lagunitas School District board members last night agreed to draw up lists of guidelines they believe should be included in a handbook for future boards, Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff reported today.

Agreement followed a review of the building program for the San Geronimo Valley Elementary School, McCunniff said. The school opened last month.

John Winn of the state Department of School Planning attended last night's meeting to discuss his department's role in planning school construction, McCunniff said.

The superintendent reported Winn said the department is available for consultation in the early planning stages on what is needed in a district; and for approval of plans, especially on facilities using state funds.

Burglars Invade Homes For $1,850

Two residential burglaries that netted the thieves an estimated $1,850 worth of loot were committed in Sausalito yesterday, police reported.

Robert G. Perring of 178 Glen Drive told police burglars entered between 7:30 a.m. and 7:50 p.m. and took stereo equipment valued at $1,000.

At 39 Cable Roadway, home of Harold T. Treacy, thieves pried open a dutch door between 1:30 and 7:50 p.m. and took $850 worth of assorted loot including a polar bear rug, a hood ornament from a 1924 Chrysler, an antique silver and brass shoe, three watches, two pairs of binoculars and a radio.

Woman Injured In Viaduct Accident

Gertrude McNamara, 48, of 85 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a cut forehead and cut right leg after the car she rode in hit the side rail of the San Rafael viaduct on Highway 101, the California Highway Patrol said.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her daughter, Marilyn C. McNamara, 18, of the same address. The accident occurred at 7:20 p.m., the highway patrol said, when Miss McNamara drove around a curve to find a stalled car blocking the left lane. She braked and slid into the rail. The stalled car drove away before the driver was identified.

Girl Is Struck In Parking Lot

Sandra Marcelli, 18, of 285 Orange Blossom Lane, Terra Linda, suffered back and elbow injuries early today when struck by a car in the driveway of the Greenbrae Lanes, 101 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Larkspur, police said.

She was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Officers said Miss Marcelli was preparing to enter a car at 1:15 a.m. when a car, driven by Keith L. Ray, 18, of 2 Meadowcraft Drive, San Anselmo, struck her. No citation was immediately issued, officers said.

Haugton was joined yesterday by another mediator, Samuel Jackson, a Negro director of the Disputes Settlement Center of the American Arbitration Association. He was scheduled to meet tomorrow with a special citizens' committee appointed by Mayor Joseph Alioto.

The AFT has threatened to take nearly one-fourth of the school's 1,100 faculty members out on strike when classes resume unless school officials meet a series of demands handed down by the Black Students Union and the Third World Liberation Front.

The demands include speedy implementation of a Department of Black Studies, firing of a white financial aid councellor and her replacement with a Negro, and restoration of suspended Black Panther George Murray to a position as an English instructor.

Leaders of the student strike—which began Nov. 6 and ultimately led to a massive show of police force on campus held a City Hall rally yesterday and vowed to continue the strike if their demands for more benefits for minorities are not met.

The BSU and the Third World Liberation Front representing non - Negro minority students have demanded establishment of a School of Ethnic Studies over which they would have control.

At San Mateo, the campus branch of the same two minority student groups want more ethnic courses and more financing for them.

A hastily formed organization called United Students for Order circulated petitions calling for an end to "student apathy to violence and intimidation and destruction of public property."

The petitions ask the removal from campus (San Mateo) of any person who attempt to "agitate and disrupt."

"We will be prepared for any trouble that might arise," said Robert Ewigleben, president of the 8,500-student college.

Ewigleben also disclosed yesterday that two persons most instrumental in the college's readiness program have bene relieved of their duties.

They were identified as Robert Hoover, director of the special tutorial and counseling program offered to students inadequately prepared for college level instruction, and Jean Wirth, a counselor in the program.

Ewigleben said Hoover and Miss Wirth would be reassigned to other duties in the San Mateo Junior College Disirict.

Hoover was one of the speakers at the noon rally held on campus Friday that touched off the rioting which resulted in injuries to 12 and $15,000 in campus damage.

Highway Bully Trouble Reported

A Santa Rosa family said a carload of five young men terrorized them Sunday as they drove from Rohnert Park to Petaluma on Highway 101.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Olson said the 1965 Oldsmobile followed them closely on the highway, with the driver blinking headlights and sounding the horn. When Olson pulled over to the side of the road, he said the five men began pounding on the car in a threatening manner.

Continuing south on the freeway, Olson went to a service station at Petaluma, where his wife, Cora, tried to telephone police. She said four of the men followed her into the station office.

She said they tore the phone from her hands, ripped the cord loose and struck her in the left eye. When her husband came to her rescue, the men fled.

Rescuers Eluded In Bridge Jump

A Daly City man leaped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday afternoon, eluding efforts to two men to seize him as he climbed the rail, the California Highway Patrol said.

The Coast Guard recovered the body of Edwin W. Mann, 61, an operating engineer, from the water at 3:19 p.m., 12 minutes after Mann stopped his car near the south tower and jumped.

The highway patrol said Jeremy G. Godbeer of Oakland and an unidentified passerby tried to stop Mann but he evaded them, climbed the railing and jumped.

He is survived by his wife, Blanche E. Mann of Daly City.

Forest Knolls Man Hears Weapon Count

Louis Fred Cisco, 25, of 175 Resaca Avenue, Forest Knolls, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two charges of misdemeanor battery and one of brandishing a firearm for allegedly forcing two bill collectors for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. from his home Friday and striking them with the barrel of a .30-30-caliber rifle.

He was to plead to the charges today in Municipal Court.

Held To Answer

Ronald D. Russell, 32, of no fixed address, was held to answer in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge he possessed marijuana in two suitcases when arrested in Mill Valley July 24. He was told to answer the charge Dec. 30 in Superior Court.

Goldstein Denies Houseboat Claim

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. yesterday turned back a challenge by houseboat owners of Marin Municipal Court's jurisdiction over the floating homes.

Attorney Carl Shapiro, representing two houseboat dwellers who face criminal charges for failure to apply for occupancy permits, had contended that the boats were under the sole jurisdiction of the federal government.

Court Date Set

John L. Messengale, 27, of Larkspur, was held to answer in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of stealing cars in Sausalito Sept. 28 and in Larkspur Sept. 15. He was ordered to appear in Superior Court Dec. 30 to answer the charges

Lawmakers Propose Superagency For Bay

such as Marin may fear they will not have an effective voice in a regional government, Knox said the proposal "will provide a better way of protecting everyone. We'll have to be united by our problems, which themselves are regional."

Knox said the legislative analyst's office estimated the cost of running a regional government at $1.5 million to $3 million a year.

Knox noted that the proposed regional government would have no power of eminent domain.

He also said the Bay Conservation and Development Commission should continue regulating bay fill until some form of regional government is set up in the Bay Area. The commission is scheduled to go out of business in late 1969.

The regional government would cover all nine Bay Area counties, and be established by a referendum at the 1970 primary election, according to the proposal by Knox's committee. A majority vote in the area, not in each county, would be necessary to set up the regional government.

Its governing body would be composed of 36 members, directly elected from districts and based on one man, one vote. The population of the districts would not be allowed to vary from the average by more than 15 per cent.

Members of the governing body would serve four-year terms, with 18 members elected every two years. Elections would be nonpartisan, Knox said.

The members would be paid an annual stipend of $6,000, and also receive payments for attendance at board meetings or other official business, for a maximum of $16,000. Travel expenses also would be paid.

Board vacancies would be filled by an election if more than one year of a vacant term remained, and by appointment if less than one year remained.

Officers would include a president, selected by the regional board either from the board or the general public, and a vice president selected by the board from its own members.

There also would be an executive committee, appointed by the regional board, to include the president and six to 10 board members. Five standing committees would be set up to oversee transportation, environmental quality, regional parks and open space, the bay, and public services. The five committees would report their recommendations back to the regional board.

Employees of the regional government would include an administrative officer, treasurer, planning director, attorney, clerk, auditor, and a civil service.

The law setting up the regional government would make the same provisions as in state law for initiative, referendum and recall.

The regional government's duties would include drawing of a general regional plan that would propose "specific regional objectives, policies and standards" for each of the five standing committees. The plan also would "have to include recommendations for specific short-term programs which would accomplish the objectives of the plan," according to Knox.

Local governments would be free to adopt specific local standards for land use and development "so long as they did not conflict with the general standards laid down by the regional government," according to Knox's proposal.

Existing plans by present regional agencies would be used as interim plans until a regional general plan was drawn.

Initially, the regional board would exercise control over the policy and management of other agencies "only where there was a clear regional need for such control," stressed Knox.

Specifically, this control would be exercised in the areas of water quality control and transportation.

Significantly, the regional government would have the authority "to determine the apportionment of state highway funds within the region," according to the Knox proposal.

The regional government also would review all applications for state and federal grants, a function now of the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG).

The proposal for a regional government drawn by ABAG, incidentally, sharply differs from the Knox proposal. ABAG's proposal envisions a regional board composed entirely of county supervisors and city councilmen, while Knox proposes the board be composed entirely of persons elected directly by the voters.

Presumably, the fact that the two proposals are so far apart leaves more room for bargaining when the Legislature considers bills to set up regional government in the Bay Area.

Last, the Knox proposal proposes seven possible sources of revenue: state and federal subventions, income surtax, sales and use taxes, property tax, documentary stamp tax, fees for filling the bay or dumping wastes into the bay, and by both general obligation and revenue bonds.

The joint committee, formed by the 1967 Legislature, is composed of eight Bay Area legislators, including Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael. Given $240,000 for expenses by the Legislature, the committee is to make its final recommendations to the Legislature by March, 1969.

Pupils Play Host To Head Start

Students at Granada Elementary School, Corte Madera, today gave a Christmas program and party for children in the Head Start class at Manzanita School, Marin City.

Carrie Manley, president of the Granada Student Council, said the event was the result of a student suggestion and student planning. Gifts of stuffed animals and Christmas candy were financed by the student council, she said.

The program included a puppet show, "Rudolph the Red Nose Dog," so called because "we didn't have a reindeer," Carrie explained.

Burglary Hearing

Peter Michael Casali, 19, of Novato, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge that he burgled a home in that city Friday night. He was to return to court today to plead to the felony charge.

Spat Causes Damp Auto, Hurt Police

A San Rafael man was arrested last night on suspicion of resisting arrest, striking and biting police officers and disturbing the peace during an incident which started when his wife pushed his car, then unoccupied, into San Rafael canal, police said.

Arthur L. Valentine, 29, of 37 Meadow Drive, was booked into Marin County Jail and later released on $750 bail.

Valentine is accused of pushing Patrolman David H. Jones, kneeing Jones in the groin and also biting Patrolman Sherwin W. Hool's left arm during a melee after Jones arrested Valentine on suspicion of disturbing the peace.

The San Rafael Fire Department reported to police that at 8:30 p.m. a car was submerged in the canal outside Pete's Pier 15 bar, 15 Harbor Street. Shortly, Jones responded to a complaint about a disturbance in the bar, but didn't fnd any.

Jones instead found Valentine standing by the canal. Valentine told the officer that hs wife pushed his Volkswagen into the water, but also demanded that Jones leave the scene.

After the Valentines argued outside the bar, Jones arrested Valentine for disturbing the peace. The melee ensued before Valentine gave himself up.

Valentine was ordered to remove the car today from the canal. He will appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Revised Plans For Medians Approved

Revised landscape plans for the Miller and East Blithedale avenues median strips were approved last night by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, secretary Jeanne McLean reported.

Committee members were "very pleased" with the plans, Mrs. McLean said. The plans had been revised by landscape architect Eldon Beck after the committee last month critized them as "showing a lack of restraint."

Committee members also asked the staff to investigate the possibility of the city landscaping the island at the south end of Miller Avenue adjacent to Tamalpais High School.

The Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committe also:

SYCAMORE AVENUE — Asked that plans for access to the new middle school from Sycamore Avenue extension be restudied by architects and staff.

FOTOMAT — Declared that the intensity of lighting at the Fotomat stand in the Purity Market parking lot should be reduced.

STREET LIGHTING — Asked a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. representative and City Engineer Stanley M. Bala to discuss Miller Avenue street lighting at the Jan. 6 meeting.

PLAN REVIEW — Continued to Jan. 6 plan review for apartments at 181 Miller Avenue.

Petaluman Reports Garage Is Looted

Mrs. Joel Miller of 6 Payran Street, Petaluma, reported to police yesterday the theft of $608 worth of equipment from the garage of her home between Oct. 6 and Oct. 12.

Taken were three stereo speakers, a saxophone and case, a portable television clock radio and a tool box.

Butterball - Capri

Equally delightful — broiled, BBQ or on the rotisserie. One 3 to 3½ lb Butterball, ½ cup soy sauce; 3 tblsp. cooking sherry; 1 tsp. Italian seasoning; ¼ tsp. coarse ground pepper; ½ tsp. Monosodium Glutamate (½ tsp. garlic powder, optional). Place all ingredients in a glass bowl, mix well. Place butterball in the marinade and turn so that all sides are coated. Let stand at room temperature 2 to 3 hours turning occasionally. Broil or BBQ at high heat 3 to 4 inches from heat source. Turn so that all sides get a nice crusty brown, approximately 30 to 35 minutes. Serve on a preheated platter, carve in diagonal slices ¼ inch thick. If cooked on a rotisserie, cook at high heat until meat thermometer registers doneness. Serves 4 to 6 people. Serve with a Paul Masson Burgundy.

Northgate Woes, Loitering Law Rebuke Prompt Study

San Rafael City Council, faced with a court ruling against the city's trespass ordinance and Northgate merchants seeking action, called last night for study on a new law.

Merchants renewed their complaints about drug traffic, drag racing, profanity, various forms of vandalism and shoplifting and the Northgate Shopping Center.

Councilman John A. Miskimen said, "It's obvious to me that Northgate is the pit of crime in San Rafael," but other councilmen contended there was more crime in East San Rafael.

Miskimen sought to establish the need for more police protection in the Northgate area, but Asst. Police Chief Joseph Brusatori said it would require more police officers.

Councilmen and merchants expressed frustration at a ruling last week by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court that the city's ordinance, designed to protect merchants, was unconstitutional.

City Atty. David J. Menary Jr. said he has appealed the judge's ruling, and councilmen agreed that the city should continue to apply the ordinance.

The council bypassed action on a proposed ordinance which would prohibit "loafing or loitering upon any commercial property without the consent of the person in charge thereof."

Menary admitted that it wouldn't cover "just hanging around," and that courts interpret "loafing or loitering to bear a sinister or wrongful interpretation."

Richard Less, representing owners of the center, suggested that the city consider the area as public property, a move he felt would give police "more ability to act." He said the intent is not to discriminate on the basis of dress or long hair, but "to get rid of the people who cause the damage and loss of customers."

Councilman Louis H. Baar said the council's intent is to protect the area and councilmen willing to enact any ordinance that will help.

Attorney Frank Solomon of 18 Professional Center Parkway noted there was a kidnapping last week at Northgate and said, "I think the law isn't being enforced as written."

He said the proposed loitering ordinance was vague and suggested that any new ordinance "should be addressed to specific activities."

The council authorized Solomon to get together with Menary and draw up a new ordinance for their approval.

Baar said, "I think harassment, if that's the proper word, is the motivating force to move people to other areas."

He contended that the problem went beyond the "If you think you have problems, you should see what blems, you should see what goes on at the beaches in West Marin," he said. "It's gotten to the point where people can't take children, even if they're 21, to the beaches anymore."

One merchant claimed the "problem is juvenile authorities." He said one youth was taken in for carrying a concealed weapon, "but in 20 minutes was back out and never brought to trial. The younger ones are the problem; nothing happens to them."

The current law permits business owners to make arrests if persons refuse to leave after being given an order, but councilmen conceded that people don't like to make a citizens arrest and there is a risk involved.

Eric Colby, publisher of the Terra Linda News, asked at one point, "If we have adequate protection, why are we having so many problems."

One merchant said a police officer had an opportunity to make an arrest, and didn't. Brusatori said he would investigate that incident.

'IN GOOD HANDS'

Supervisor-Elect Baar Bids Farewell To Council

San Rafael City Councilman Louis H. Baar, who will be joining the Marin County Board of Supervisors next month, left his council seat early today after 11 years' service.

It was 12:15 a.m. and the council chambers were virtually empty when Baar said farewell to fellow council members, noting that "the city is in real good hands."

He reviewed the accomplishments of the city in the past 11 years . . . "new city hall . . . no bonded indebtedness . . . reduced tax rate," and praised the city staff.

He was given a standing ovation from the council, staff and few remaining members of the audience.

The council, which has the task of appointing Baar's successor, received a letter from another candidate for the post, John J. Adams of 87 Marinita Avenue, a member of the city planning commission.

Baar announced that James Dougan of 40 Knoll Road, a candidate for council appointment, asked to be removed from the list.

Then Baar moved that Dougan, East Marin general manager of his campaign for supervisor in the Fourth District, be appointed to the city planning commission to succeed Carl S. Brown, who resigned after 11 years because he is moving from San Rafael.

The council voted 3-2 against appointing Dougan last night, but said this didn't put him out of consideration since they wanted to wait before making the appointment. Baar and Fred E. Jensen voted to appoint Dougan.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said there was another applicant and the council wants other interested persons to apply for the commission post. "I think we should give ample opportunity. There's no rush," he said.

The council said the other applicant for the commission was Louis M. Della Valle of 67 Arguello Circle, general manager of Shamrock Materials Co. of San Rafael.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

HORSE PERMIT — Heard a protest from Edward K. Wachsman of 50 Palm Drive about revocation of his permit to keep horses in his yard, and advised him that he must take his protest to Dr. Harry O. Hund, city health officer, who made the ruling.

HOUSING RULES — Denied a request from the Mexican-American Political Association to waive its two-year residency requirement to qualify for leasing housing in San Rafael for a newly-arrived family that faces eviction by the end of this year.

COURTHOUSE — Passed a resolution expressing its interest in developing parking facilities at Courthouse Square in downtown San Rafael and its intent to cooperate with Marin County in development of the square. Bettini said the resolution was designed to aid the county in its efforts to sell the courthouse site.

ABATEMENT — Filed a 30-day notice to abate a carriage house at the rear of the main dwelling at 1623 Fifth Avenue, considered a fire hazard.

FRINGE BENEFITS — Gave first approval to an ordinance to extend hospital and medical benefits to elected officials, including council members, on a 4-1 vote with John Miskimen dissenting.

DIRT — Adopted an ordinance amending the city building code to make contractors responsible for mud or loose dirt left on city streets by persons working for them.

CURB MARKINGS — Adopted an ordinance making white zones valid only when theaters, restaurants or other public assembly places are open and limiting green zones to federal, state, county or municipal buildings only.

ABANDONMENT — Passed a resolution of intention to abandon portions of McCoy Road and Bret Harte Road and set a public hearing for Jan. 6 at 8 p.m.

SIGN DENIAL — Upheld planning commission denial of a request by Ray Willits for a sign at 807 Francisco Boulevard for a proposed automotive business at 16 Medway Road. The vote was 3-1 with Jensen dissenting. Baar arrived too late to vote.

SEWER EXTENSION — Granted a two-month extension until March 1, 1969, for completion of sewer relocation in connection with widening of Highway 101.

REGIONAL PARK — Postponed discussion on San Anselmo's proposal for a regional park covering the Sorich Ranch property, unincorporated area and 120 acres in the Terra Linda section of San Rafael after a brief outline of plans from Parks and Recreation Director Andrew Snyder.

FALSE ARREST — Denied a false arrest claim by Michael Kielman of San Rafael, who contended he was falsely detained at the police station Nov. 23. Asst. Police Chief Joseph Brusatori explained that Kielman was detained while police checked to determine if a warrant for him was outstanding, but it turned out that the warrant had been served.

PERSONNEL — Approved hiring of Dale Palmer as a groundsman at $525 a month and Gary J. Mordue as a police cadet at $390 a month.

SYNANON — Received a request from Synanon Inc. to solicit in the city, and noted that a permit was not required, but advised that solicitors carry identification.

San Rafael Wants Consultant On Lease-Purchase Golf Course

San Rafael City Council agreed last night to have a consultant make a feasibility study before committing the city to a 40-year lease program for a municipal golf course.

As proposed the San Rafael Municipal Facilities Corp., a nonprofit group, would construct the $1.3 million, 18-hole golf course on Smith Brothers Ranch north of Gallinas Creek and lease it back to the city.

Councilman Louis H. (Bud) Baar urged that the city have a study by a disinterested, unbiased consultant, as it did when the new city hall was constructed.

With the city's obligation to be "in the neighborhood of $3 million," buying an impartial study "would be money well spent," Baar said.

As planned the revenue from the golf course would be used to meet the lease payments, $99,000 a year starting in the fifth year. At the end of 40 years the city would own the land and the course.

Councilman Fred E. Jensen, noting, however, that the city would be responsible for the lease payments if course revenues were low, said the proposal should be put to a vote of the people. "I believe the people should have a say. This would be the largest undertaking the city has undertaken."

"We didn't subject city hall to a vote," said Baar.

"We had the money then, and didn't tie up the city in a 40-year lease," replied Jensen.

Baar said development along Gallinas Creek eventually could include a swimming pool, tennis courts and boating facilities.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said a golf course offered potential for attracting other development in the area such as a marina. "I feel this is a wonderful idea," he said.

Charles A. McPhee of Schwabacher-Frey and Co. of San Francisco, municipal financial consultants, said the study presented to the council in October was "based on objectivity."

Baar said the council "should hear from different consultants on problems and costs" and getting another report "would only be fair for the people we represent."

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen submitted a report on other municipal golf courses in the Bay Area, and noted "all reported they were making money."

Jensen noted that Andersen's report listed only income and not expenses.

Courses at Walnut Creek and Livermore have been constructed by nonprofit financing, but one just opened and the other is not yet open so no figures were available, Andersen reported.

The revenues listed were San Mateo, $282,946; Oakland, $188,000, San Leandro, $83,000, Palo Alto, $198,724, Roseville, $124,500, and Alameda $216,000.

In the initial study, William Sherman, golf course specialist of San Rafael, estimated that San Rafael income from green fees, electric carts, golf shop and snack bar would total $182,450 in the first year of operation, 1971, and reach $309,950 by 1979. He also estimated then that operating costs would be $145,000 a year.

Councilmen authorized San Rafael Municipal Facilities Corp. to apply to the Internal Revenue Service to have the proposed financing bonds ruled tax-exempt. Jensen dissented.

The corporation also will draw up a proposed lease form, with terms left blank for IRS review, but Andersen stressed this wouldn't commit the city. The city isn't committed until it signs a lease, he said.

Fired Professor Sues For Old Job

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A former San Francisco State college professor who was dismissed from his job more than 18 years ago has filed a superior court suit asking for reinstatement, pension rights and more than $79,000 in back pay.

The action was brought yesterday by Albert E. Monroe, presently executive director of the Southern California American Civil Liberties Union.

Monroe said he was dismissed from the college Nov. 4, 1950, when he refused to sign a loyalty oath. The state Supreme Court declared the loyalty oath unconstitutional last Dec. 21.

Monroe said that he had asked the state college board of trustees to reinstate him to his teaching job as a full professor, but they refused.

Apollo Crewmen Rehearse Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— The three Apollo 8 moon pilots honed their skills in a spaceship trainer today for a mission that navigator James Lovell says "has something new happening all the time."

The countdown for the Christmas journey around the moon was reported clicking off "right on time" toward a Saturday morning blastoff.

"We're in good shape," said a Space Agency spokesman.

Lovell, Frank Borman and William Anders, wearing casual sports clothes, spent most of the morning in an Apollo spacecraft simulator that does virtually everything but fly.

Hallinan On Trial On Campus Sit-In

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The trial of attorney Terence Hallinan on a charge of assaulting a policeman during a San Francisco State College demonstration last May began today before a Superior Court jury of nine men and three women.

Hallinan is accused of attacking patrolman Norbert Gutierrez, one of the officers summoned to evict sit-in demonstrators from the school's administration building May 21.

LEGISLATURE—1969

Law And Order Looms As Bitter Controversy Facing Lawmakers

By CARL INGRAM
(Second of five articles)

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Law and order, a battle-scarred veteran of the election campaign, looms as a bitter and emotion-packed controversy for the 1969 Legislature.

An avalanche of anticrime bills is certain, ranging from tougher penalties for lawbreakers to increased spending in the ghettoes.

Most lawmakers polled by UPI talked of changes in the pornography laws but they indicated little agreement on how to go about it.

The poll indicated Gov. Ronald Reagan's plan to take the politics out of appointment of judges is in serious trouble. It also showed that efforts to repeal the death penalty are doomed to failure.

Most legislation intended to increase criminal penalties has been defested in the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee during recent sessions.

But Republican Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan, a sure-fire bet to replace Democrat Jess M. Unruh as speaker, has pledged to shuffle the committee membership so such legislation will get to the floor for a vote.

Lawmakers indicated strong support for new smut controls but some suggested any such legislation should be restricted to minors and not interfere with the reading habits of adults.

They split almost evenly on support for the governor's "merit plan for judicial selection." But a two-thirds vote in both houses is required for passage. Some Republicans, whose votes Reagan would need, said they oppose it.

The "undecided" lawmakers said they might support the plan if it were revised. None suggested how.

Most legislators, who campaigned for election amidst demands for a crackdown on crime, said they would oppose scrapping capital punishment.

Reagan has said that anti-smut legislation and the judges proposal will be key features of his "Creative Society" legislative package. He advocates retention of the death penalty as a deterrent to crime.

Assemblyman-elect Henry A. Waxman, D - Los Angeles, said he intends to introduce a death penalty repealer.

Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R - Fullerton, called the death penalty a deterrent. He suggested televising executions to other convicts "so they would know first hand what awaits them unless they alter their courses upon release from prison."

For instance, Senate Democratic caucus chairman George R. Moscone, San Francisco, welcomed "reasonable legislation defining and prohibiting" pornography.

But he added: "I would not support a definition broad enough to restrict the right to read matter simply because it is controversial."

Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R - Huntington Beach, said the smut "producer and distributor must be made responsible for control over material to see that it is kept out of minors' hands."

Support for the judges plan, which proposes local screening committees to recommend names of judicial candidates to the governor, was drawn mostly along party lines.

The measure cleared the Senate by a single vote last year but died in the Assembly Judiciary Committee, headed by Republican William Bagley of San Rafael.

Reagan may have hurt chances for approval of the measure during the coming session when he appointed his executive secretary, William P. Clark Jr., to the Superior Court bench in San Luis Obispo County.

Lawyers in San Luis Obispo complained that Reagan failed to heed principles of the judges plan, which he has said he follows even though it is not law.

Some Assembly Republicans who supported the judges bill last year indicated they would not do so in 1969. The lower house is controlled by the GOP 41-39 and the bill would need at least 54 votes for passage.

Personnel Panel To Study Changes

Revision of rules governing the operation of the Marin County Personnel Commission will be discussed by commissioners at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Civic Center.

County Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott said the rules were adopted some 15 years ago, long before the county had a regular personnel staff.

Elliott will also report on procedures to be used in case the county decides to cut back on personnel.

Tallulah Leaves $100,000 In Will

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Tallulah Bankhead left more than $100,000 in 23 bequests. Her will was filed in Manhattan Surrogate Court.

Five hundred people attended memorial services for her yesterday in St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church on Park Avenue.

The will, dated Nov. 24, 1967, left $10,000 each to Estelle Winwood, 85-year-old British-born actress, and Kenneth Carten of London.

Intermediate School Plans Due Review

A proposal to equip intermediate schools to accomodate sixth graders will be discussed by the San Anselmo School District board at 7:30 p.m. today at Red Hill School.

The schools, Red Hill and Hidden Valley, now serve seventh and eighth graders. Sixth graders would also attend these schools, relieving attendance at schools now serving kindergarten through the sixth grade.

Seeks Setback

Application of A. R. Nicolaisen for a sideyard setback variance for a proposed 24-unit apartment building at 779 Meadowsweet Drive is scheduled for the 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow of the Corte Madera Board of Adjustments at town hall.

At this rate
a person could get rich.

If there's one thing that's harder than making a dollar these days, it's saving one.

Yet most of today's millionaires would agree it takes money to make money.

So where do you start?

Usually with a good, safe savings program.

One that pays you the very highest interest you can get on insured savings.

One like our American Extra-Interest Plan:

You open an American Extra-Interest Account in $1,000 multiples and earn the highest interest in the U.S. on insured regular savings: 5% compounded daily.

After 36 months we pay you 3 extra-interest payments of ¼% each. One for each 12 month period. (A total of .75% extra. Guaranteed.)

That ¼% plus your regular 5% gives you 5¼% per year. The big rate above.

But that's not all. Because what that rate doesn't tell you is that we compound your interest daily. So you can boost your regular interest from 5% to 5.13% even before your .25% extra-interest is paid. (Now add it up.)

And that you are free to withdraw all or part of your money without loss of regular interest. (Unlike other plans that tie your money up.)

And your savings are at American, where for 83 years straight everyone has made money. Where assets over $1.4 billion means we're the largest in Northern California.

In short: it all adds up to a lot more than 5¼%.

So come in to one of the 32 American Savings offices listed below. Talk to the manager about the American Extra-Interest Plan.

He'll show you that our interest is making people rich.

$226,812 For Novato School District Kitty

The Novato School District will receive $226.812 in frozen federal funds and probably use part of it to improve the playing field at San Jose Junior High School.

Supt. James G. Bunker reported release of the funds to the school board last night. These are funds which had been allocated to the district because of the impact of children from military bases, but which were frozen by President Johnson.

The board discussed but postponed action on using approximately $40.000 to $45.000 of the funds for grading and drainage at the playing field at San Jose Junior High school. Bunker was asked to get a more accurate lost estimate.

The Novato Unified School District Board also:

CONTRACTS — Renewed the contracts of Bunker at the same salary of $24.700 per year and Deputy Supt. Ralph Giovanniello at the same salary of $20,300 per year, each for an additional four years.

HIRED — Hired Emma Arieta at $1,920 for the balance of the school year as part-time teacher at North Marin High School; Ida Bailey at $3,842 for the third grade at San Ramon Elementary School; Harland Bartholomew at $1,700 for part-time teacher at Sinaloa Junior High; Charles Dement at $5.000 for English at Hill Junior High and Lyn Sue Jung at $3,130 for kindergarten at West Novato School.

LEASE — Renewed the lease at $1,400 per month for the district warehouse at 819 Olive Avenue for three years. The past rent has been $1,300 per month.

LIBRARIES — Approved the application by Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley for $101,399 in federal funds for three school library projects.

DRESS — At the request of Jerrold Moore, president of the Novato Teachers Association, postponed action on a dress code for teachers. The NTA has been preparing such a code and asked for more time to work on it before submitting it to the board.

Sparks was ordered to plead to the charge in court Dec. 23.

Schirra Gets Navy Honors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., commander of the first manned Apollo flight, was praised yesterday for space deeds "exceeded by no one afloat or airborne."

The words came from Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, who presented the Navy captain with the Distinguished service Medal for his work during the orbital flight last Oct. 11-12.

Moorer said at a Pentagon ceremony Schirra's performance helped "set the stage for the very exciting" moon shot which is scheduled in a few days.

Kaiser Hospitals Protest Actions Of Picket Lines

Kaiser Foundation Hospital officials claimed today that patients were being harrassed and that violence had occurred at some of its facilities as a strike by hospital workers went into its second day.

Although no violence was reported at the San Rafael hospital, officials said that patients attempting to enter the emergency room were being verbally harrassed by pickets.

A truck driver delivering oxygen refused to cross the picket line at the San Rafael hospital this morning, but hospital officials said that a supervisor would complete the delivery.

Union spokesman said that this kind of support from other union members was "inevitable" and that it was to be expected in a "deadlock situation."

They denied reports, however, that patients at some of the Kaiser facilities had been the victims of tire slashing and windshield smashing.

Parents of a critically ill child taken to the Hayward hospital returned to the parking lot to find their tires slashed, according to a hospital official.

Tim Twomny, secretary treasurer of the AFL-CIO Hospital and Institutional Workers Local 250, said the strike was a success and predicted it might last several days.

Union negotiators yesterday accepted a two-year contract providing an average hourly pay boost of 30 cents, but union members turned it down, demanding a 50-cent raise and extra benefits.

Flood Work Easements Win Approval

The Kentfield School District board last night gave final approval of easements for the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

They are a 15-month temporary construction easement along Adaline E. Kent School campus and a permanent right-of-way at the school to enable moving of equipment.

Application for $872 in federal funds for library improvement, including the addition of audio-visual materials and books, also was approved by the board.

The Kentfield School District board also:

CURRICULUM — Expanded the nongrade system at Greenbrae School to place different aged pupils in the same homeroom grade. Previously, the nongraded system applied only to reading, mathematics, and the language arts.

Tam Fiscal Worry Nips Truancy Plan

A preliminary plan for an opportunity school in the Tamalpais High School District, prepared at the request of the district board, was left hanging last night after the board chronicled financial problems.

The school, authorized by the state Legislature with permission for a 5-cent override tax, would be for students who are habitually truant, irregular in attendance and have discipline problems and difficulties in social development.

The board had budgeted $42,120 to organize the program this year. The preliminary plan presented last night by Nicholas J. Gennaro, dean of the adult and summer school program, recommended spending part of that amount for a program consultant.

Trustee David D. Ring asked if the program ever came up before the Legislature made it financially possible. "It doesn't seem to justify a separate program," he said.

"Will it be jeopardizing the chances of a building program?" wondered Chairman Gloria W. Melboastad, noting an override is not very democratic.

Gennaro outlined the program as a setting for the student to learn self-respect, to include the student in the planning and direction of an educational program and to help the student experience pride in himself and achieve a measure of success.

He said in some cases it would be an alternative to dropping out or ending up in juvenile hall and emphasized that the 50 or so students involved now have a definite effect on the rest of the student population.

Cost of the school was not given, but Gennerao noted the outside limit of the override would produce $150,000.

Tamalpais High School District Board Also:

BUILDING NEEDS — Heard the opening statements of Supt. Chester G. Carlisle regarding immediate building needs and decided to delay the matter for a special workshop, despite protests of parents and teachers who said they had come to hear the report.

BLACK STUDIES — Hired Stephen N. Mutunga to teach African history, culture and Swahili at Tamalpais High School next semester at a salary to be determined.

DISTRICT STUDIES — Agreed to seek bids and interview professionals to assess the educational program of the district in terms of administration and students and to survey the community to see "what the 15,000 no votes were saying" in the last unsuccessful bond election, with the cost to be within "reasonable financial limitations."

ARCHITECT — Agreed to ask the school architects to return $4,800 paid by mistake and to suspend all work on the two proposed high schools.

PERSONNEL — Hired Marta Sonya Mayer to teach science at Tamalpais High School next semester at $3,877.

Pay Hikes Plan Draws Criticism

A 5 per cent increase for most city employees was presented to the Petaluma City Council last night for study.

The plan, as recommended by City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer, also includes 10 per cent raises for police and fire department personnel and 6.25 per cent hikes for public works employees.

Both the Petaluma Police Officers Association and public works employees already have rejected city offers.

DEMAND MORE

Leo D. Hutchinson, president of the police association, said the officers would be willing to accept the 10 per cent increase in January, but would demand an additional 5 per cent in July. "If these cannot be considered, the offer will be rejected again," Hutchinson said in a letter to council.

The public works personnel, represented by Don F. Jensen, said they will stand firm on their request for a 20 per cent pay increase and requested that Admission Day and Lincoln's birthday be added to the list of paid holidays.

In his proposal, Meyer said he felt the increases he suggested would meet better the financial capabilities of the city.

The total additional cost for the 1968-69 year under Meyer's proposal would be $40,000. Additional costs for the 1969-70 fiscal year, including normal step increases, would amount to $79,477. Meyer noted another $10,642 would have to be added for state retirement and workmen's compensation payments.

HOUR REDUCTION

Meyer's plan also calls for a reduction of hours of the fire department from 158 shifts and 72-hour work week to 146 shifts and a 67.4-hour work week. He said this would cost the city an additional $17,314.

His plan also calls for paying police officers for off-duty court appearances and recommends longevity pay study. Meyer said he would recommend no additional holidays and recommended against the request of the water department employees for pay during standby time.

Meyer said the city personnel board began negotiations on Nov. 6 and concluded talks Dec. 2. He requested a special council meeting Dec. 23 to discuss the plan.

$263,000 Price Tag For Petaluma Bridge

The Petaluma City Council last night heard a report on preliminary plans for construction of a new five-lane Washington Street bridge to replace the 1913 two-lane drawbridge.

City Engineer David Young said the firm of DeLeuw Cather and Co., consulting engineers, had estimated costs for the bridge and road project at $263,000. Believing the estimate $20,000 too low, Young said the costs of concrete and demolition of the old bridge would probably be higher than the company-estimated.

In addition to the bridge construction and demolition, the cost includes demolition on the southeast corner of Petaluma Boulevard North and Washington Street to enlarge the intersection. The price also includes a new signal system for the intersection.

Young told the council the estimate was $100,000 higher than the original plans for the project that included renovation of the old span and widening it to only four lanes. When council sought bids on the plan last summer, all came in at least $90,000 over the estimate, causing all to be rejected and the plan re-engineered.

Young said he would receive final specifications next week and would present the total plan for council approval early in January, he said that, if bids are sought next month, a contract could be awarded in February and the work begin in March.

During construction, the old span would continue in operation until two lanes of th new bridge is completed. Three lanes of the five-lane bridge will be traveling west and include a special turn signal to permit left turns onto Petaluma Boulevard North.

Earlier in the meeting, three council members objected to payment of a $346 bill for a color sketchc of the proposed bridge. Vice Mayor Kenneth J. Colin said he didn't feel the artist's rendering was necessary. "It's not like we have a bond issue at stake and must sell the plan," he said. Councilman Phillip L. Joerger and John W. Cavanagh Jr. agreed.

Young reminded the council that it agreed to the sketch at an informal study session Sept. 9. Agreeing with the expenditure, Mayor Helen Putnam said, "It's garnered us more than $346 in publicity."

The Petaluma City Council Also:

LIBRARY — Approved in principle the merger of the Petaluma City Library with the Sonoma County library system. Joerger cast the lone dissenting vote, saying he opposed giving up local control.

COMMITTEES — Appointed two committees to implement plans of the council's downtown committee to put the Core Area Plan to rejuvenate the business sector into operation. Named to the finance committee to study means of spreading assessments were Henry Tomasini, John Garrison, Mrs. Anna Neilsen, William Schneider, Stanley Hartmann and Gus Zitlau. Appointed to the committee to explain the plan to property owners were Donald Ramatici, Mrs. Ray Johnson, Frederick Mattei, Floyd Wynne, Walter Roach and Clifford Bartlett Jr.

REZONING — Approved rezoning of property owned by Aubrey W. Sanderson on Redwood Highway North at McDowell Boulevard North from light industrial to highway commercial. The zoning had been approved a year ago, but reverted to original zoning after the time period elapsed without development.

STOP SIGNS — Heard a report from councilman David W. Brainerd of the traffic committee that 50 unnecessary stop signs in subdivisions on the east side of town will be removed. Young said the signs had been placed indiscriminantly by developers at no cost to the city.

COMPRESSOR —Awarded a contract for purchase of a compressor to Rix Co., Inc. of Emeryville on a low bid of $4,175.

LET'S FLY — Said a councilman and City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer should attend the Jan. 8 meeting of the state Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco to show city support for granting Let's Fly, Inc. of Santa Rosa permission to fly a commuter service out of the Petaluma Sky Ranch Airport on a regular basis.

DUPLEXES —Approved rezoning of four acres on Magnolia Avenue to permit construction of duplexes. Rezoning on adjacent Cherry Street had also been requested, but was denied because of incompatibility with nearby single-family homes.

HOLIDAYS — Approved eight 1969 holidays for city employees to correspond with those in 1968.

New Citizen Sees Fidel's Regime A Dreary Contrast

Cuba may only be 90 miles from the shores of the United States, but it is much further away for Lorenzo Alfredo O'Reilly of San Rafael in terms of human existence and state of mind.

"In contrast to the Cuba of Fidel Castro, America has put a lot of faith in me about human nature. It indeed is a very fine experience living in the United States," he commented.

Born in Havana, O'Reilly left Cuba in 1962 on a visa to Panama. He stayed two years before going to Miami, a city where many Cuban refugees have settled. He was a textile factory manager in his native land.

O'Reilly, 31, became a U.S. citizen Nov. 6 in U.S. District Court in San Francisco. He was among 18 Marin County residents naturalized last month.

He commented, "To say that I am happy to be an American citizen would be an understatement."

O'Reilly moved to San Rafael on July 4, 1967. He lives at 51 Greenfield Avenue with his wife, Mara, who is from Spain and married him three years ago in Battle Creek, Mich. He has two sons from a previous marriage.

O'Reilly is employed as a documentations clerk with Harper Robinson and Co., a San Francisco importing firm. He has been taking evening accounting courses at the College of Marin.

O'Reilly stayed in Miami 18 months and was a taxi driver there. He left the Florida city because he felt that it didn't offer any opportunities.

The Cuban spent the next three years in Battle Creek, where he was employed as a clerk for an equipment firm before coming to San Rafael.

Other Marin residents naturalized last month were:

Tam Trustees Knock Sensitivity Training

Sensitivity training, by any name, is prohibited in classrooms in the Tamlpais High School District, the district board decided last night.

The board had been expected to adopt guidelines to govern sensitivity training as presented in a report essentially favorable to "human relations" training prepared by a special study group of district psychology teachers, psychologists, counselors and supervisors.

But the board agreed it should decide individually any requests to conduct classroom sensitivity training and shelved the report for use as a guide in future decisions.

The report, as interpreted for the board last night by Dr. Walter Lee, psychologist and chairman of the study committee, was a distinct surprise to a parents ad hoc committee which had prepared its own recommendations on sensitivity training.

Committee members said they based their conclusions and recommendations on meetings of the study group which they attended and by the final report which they had printed for distribution to the public.

Last night, however, Dr. Lee said he "could not envision how it could be used in a classroom" at the present time and quited the fears of anxious parents.

"It's like the song, 'Two Different Worlds We Live In'," said William E. Henderscheid, a member of the parents committee, who found it difficult to believe Dr. Lee's presentation in the light of the report generally favorable to training.

The board's decision came under fire from Philip Howard Pease, Redwood High School librarian, who had expected a policy decision.

"What you're saying is that policies are irrelevant on controversial issues," said Pease, explaining he was worried about how the decision would affect future matters such as books in the library.

Students were also displeased with the board's prohibition. Willard Carpenter, a Tamalpais High School student, said they could have formed an ad hoc committee to support sensitivity training.

"We could day it's okay to touch a person of the opposite sex because sex is a natural thing," he said.

Noting the two-hour time limit proposed in the guidelines, Carpenter said they could have recommended sessions last longer than two hours "because life goes on."

"It's our lives and we'd like the best start we can get," Carpenter added.

He was one of several students who stayed with about 75 parents and teachers for the discussion which didn't come up until 11 p.m.

Robert D. Torrey, assistant superintendent, noting that the policy the committee presented permits sensitivity training under rigorous guidelines, said the committee was concerned for the dignity and value of each student. "This is sensitivity to the rights of people," he said.

Rep. Tunney Eyes Senate, Statehouse

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Rep. John V. Tunney says he is giving serious consideration to becoming a Democratic candidate for governor or U.S. senator in 1970.

"I am considering the possibility or running for statewide office," the Riverside congressman told newsmen yesterday after a speech to a businessmens club. "I haven't made up my mind about what I am going to do."

Tunney, a close friend and law school roommate of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Senate along with assembly speaker Jess M. Unruh, San Francisco mayor Joseph Alioto and actor Gene Barry.

Incumbent Sen. George Murphy, a Republican, announced earlier this month he will run for a second six-year term. Gov. Ronald Reagan has indicated he will seek re-election.

Black History Class For Police?

The possibility of establishing black history courses for law enforcement officers will be discussed at 8 p.m. tomorrow at a Civic Center meeting of the police community relations committee of the Human Rights Commission.

An interfaith group of churches is interested in setting up the courses, committee chairman Bella Aaron said.

Lothar Salin, member of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, and Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Jonke will report on progress made with youth coffee houses and plans for a youth clinic. They will ask committee members for suggestions.

Marijuana Arrest Name Omitted

The name of Terry Nicholas Tsigeletos, 24, of San Francisco, was omitted in yesterday's Independent-Journal from the list of persons arrested at a Stinson Beach motel Sunday night on suspicion of possession of marijuana for sale.

Tsigeletos and his five companions are being held without bail in San Francisco County Jail awaiting hearings on federal charges.

The others arrested were Paul Stanton Gladman, 22; Gary Lee Arthur, 22, and Michael Taylor, 30, all of whom gave the Fern Motel in Stinson Beach as their address; Charles Mather Weiner, 18, of Stinson Beach, and Robert Leighton Leoni, 22, of Bolinas.

Takes Laos Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles A. Mann was sworn in today as director of the Agency for International Development (AID) mission to Laos.

Fairfax Council To Meet On Job

The Fairfax City Council personnel committee is expected today to release a report on specifications for the job of administrative secretary and recruitment for a replacement for Mrs. Dell Blodgett, who resigned.

The report will come up at an adjourned meeting of the council set for 8 p.m. today in the women's club.

Council last week accepted Mrs. Blodgett's resignation. The council will also take bids for a new floor in the women's club tonight.

Air West Fails To Get Quorum

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Directors of Air West have failed to achieve a quorum at a scheduled meeting, causing new controversy over the firm's future.

Failure of 13 members of the 24-man board to appear yesterday had the effect of sidetracking a purchase offer from Mallory Randall Corp. of Brooklyn, N.Y., and leaving Howard Hughes' offer the only one to be considered at a meeting Dec. 27.

The Mallory offer needed to be considered yesterday to be placed before stockholders. Hughes' bid for the eight-month-old airline is $22 a share, or about $81 million for the 3.7 million shares outstanding.

At left the hostess readies for her guests in a pantsuit with a formal look. The delicately embossed fabric gives of glints of gold from its gold metallic yarn. Couturier touches of mink cuffs and jeweled neckline are prevalent this season. Center is the hostess coat for high fashion entertaining with its swirls of coral with gold metallic yarn. Fashion and comfort combine in the free flowing lines and inverted front pleat with large frog closure. Sparkling stripes make the scene at right in black, green and pink silk in a classic coat of simple lines. Special touches are jeweled buttons, cuffed sleeves and deep side slits for lounging comfort.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Debutante Ball Has New Look

By MOLLY MARIN

Things will be different from the past six years when the 1968 Marin Ball debutantes make their bows Saturday evening. The setting will be "downtown San Francisco," and some 600 guests, family members, escorts and ball committee will gather in the Mural Room of the St. Francis Hotel for the presentation of the 20 girls.

The party will begin earlier this year, with cocktails served in the Colonial Room for guests while the girls and their escorts get in some last minute practice of the Cotillion figures they will dance later in the evening. Later they will have dinner in the Colonial Room.

Then at 8:30 p.m. guests will adjourn to the Mural Room for dinner before the presentation ceremony, which is scheduled for 10:30, as always. Judge Jordan Martinelli will introduce the debs, who will then gather with their escorts for the grand march and the traditional dance with their fathers.

H. Moir for friends who share her interest in music.

Attending the luncheon were Mesdames John Rollings, Jerry Crane, S. H. Huff, A. C. Ong, Thomas Lembo, William Lamers, Harold Reimers, John Meloney, William Black, R. N. Harrington and Burton Vaupen.

THE WILLIAM A. Hamiltons of Mill Valley have a house full of guests for the holidays. In addition to their son, Eric, from Sunnyvale; their daughter, Mary, and her husband, William Roberts of San Francisco; Mrs. Hamilton's brother, Peter Molson, and his wife are coming from Los Angeles. With them will be their daughter Cynthia, who came home from Sussex University in England bringing an English friend with her.

MARGARET HUETTER, ranking member with the German Counsel General's office in San Francisco, was a recent dinner guest at Rubini's restaurant in Fairfax, where she joined Mr. and Mrs. Jack DiMaggio for dinner.

THE ANNUAL cocktail party and buffet given by Dr. Donald Lastreto at his home in San Rafael will be on Saturday evening. Special guests will include Dr. and Mrs. William Bender of Belvedere, Mr. and Mrs. George Johns of San Francisco and Miss Eunice Griffin of Montreal.

Judith Dexter Becomes Bride Of Robert Lewis

Sunday afternoon nuptials at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo united in marriage Judith Atkins Dexter and Robert Irving Lewis, both of Kentfield.

Mrs. John Juenink of Menlo Park was matron of honor for the bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Kathleen Moorehead Dexter of San Juan, Puerto Rico. Bridesmaids were Nerla Martin of Mill Valley, Iola Zemlicka of San Anselmo and Mrs. Robert G. Mariani of Kentfield.

Thomas E. Cuffe of Kentfield served as best man, and ushers were Robert G. Mariani, Ralph D. Bettencourt of Kentfield and John C. Chambers of Los Altos.

A reception followed at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito and the couple left on a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe. They will live in Kentfield.

Judith attended Sir Francis Drake and Tamalpais high schools and is a College of Marin graduate.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving J. Lewis of Kent Woodlands. He is a graduate of Redwood High School, attended College of Marin, and he is employed with Lewis Sheet Metal Works in San Francisco.

Not A Heartbreaker Considers Self A Normal Freshman Girl

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a normal, ordinary freshman girl, am on the Student Council, get good grades, etc.

I think all boys are great and lots of fun, and I could never live without them. But I'm not serious about any certain one, and don't want to be for a long time.

The trouble is if I joke around with a guy, compliment him on a good football game, or something, within a week, he's asked me to go steady. In one class, I just asked a fellow for help with my homework, and it almost broke him and his girl up. It's embarrassing. Some of the girls are beginning to talk about me.

I'm not beautiful. I don't even act sexy. I try not to flirt, but I'm naturally friendly. I am not "for sale." So what am I doing wrong? — NOT A HEARTBREAKER

DEAR NOT:

What are you doing right? A lot of girls would love to have your formula.

. . . And a few will resent what they can't understand, i.e. how any girl wouldn't jump at the chance to go steady. Too bad for them. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am going with a boy I like a lot. We've been dating for three years, so it must be love or something similar.

But he loves to tease me. Every time he sees a cute girl he practically drools. He even brags about how much he got from her the night before. I know he's putting on, but how can I get it across that what he says hurts? — TRYING TO SMILE

DEAR TTS:

Why don't you tell him? Trouble about being a good sport is you get more of the same.

If a blow-up doesn't cure old Ogle Eyes, then try some ogling on your own. Maybe you both need a change of scenery. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am an adopted child and I am afraid of my father. He is a deacon in the church and very religious. His punishments are what bother me. My mother won't stop him.

The other night I asked to go to a school dance. He called me all kinds of bad names in front of my friends. After they left, he made me get down on my knees and beg forgiveness.

I did as he asked, and then he sat on me! I think he sprained my wrist, as it hurts like mad today. I guess he sat on me to show me the weight of the Devil. Is that right?—CRUSHED

DEAR CRUSHED:

It sounds as if the Devil is weighing pretty heavily on your father. If other punishments are as bizarre, you'd better discuss the situation with your minister. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am so glad you printed the letter from "Little Sister." She made me see how selfish I am. You see, I'm the "big sister" in my family, and I haven't set a very good example. I call my little sister a pest and ignore her more than I help her.

From now on I'm reforming. I'm going to try and make her like me. — BIG SISTER

DEAR SIS:

Remember that the next time you-know-who gets into your make-up box. — H.

Create Poinsettias To Last

For sheer splendor, few plants can rival the flaming beauty of the poinsettia. Though brought from Latin America just a century ago by Joel Roberts Poinsett, an American diplomat after whom it is named, the poinsettia with its rich red-and-green coloring has firmly established itself as the traditional Christmas flower.

Almost everyone would like to have one of these brilliant plants along with the familiar wreath and stockings, but a poinsettia can run beyond the budget of people with many other Christmas bills. The solution for a family with a bit of patience and Christmas spirit is a life-like "poinsettia" made of crepe paper and a few household items like cardboard and glue.

The secret is in using double crepe paper for the red brachts (which resemble petals). Double paper is thick enough to give the plant the "body" it needs to avoid drooping or curling. At the same time, it's pliable enough to be molded back into shape easily if the kids can't resist the temptation to touch.

ARE THEY OR AREN'T THEY? They are. Made of paper, that is. But it would take more than a casual eye to tell this poinsettia wreath and plant from nature's own. The secret is in the double crepe paper, pliable enough to be shaped naturally, yet thick enough to avoid drooping or curling. With a little patience, a mother and her helpers can fashion home-made flowers at a fraction of the store-bought price.

The following two sets of instructions will enable you to create an attractive display for your home.

For a large poinsettia suitable to hang on windows or walls or to place in the center of your holiday table you'll need:

1 fold red double crepe paper
1½" strip of leaf green crepe paper
Strip of yellow crepe paper 1" wide
All-purpose white glue
Cardboard circle 5" across

From red crepe paper cut 16 large petals and eight small petals. To make a pattern, cut a pointed petal shape 10" long and 4" at the widest point — for the small petal, 8" long and 2" at the widest part. Cup (stretch slightly between fingers) each petal at the tip and through the widest part of the petal. With a knitting needle you may "draw" veins on the petals.

Paste eight of the large petals to the cardboard disc, overlapping the petals slightly. When starting second row of large petals, place them in between those in the first row. Then paste the eight small petals in between the second row of large petals.

Cut about ¾" deep into the 1½" strip of green crepe paper creating a fringe. Paste in place for the center, working from outside to inside. Roll 8" of the 1" wide strip of yellow crepe paper to form a tight roll. Make eight of these rolls and paste them to the fringed center.

NOTE:

If you are using this decoration where the back disc will show (such as in a window), paste green crepe paper to the back of the disc before you begin flower.

To create individual flowers to be assembled into a plant, you'll need:

1 fold flame red, white or pink double crepe paper
Buttercup yellow primrose yellow double crepe paper
1 fold moss green leaf green double crepe paper
#7 Wires
Green spool wire
2 bunches stamens
All-purpose white glue
Roll of stem winding

Cut nine large petals 5½" long and 1½" wide at widest point of petal and six small petals 4½" long and 1" wide at widest point for each flower. See photo for shape of petals.

Cut several strips of yellow crepe paper ½" wide and 4" long, cutting lengthwise along the grain. Wind strips lengthwise around a 4" length of spool wire. Paste to hold in place. You'll need about nine lengths of wire covered with yellow paper.

Cut the heads from one end of about 10 stamens and paste stamens around yellow "peps" (lengths of wire). Wire nine peps to the tip of a #7 wire. Add the smaller petals near the center and the larger ones on the outside. Arrange the petals until all the spaces are filled.

Cut leaves 5" long and 2" wide at widest part. Wire the backs of the leaves by applying a line of glue down center of leaf back.

Wrap the stem with stem winding, adding in wired leaves as you wind. Paste at bottom to hold.

Arrange the finished flowers to resemble a plant in a flower pot filled with sand or styrofoam.

She Leads Volunteers At Kaiser

Mrs. John Rauschkolb of San Rafael is the new president of the Kaiser Foundation Hospital Volunteer League. A four-year member of the organization, she has previously served as vice president and chairman and buyer for the gift shop.

Beverly Rauschkolb and her husband, a training assistant for the post office, have lived in Marin six years. They are the parents of John Rauschkolb, who is in the Naval Reserve, and Mrs. Philip McNairy of Virginia and the grandparents of Michael McNairy.

Members of the volunteer league serve patients in the Kaiser Foundation Hospital, and anyone interested in joining the league may contact Mrs. Rauschkolb.

Elected to serve with Mrs. Rauschkolb are Mesdames Herbert McComber, vice president; Richard E. Lane, recording secretary; Mark Manion, treasurer; and Wesley Perez, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Victor Jovino and Mrs. Russell Green are serving as members at large to the board.

Robert G. Biberston Weds Frankie G. Fox In South

A Dec. 6 wedding at the Los Angeles Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints unuited in marriage Frankie G. Fox and Robert Glen Biberston.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fox of Rohnert Park, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Melba Biberston of Yaciapa and Harry Biberston of South Gate.

Mavis and Kathy Fox were their sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Linda Hansen of Provo, Utah; Mrs. Richard Salyer of Yuciapa, the bridegroom's sister; Nancy Roberts of Baldwin Park; Colleen Cannon of Spokane, Wash.; and Becky Milhous of South El Monte.

Darryl Biberston was his brother's best man, and the bride's brother, Duane Fox of Alhambra; Richard Salyer of Yuciapa; Lyn Ellsworth of Yuciapa; Darryl Anderson of San Francisco; and the bride's brother, Byron Fox of Rohnert Park ushered guests to their seats.

Frankie is a graduate of El Monte High School. She attended Brigham Young University and is employed as a receptionist at Don Bosco Studios in San Francisco. In addition to the attendants, the bride is the sister of Tommy, Lynn and Erwin L. Fox, all of Rohnert Park.

Robert attended high school in South Gate and was graduated from Stanford University. He is part owner and general manager of Tape O Teque in Berkeley. Richard Biberston is also his brother.

Receptions were held for the couple at South Gate Ward and Petaluma Ward chapels. The couple will live in Berkeley following a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

Shopping in the Village
with Pat Reynolds

Town & Country Village

IT'S CHRISTMAS TIME IN THE VILLAGE! You are invited to browse and window shop to your heart's content . . . no pressure, just fine merchandise offered by friendly, interesting shops. All Village shops are open evenings through Christmas Eve for your shopping convenience and TO WISH YOU AND YOURS A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Heedless of the wind and weather, our Lisa-Dog sallies forth in her snappy plaid plastic raincoat and Santa-red boots. Should the inclemency be cold as well as wet, she first dons her red turtleneck sweater to complete her winter-time outfit from MUTTS OF MARIN.

True to his word that The HICK'RY PIT is a family restaurant, Chris Gartman has elected to stay closed Christmas Day so that his fine staff will be able to celebrate this world's most famous birthday with their families. So, if you are planning on a HICK'RY PIT homemade pie to top off Christmas dinner, be sure to order in time and plan to pick up your delectable pastry a day in advance. Holiday shoppers find The HICK'RY PIT the perfect spot for a great cup of coffee or a full meal and, if the children are along for the excitement, they are more than welcome at this informal restaurant. They'll find their favorites on The HICK'RY PIT menu and understanding service makes sure that hungry youngsters are fed fast . . . as I said, this is truly a family restaurant!

Don't just stand there wringing your hands, dear . . . your last-minute shopping problems will be sweetly solved by VILLAGE SWEET SHOPPE. They carry lovely gift boxes of Hooper's and Blum's famous candies and their selection is really remarkable (if Aunt Martha likes all creams but Cousin Harriet favors chocolates, VILLAGE SWEET SHOPPE is prepared). Be sure to notice their delightful imported chocolate tree ornaments . . . bright foil wrapping looks so pretty on The Tree and youngsters eyes will pop as you offer an ornament as a gift.

Stanley Toy, KUBLAI KHAN'S very friendly owner, has asked me to pass the word that his charming restaurant will be open both Christmas and New Year's Day. If you have yet to sample this superb Oriental and Continental menu you are missing a treat. The food is marvelous, atmosphere quiet and attractive, the service couldn't be better and prices are more than reasonable . . . now, what more could you ask for?

Attention Sewing Santas . . . K. MYERS FABRICS carries an outstanding selection of shimmery brocades for your own holiday party wear, plus all the popular fabrics you'll want for certain-to-be-appreciated gifts. K. MYERS FABRICS is well staffed with people who know their merchandise and who also know how to show patience and a bit of kindness during the holiday rush. To wit: my Junior High School Melinda needed all kinds of supplies for her "home ec" course and was graciously helped by people who managed to find a little extra time for a budding seamstress . . . very nice, and a very nice store!

Hello, Mother! Up to your eyeballs in baking, shopping, wrapping . . . to say nothing of such mundane, every-day-type jobs as ironing? Well, join me in a big "thank you" to Master Chef Louis Reimers of L'ENTREE and his delicious take-home casseroles. Louis' casseroles are really dinner entrees and can be served with pride to anyone . . . they freeze beautifully right in their original container and require only a half hour of effortless oven time. L'ENTREE casseroles are handy any time of the year and a real "life saver" during the holiday rush.

With holiday visiting in full swing, a most thoughtful host or hostess gift could be a bottle of fine wine from VILLAGE LIQUORS. This well-stocked store offers all the favorite whiskies in attractive holiday wrap but, also carries an extraordinary collection of domestic and imported wines. Should you be a bit hesitant about your choice, just ask Dan, and he will be very helpful.

ON THE AGENDA

Clubs Celebrate The Yuletide Season With Parties And Fun

Christmas parties lead the list of events for the next week as a festive breather from the more serious club meetings and activities of fall.

THE OUTDOOR ART CLUB'S Evening Section will have a Christmas party Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Mill Valley home of Mrs. M. Donaldson Lennon. For the program Mrs. George Gustafson will give a special Christmas reading.

THE TRADITIONAL Christmas Champagne party given each holiday season by the Women's Auxiliary of the San Francisco Yacht Club for the club's membership is scheduled from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday at the Belvedere clubhouse.

Mrs. Dorothy Shemanski is chairman; Mrs. George Fritz, decorations chairman; and Perry Harris, music.

MEMBERS AND guests of the Fairhills Guild of the Marin Museum of Science will have a bridge luncheon Friday at the home of Mrs. Theodore Martin in San Rafael. Starting time is 10:30 a.m.

A BENEFIT Christmas boutique will be held Thursday at Bel Aire School in Tiburon in room 12, beginning at 9 a.m. Decorative and gift items will be sold, along with holiday foods until 3:30 p.m. Mrs. Beverly Larson is chairman, assisted by the Parent Teacher Club president, Mrs. Ruth Louis.

Funds will go toward additional playground equipment for the enlarged play area.

THE CHRISTMAS party of the Women's Section of Peacock Gap Golf Club will be held on Thursday at the clubhouse. After cocktails and luncheon, there will be a gift exchange, and the current Captain, Mrs. Alvin Cole, will preside at the installation of the new executive committee.

MEMBERS OF the Donald V. Westlund Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Novato will have their Christmas dinner at the Lodge in Novato at 7 p.m., Thursday.

Members will go to the home of the president, Mrs. Harold Harker, following the dinner. They will bring their secret pal a gift, an exchange gift for the tree and canned food to make up two or three boxes of groceries for a needy family in Novato.

Mrs. Grover Owen is reservations chairman.

A CHOIR from the Novato Association of Girl Scouts will sing Christmas carols on KTIM radio at 2:45 p.m., Thursday.

Mrs. Robert Rickard is the director and Mrs. James Chatfield, pianist.

SANTA WILL be coming by boat to the deck of the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere on Saturday.

His appearance will be during the annual Christmas party for the children of club members, which will begin at 1 p.m. Movies, entertainment and refreshments are part of the annual happening.

Mike Shea is chairman.

BELVEDERE NURSERY School, Inc., including Belvedere, Tiburon and Hawthorne Nursery Schools and the Marin Child Development Center will be closed for the Christmas vacation from Dec. 20 until Jan. 6.

Janet Schwab Is Bride

James H. Farren Jr. wed Janet Leslie Schwab Dec. 7 at St. Sylvester's Catholic Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Charles W. Bennett of Mill Valley was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia M. Kramer of Glendale, Francine A. Lento of Sacramento and Donna R. Ziemer of San Quentin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Schwab of Greenbrae.

The bridegroom's brother, Paul Farren of San Francisco, was best man. George Dickman of Santa Clara, Robert Thorfinsen of San Rafael and the bride's brother, Philip Schwab of Greenbrae, ushered.

Col. (ret.) and Mrs. James H. Farren of San Francisco are the bridegroom's parents, and he is the brother of Paul and Linda Farren and the grandson of Mrs. James Farren of Oakland.

A reception at Ft. Scott Officers Club in the Presidio of San Francisco followed the ceremony. The couple are living in Mill Valley.

A Second Term For Club's President

MRS. VERA LAWSON

Sailing, motor boating, working at the Sausalito Cruising Club—or just any activity on the water — are what Mrs. Vera Lawson, new president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Sausalito Cruising Club, says she enjoys most.

This will be the second term as president for Mrs. Lawson, who served previously in 1962, and she was also secretary several years. In fact, she says, in the 20 some years since she was a founding member of the auxiliary, she has been everything from janitor to president, and the club is her main interest.

Currently she is busy with plans for the annual rummage sale in February which provides funds for improvement of the club.

Born and reared in Coatesville, Pa., she was graduated from high school there and attended the University of Pennsylvania two years. Employed as secretary to the vice president of the American Assurance Company in San Francisco, she has also taken business courses at the College of Marin and in night school in San Francisco.

The new president has lived in Marin since 1950 and has no children. Her other interests are golfing, music and her recently acquired Puli, a kind of Hungarian sheep dog, which is rare in this country, she says.

Princeton Students Tell All In Their Guide To Girls Colleges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The editors of Princeton University's student newspaper, in a guide to girls' colleges, says Vassar coeds "run the spectrum from the prude to the promiscuous." Some Vassar girls agree.

Marylee Hardenbergh, a 20-year-old junior, laughed and said, "It's probably accurate. You can find that anywhere. That's a pretty safe description".

Then she added, "It would be Princeton that would come up with that remark. It sounds like a weekend-oriented type mind."

But a description of Wellesley coeds in the book titled "Who the Girls Are" drew a negative response.

It said most Wellesley girls "have tried both grass (marijuana) and sex once. They didn't like either one."

"I don't think that's true," snapped a Wellesley student who asked that her name not be used.

The 112-page book is devoted primarily to giving brief biographies and snapshots of 1,500 coeds at eight women's colleges.

Peter G. Brown, a junior from Erie, Pa., who edited the volume, said, "This little book does no less than spell the demise, the defeat, the absolute abolition of that atrocious anachronism, the blind date."

"Wow!" said Louise Harris, whose picture is in the book. "I never thought they'd pick me in a 100 years." Louise is a Skidmore freshman from Upper Montclair, N.J.

Lisa Vandermade of Montclair, N.J., a Smith freshman who does "quite a bit of blind dating," said she hoped having her picture in the book would help her in that line.

Lisa Connor of Morristown, N.J., another Smith freshman, said, "I don't like people just to judge someone on looks, but it does let anyone who knows me at Princeton know that I'm at Smith."

"Every girl in my dorm sent a picture because the fellows at Princeton have promised to do our student handbook," she added.

"Who the Girls Are" is a sequal to Princeton's 1965 publication, "Where the Girls Are," which was much ridiculed but became a bestseller in campus bookstores.

Guy Burns Weds Rita Marie Polo

Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Burns are on a wedding trip in Northern California following their marriage Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

The bride is the former Rita Marie Polo, daughter of the Carl M. Polos of Novato. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School and the University of California at Davis.

Pamela Reiser of Sunnyvale was maid of honor, and Douglas MacArthur of Davis served as best man.

Guy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burns of Davis, formerly of San Rafael. He is a graduate of Lowell High School in San Francisco and U.C. at Davis. The bridegroom is the brother of Gail and Gary Burns.

DRAMA REVIEW

Sam Levene Keeps Alive 'Don't Drink'

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — Woody Allen, a comedian and gag writer, has strung together a lot of jokes and a plot that creaks at times into "Don't Drink The Water," which opend at the Curran Theater last night. Since most of Allen's gags are the telegraphing sort, the play depends upon its actors to make us want to see the conclusion of the jokes.

Luckily for this production, it has Sam Levene. This veteran of Broadway and master of the tossed-off bon mot keeps things moving with the aid of several other cast members.

TV SHADOWS?

Levene is almost hoist on his own petard, however, for he also directed the show and has allowed some of his players at times to treat Allen's characters as TV shadows reading lines from a cue card. Director Levene has broken the rule which says an actor must always play the character with the utmost seriousness to achieve the effect of farce, while actor Levene never once falls into the trap, but plays Walter Hollander as the serious, pompous little Newark caterer that he is.

Let not the above seem to indicate that Allen's play has one whit of serious content, for it has not. Though the Hollanders are trapped as suspected spies in the U.S. embassy in a Communist country, Allen never once slips into politics. One of the play's funniest lines, however, comes as a mob surrounds the embassy, and the priest who has already pointed out that the country is predominantly Communist says, "There appear to be quite few Communist agitators among them!"

GOOD BACKING

Giving Levene good backing is Gary Krawford as the bumbling son of the ambassador, whose every idea leads to trouble; Don Draper as the embassy assistant who ends up thinking he is the Wright brothers, and Vivian Blaine as Mrs. Hollander.

Walt Wanderman's Father Drobney is unmercifully broad, while Ron Abbott gets neither fun nor menace from Krojack, the secret police chief. Peter Bosche does a nice bit as the chef, and Gloria Bleezarde's miniskirted, whiskey-voiced American girl is amusing.

Jo Mielzinger's set is drably undistinguished and Levene tends to allow his actors to all stand in a line along its shallow confines.

Despite all this, the play has Sam Levene the actor. He is a very funny actor, who does not depend on tricks, although he is not above using them at times. But basically his Walter is a very human, very believable man; beset by domestic and business problems, plus diarrhea — presumably from drinking the water.

And if I have seemed to pick apart the play, it is only because I hate to see things that could be done so much better being left only mediocre. Still I sat and howled at a lot of Allen's gags. A lot more belong on the video tube only.

"Don't Drink The Water" will play through Jan. 4, nightly except Sundays at 8:30, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

"FLEA IN HER EAR"

Ann Weldon (left) and Carol Teitel play a pair of scheming wives in Gower Champion's new production of the Georges Feyeau comedy, "A Flea in Her Ear," which opens at 8:30 p.m. today at the Geary Theater, San Francisco. The comedy is the American Conservatory Theater's opening production of the Bay Area season.

Grabhorn Press Founder Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Edwin Grabhorn, one of the two brothers who operated the exclusive Grabhorn Press, died yesterday. He was 79.

He and his brother Robert founded the Grabhorn Press a half century ago. It published hundreds of artistic typographical masterpieces which were distributed in small numbers to collectors.

The brothers donated a collection of 1,600 rare books, including a single-leaf attributed to Guttenberg, to the San Francisco Public Library three years ago.

Organist, Harpist To Give 'Carols By Candlelight'

"Carols by Candlelight" is the title selected by organist Wilbur F. Russell and harpist Joel Andrews for a concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Russell is director of music for the church and associate professor of sacred music at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and Andrews is a virtuoso harpist-composer-teacher, who lives in Mill Valley.

Russell says the purpose of the concert with candlelight only is to enhance organ and harp music in a Christmas atmosphere and to present some of the repertoire which as been associated with Christmas for the past 400 years, but not necessarily the time-worn carols. The concert will also mark the third anniversary of the Leonard W. Buck Memorial Organ.

Featured will be French noels of Claude Louis Daquin; the 14th Century German Carol "In Dulci Jubilo" in settings by the contemporaries Marcel Dupre and Hermann Schroeder, as well as three settings by J. S. Bach. Martin Luther's hymn "Vom Himmel Hock" will be heard in settings by contemporaries Helmut Walcha, Ernst Popping and baroque composer Johann Pachelbel, concluding with the canonic variations on the Bach theme.

Andrews will play music which he has arranged from early lute suites of France and other music which was interchangeably written for lute, harpsichord, harp and/or organ.

ART REVIEW

Group Show Tighter Than General Rule

By LAURA DEVENDORF

The Arlene Lind Gallery, 473 Jackson Street, is currently doing the same with an eight-man show of prints, photographs, canvases and sculpture in which only two artists, Gerard Caris and Brook Temple, are not from Marin.

With this many artists the show, naturally, has variety. It is also a lot tighter than you might expect as most of the gallery is dominated by four talented and sophisticated printmakers.

Of these, Temple's full-toned serigraphs are lustrous masses of blue, green and red, decorated with dancing bands of curved shapes in contrasting colors. Caris' prints, on the other hand, add nothing but a few well-chosen black lines to break the blank white spaces.

Most satisfying intellecutally, are Eleanore Bender's latest prints. Gray, black and brown circles and rectangles are beautifully balanced on flat and embossed areas of white.

Each seems like a mathematical reduction of a theme she has offered sucessfully in the past and each has a still serenity in new simplicity.

For balance, there are Houlgate Davenport's ornate, totally personal, haiku-inscribed etchings which are as unique and colorful as Persian carpets. An inner glow and magic extends through all of them, enhanced by the poetic thoughts she has penciled across the bottoms.

The reactions to David Sherbon's nubbed branching forms and arched figurative pieces is mixed. At times these welded brasses show a jewelers gift for detail while at times they are not exciting neither in concept nor in execution.

The same could be said for J. Miller's photographs. The black and whites are often moody and sensitive while the ones in color have little that is moving about them.

A few, really to few, of Ralph O'Neill's free-form arcs of stone and of Darrell Crisp's tiny editions of his bulging, geometric shaped canvases complete the show, which has unusual import for such usual holiday fare.

Pills And Alcohol Blamed For Death

Paul S. Raugust, 3-year-old restaurant owner found dead outside his Sausalito home early Nov. 2, was a victim of an overdose of pills and alcohol, Deputy Coroner Keith Craig said today.

Craig listed the case as an apparent suicide and said the pills consumed were tranquilizers and sleeping tablets.

Concert Tomorrow

The annual Red Hill Band Christmas concert will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Isabel Cook School auditorium on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo. No admission will be charged.

Bond Committee To Name Leaders In San Rafael

A steering committee mapping a campaign for San Rafael School District's $2.1 million bond election Feb. 18 last night agreed to select area vice chairmen for each of the 12 elementary school attendance areas.

The names of the vice chairmen will be released later this week, reported Supt. John F. Plank, after all 12 positions have been filled.

About 40 persons attended the committee meeting in the district administration building, he said.

Mrs. Rosemarie Mauroni, president of the San Rafael Council of Parents and Teachers, was elected secretary of the steering committee.

The group set its next meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 6 in the district administration building.

Mental Health Unit Equipment Requested

Equipment needs for the Community Mental Health Center will be presented the Marin Hospital District board today.

The list includes outdoor furniture, a potter's wheel for occupational therapy, and spare drapes. The board will meet at 6 p.m. in the Marin General Hospital cafeteria for dinner, then move to the Coral Room at 7 p.m. for the regular meeting.

James W. Knight is president of Fairfax Lions Club.

Regional Library Pact Is Approved

The machinery to establish a $500,000 regional county library in Corte Madera was unanimously approved last night by the Corte Madera Town Council.

The action came in three steps: The council passed a resolution notifying the board of supervisors that the town is withdrawing from the county's free library system; it approved a program agreement with the county for construction and operation of the proposed new library, and approved an option agreement on a library site.

The town at present has a branch county library. By withdrawing from that system, it now will form a joint powers agency with the county, an action which will permit issuance of revenue bonds by that agency to finance the purchase of land and the building of a library.

Proposed is purchase of a 2.7-acre parcel on Meadowsweet Drive owned by Fred Sanford and costing $210,000. The library building will cost about $290,000, town officials said.

Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said under the agreement with the county, Corte Madera would continue paying the equivalent of what it normally pays to the county for library service, and the county will finance the remainder and operate the library.

The option to buy the Sanford land would be good until Oct. 15, and may be extended for another year. It would cost $4,233, the amount equal to 1968-69 property taxes on the land. Corte Madera would pay one-third of this amount and the county would pay the remainder.

Withdrawal from the county system is effective July 1. The board of supervisors was scheduled to consider similar approval today.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

ZONING — Unanimously voted to include restaurants in the permitted uses of professional and administrative zoning of the town. The action came on application of Philip Swigard, who said a Denny's restaurant is proposed for such a zone east of Highway 101 near the Paradise Drive intersection.

RESIDENCE — Liberalized a policy which until now restricted the residence of town employees to within a five miles. New boundaries are slightly beyond that range — north to Ignacio and extending to Fairfax, Mill Valley and south to the Golden Gate Bridge. The council retained the right to waive the requirements in individual cases, however.

DOG CONTROL — Continued to the 7:30 p.m. meeting Jan. 6 any action on proposed changes in its contract with the County of Marin for dog control.

STREETS — Accepted Fairview Avenue improvements in the Madera Park subdivision, and accepted reconstruction of Sausalito Street from Buena Vista Avenue to the southern town limits.

FLOOD CONTROL — Passed a resolution accepting completion of three flood control pumps.

CONFERENCE — Approved attendance by Arthur N. Morrison, director of public works, at a three-day California Street and Highway Conference in Los Angeles starting Jan. 30.

SALARY — Raised Morrison's monthly salary from $1,100 to $1,184. The action, effective Jan. 1, came after the council learned that Morrison was being considered for the post of superintendent of operations of the Alameda County Water District at a salary of $1,184 a month.

Johnson Lights National Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, lighting the National Christmas Tree for his sixth and last time, says his prayer remains unchanged.

"My prayer now, as it has been in each of these other Decembers," he said Monday night, "is for peace and reconciliation abroad; justice and tranquility at home."

Johnson lit the 74-foot-high Engelmann Spruce from Uinta National Forest in Utah—covered with green lights set off by strings of white lights—at a ceremony in freezing temperatures.

Silverthorne Will Fight Retrial Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ex-banker Don C. Silverthorne plans to fight the government's attempt to retry him on embezzlement charges in connection with the 1965 folding of his San Francisco National Bank.

Attorney George Martinez told the U.S. District Court yesterday that he found a "good body of law" which tended to show it might be "cruel and inhuman punishment" to put a man as old as Silverthorne (62) on trial again.

Besides, said Martinez, it was his opinion that the government lost the original case "through its own fault." Silverthorne was convicted on 13 counts but the verdict was overturned by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

"If your thesis is correct, it would be impossible to retry any case reversed by an appellate court," Judge George B. Harris told the attorney, who represented the Tiburon resident.

"But I am willing to hear the matter out," he added and set Jan. 15 for a hearing.

Flu Bug Calls Off Journey By Humphrey

Humphrey originally had been scheduled to arrive here yesterday for a two-day visit but postponed his arrival until today because he was suffering from the flu.

Corte Madera Raps Larkspur Annex Hope

The Corte Madera Town Council last night girded itself to contest the neighboring City of Larkspur for the annexation of a portion of the San Quentin peninsula.

Because it said the area "just naturally" fits better with Corte Madera and that Corte Madera would have better planning and development than Larkspur, the council unanimously voted to oppose any annexation petition Larkspur might file with the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Larkspur last Wednesday introduced an ordinance to prezone 69.5 acres of the Hutchinson Quarry — east of Highway 101 and located in a 200-acre peninsula strip that Corte Madera is eyeing — as light industrial as a prelude to annexation.

David Van Pelt, of Dan Coleman Associates of San Rafael, city planning consultants, noted at the Larkspur meeting that annexation eventually could lead to absorption of the southern portion of the peninsula by that city. He said annexation by Larkspur would be more logical than annexation to San Rafael or Corte Madera.

Larkspur, he noted, had better access than the other two cities.

The Corte Madera council, which a year ago indicated to the Local Agency Formation Commission that the 200-acre parcel was in its proposed "ultimate boundaries," last night protested that Larkspur's zoning would be casual and permit what Corte Madera Mayor Edward W. Colthurst said would be a "hodge-podge" of concrete-making plants in the area.

He said an unsightly array of commercial enterprises including trailer parks probably would follow. "I think we should oppose it just on the grounds of esthetics alone," he said.

Colthurst said later Corte Madera's annexation of the parcel would be followed by a careful general plan. It could include light industry, he said, but would have tight restrictions and could "be a beautiful area."

Councilman Byron D. White, referring to the parcel's as adjacent to Corte Madera's northern border, said the land "just naturally belongs to Corte Madera."

Youth Pleads Guilty On Marijuana Sale

William Preston Sullivan, 20, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge that he sold marijuana in September 1966. A second charge of selling the weed was dismissed by the district attorney.

Sullivan was told to return to court Jan. 13 for sentencing.

Nun Convicted

MERANO, Italy (UPI)—A court convicted a Roman Catholic nun yesterday of beating children at an orphanage and sentenced her to three months in jail but suspended the sentence.

Vietnam Veterans Any Different?

Two Find Maturity In Service

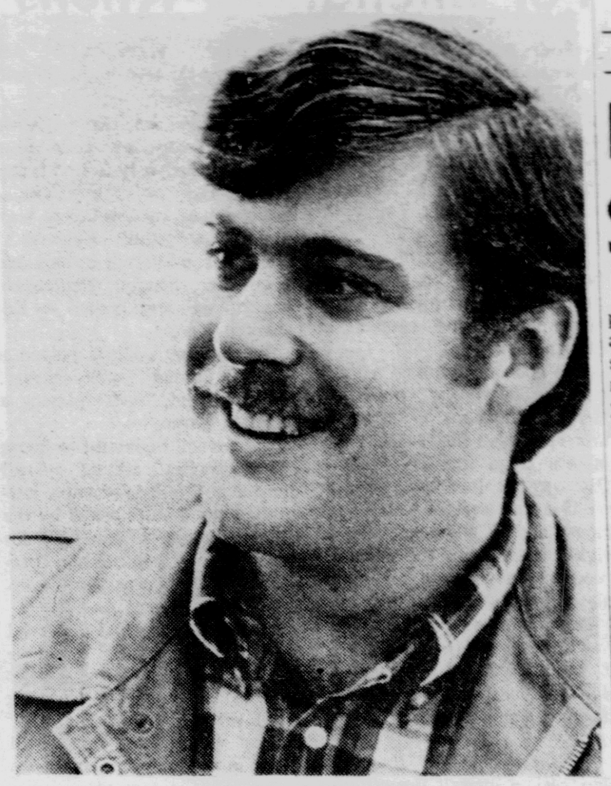
By MARY LEYDECKER

Is the veteran of the unpopular Vietnam War a different man than his forebears, who came home from other American wars to receive a welcome suitable for heroes and thanks from a grateful nation?

Although two young men, both of whom saw heavy action in Vietnam and are now back in school at College of Marin, disagree about overall views of the war, they agree with an old truism: The Army forces you to grow up.

Bruce Makinson, 21, of San Rafael and Carl Jensen, 25, of Novato had very different experiences in Vietnam, however, and probably met them as two very different individuals.

CARL JENSEN
He made long road back



BRUCE MAKINSON
Says he is not a hero

Makinson smiles easily and often as he speaks of "the good guys" he met in the service, but Jensen's pensive eyes show the marks of the tremendous pain he endured during months of hospitalization for very serious wounds.

Are these two young men typical of the new breed of veteran?

At least satistically, according to spokesmen at the county veterans service office and the State Department of Employment's veteran division.

"About 80 per cent of these young men from Marin County have come back to school, and most select formal training," said Charles Truax of the employment department.

A GI bill similar to the benefits given after World War II and the Korean War encourages veterans to continue schooling, the officials said.

Both Makinson, who enlisted in the Army at 17 because he was a "lousy student" and Jensen, who was drafted while in his third year of college, agree that they have come back with a much more serious outlook on getting an education.

From there, their viewpoints diverge.

Makinson, who lives at 4 Hillview Avenue with his parents, first talked of his experiences in Vietnam, where he spent 13 months.

"A pretty good time" was his description of three years in the Army, but he referred mainly to the friends he made, not his tour of duty as a crew chief in a helicopter which evacuated wounded men.

Although Makinson has no plans to enter any part of the medical field, he said that helping care for wounded men "didn't bother me too much," explaining it was probably due to the fact that his mother is a nurse and his father a mortician.

"I don't think we (the U.S.) should ever have become involved in the Vietnam War, but I don't see any easy way to get out now," was Makinson's view on the overall war picture.

"Sometimes when I was there, I thought we ought to get it over with as quickly as possible in any way we could," he added.

Was it hard to adjust again to civilian life?

Makinson said, "No, because I spent 19 months in Alabama with the Army after coming back from Vietnam."

Since he left College of Marin just before taking finals in his previous term there, Makinson, a Marin Catholic High School graduate, started over as a freshman.

"I just go to class and leave," he said, explaining his lack of interest in student affairs as due more to lack of time than anything else. He works 30 hours a week at Ross General Hospital, where he assists in the pharmacy.

He is only enrolled for two courses this semester and plans to go through college at a leisurely rate, aiming for a teaching career, possibly in history. He has 36 months of eligibility under the GI Bill but is saving it until he enters a four-year college.

"I didn't have much choice. I wasn't fighting the system," Makinson said about his three years in the Army.

Asked if he though he had received a hero's welcome when he came home, Makinson grinned and said, "I wasn't a hero. Very few guys were."

A little over two years ago, the Independent-Journal published a picture of a smiling young man who had won the Dipsea Race. It was Jensen, and today he is starting to run again — a triumph of grit and guts over wounds he received when he stepped on a mine.

Only two months after he arrived in Vietnam as an infantryman, Jensen was sent on a "search and destroy" mission into a Viet Cong tunnel. At the entrance, he hit an antipersonnel mine, which left him with 68 fragments of shrapnel in his body, many broken bones and a hearing loss.

Jensen said he remembers being evacuated in a helicopter and fearing that he was losing his broken arm.

After six and a half hours of surgery in a Vietnam hospital, where most of the shrapnel was removed and fractures of the jaw, foot, hand and arm set, Jensen was flown to a Japanese hospital, then to one in the Philippines.

Finally he arrived at Letterman General Hospital, in San Francisco, where he spent a year having plastic surgery and therapy.

He still has 18 small pieces of shrapnel in his body which occasionally fester and work themselves out. He is beginning to gain back the 37 pounds he lost and said that "it's just time now" for him to regain better use of his battered body.

"I think mankind should find a better way than war to solve problems," Jensen said. "I'm really against all wars but especially this one."

Like Makinson, he feels that a land war in Southeast Asia is a mistake for the United States. "But if we're there we ought to fight a guerrilla war with guerrilla tactics, not on a semiconventional level," he added.

"They're fighting only to stay alive," he said of the purpose of Americans in Vietnam.

Did his experience have any value?

"It taught me appreciation of simple things — like a warm bed, clean clothes, good food," Jensen said, but mainly he remembered that "we lost a lot of guys."

Although, like Makinson, he said he doesn't have time for student activities, Jensen said he has found today's students to be "more aware of issues like Vietnam and racism."

As to antiwar demonstrations, Jensen said, "I think maybe they're doing some good," but he added that he felt that if they are violent, they are just as bad as war.

Because of his wounds, Jensen, who was a physical education major before he went into the Army, has changed to a recreation major. "I just want to get my degree and get a job," he said.

Jensen, who attended College of Marin and Sonoma State College before being drafted, returned to the Kentfield campus to take courses he needs because of the change of major. He plans to transfer at the end of the semester.

While carrying a full load at the college, he is working for five recreation departments in the county.

Afraid that people would pity him because of his wounds, Jensen said he was shy when he first got out of the hospital. "That helped a lot," is how he described meeting the girl he plans to marry in August. Lynn Minnich, 21, is a physical education major, whom he met after returning from Vietnam, and "who didn't compare me with the way I used to be."

Seemingly unaware of the multitude of young college students milling about as he talked, Jensen said, "they have a right to be their age."

He also had thoughts on teen-agers, with whom he hopes to work in his career. "Until people stop looking on teen-agers as a liability, problems with them will continue," he said.

"I didn't have any choice," Jensen concluded about his Army experiences. "I didn't want to be court-martialed and possibly lose my rights as a citizen."

Tiburon Variance Is Granted

The Tiburon Board of Adjustments last night approved a request by Ransom S. Cook for a 10-foot sideyard variance for property at 106 Mount Tiburon Road, development administrator Phil V. Scott reported.

Scott said the variance was granted after Cook modified plans increasing the sideyard from seven to 10 feet. The city's ordinance requires a 20-foot sideyard setback.

The board also approved an application by Frank Tomsick for no frontyard setback, sideyard setbacks of four feet and extention of the rear building line 16 feet into the public zone for a building at 2316 Mar East Street, Scott said. The approval was conditioned on design approval by the board of design review.

A request by Pitzie Dawson to construct a duplex at 135 Solano Street was denied, Scott said. The board took no action on a rearyard variance request pending a decision by Dawson on whether he would construct a single family home on the site.

A lot split application by Kenneth A. Frost to divide property at 15 Tanfield Road into two lots, both less than the required 40,000 square foot minimum, was denied.

Big Forgery Gang Suspect Arrested

A 23-year-old transient, who police said may be a member of a forgery gang which has swindled California banks of nearly $50,000, was arrested yesterday by San Anselmo officers.

Booked into Marin County Jail for investigation of forgery, possession of stolen checks and possession of a stolen credit card was Ronald Victor MacWilliams.

Police Capt. Chester C. Orr said MacWillias was arrested at the Wells Fargo Bank in San Anselmo at 12:40 p.m. while attempting to make a $1,000 withdrawal on a checking account.

Orr said the withdrawal was against a $1,273 deposit made Friday by MacWilliams, who allegedly forged the name of Clarence W. Morgan and used a blank company check stolen last December in a burglary of the office of John J. Nathan and Son, general insurance brokers, San Francisco.

Orr said MacWilliams was arrested after bank officials were alerted of operations of a gang which would make minor deposits and withdrawals early in the week, then deposit a check for about $1,200 on a Friday.

On the following Monday, he said, before the deposit check could be verified, the gang would make a $1,000 withdrawal. Orr said MacWilfiams also deposited money at the Crocker-Citizens National Bank in San Anselmo last week, but hadn't yet attempted a big withdrawal.

He said 400 blank checks were stolen from the San Francisco firm. He said the credit card and identification, found in MacWilliams' possession, were allegedly stolen from Morgan, of Shingle Springs, El Dorado County.

The gang normally operates with two men to a team, Orr said, but no one was with MacWilliams. MacWilfiams remained in jail in lieu of $12,500 bail. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Driver Faces Plea On Marijuana Count

Leonard Gilbert Nathan, 25, of Berkeley, arrested on a narcotics charge Saturday because he drove too slowly on Highway 101, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge that he possessed marijuana for sale. He was told to return to court today to plead to the felony charge.

Nathan was arrested when a California Highway Patrol officer noticed his car going too slowly. The officer reportedly found marijuana and hashish in the car.

Marin Panel Backs Joint Bus Service

A modern bus system between Marin and San Francisco should be financed and operated under an agreement between the Marin County Transit and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway districts, transit directors decided, 5-1, today.

Dissenting was Thomas T. Storer, who objected that the agreement "would limit the mode of transportation to buses," and does not include San Francisco as a party to the agreement.

The motion to seek the agreement with the bridge board came from Peter H. Behr. Ernest N. Kettenhofen, John F. McInnis, William A. Gnoss and Dean N. Meyer voted with Behr. Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera was absent.

The resolution calls for early negotiations to establish the bus system.

The resolution also notes that the "agreement should look toward possible future merger of the Marin County Transit District and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, or the creation of a new entity combining the powers and resources of the present districts."

California has more agricultural land under irrigation than any other state.

Mill Valley Eyes Center Removal

Faced with a tab of $42,000 to $80,000 to move the Community Center to a temporary location. The Mill Valley City Council last night instead asked City Planner Harvey E. Bragdon to produce plans showing where a permanent center would fit in the Harbor-Enchanted Knolls-Project 17 area.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said it will cost $42,400 to move the center to the sewage treatment plant site, or $80,900 to move it to the 11-acre Enchanted Knolls site.

The center is in the way of the middle school now under construction and must be moved by June.

Balmer favored the sewage plant site, which he said would have room now and would be vacated by the sewage facility in about five years when a coastal plant is built to serve Southern Marin.

Councilmen were unconvinced.

"That place down there . . ." councilman Robert H. Andresen began.

"Stinks," interposed Mayor Dean N. Meyer.

"It does indeed," Andresen finished.

Balmer said the sewer plant can be odor free if operated properly, but plant manager Ross Benson said that was impossible for a bio-filtration type plant like Mill Valley's.

Including $7,000 for replacing a shed on the sewage site, "this is a $50,000 minimum for a temporary building," Councilman Jerome C. Hauke said. "I'd favor spending that . . . for a new permanent building . . . on a crash program."

Richard J. Young, parks and recreation commissioner, agreed. In digging out costs, he said, he estimated a new building of 3,500 square feet would cost $66,000 on the Enchanted Knolls site. The present center has 5,000 square feet.

"We'll be throwing away money . . . to move this," Councilman Rodric L. Robinson said.

Based on Robinson's suggestion, Councilman George Wickham finally moved to have Bragdon present a plan on Jan. 20 showing where the building should go. The council agreed unanimously.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

SPOILS — Received copies of a letter by Marin County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost advocating a plan to dredge the Sausalito Canal whereby 700,000 cubic yards of spoils would be dumped in deep water near Alcatraz Island and carried to sea by tides and currents. Cost would be approximately $900,000, cheaper than the alternative of barging spoils to sea and possibly a plan acceptable to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, according to Frost. The spoils would cover 70 acres if dumped on land or in the shallows of Richardson Bay.

MILITANTS — Heard Robinson suggest the council, in light of student and militant unrest on San Francisco State College and other campuses, keep in close touch with officials at Tamalpais High School to be ready to take any action possible to "prevent any such confrontations" at Tamalpais.

APPOINTMENT — Took under advisement a proposal by Meyer to name Mrs. Janet Mountjoy to the Architectural Advisory Commission to succeed Matt Kopenhaver. Under a new policy, Meyer gave out qualification sheets on Mrs. Mountjoy and another candidate, Robert M. Tanaka, and the council will study the sheets and advise Meyer at the Jan. 6 meeting of its preference.

REFUSE — Agreed to rent a spot behind the sewage treatment plant to Mill Valley Refuse Service as a truck storage yard for $100 a year. The company will build a road to the now unused site. Andresen voted against the proposal, saying the council should first determine proper rental value.

LICENSE — Gave final approval to an amendment setting a 25 per cent penalty for failure to pay a business license fee when due.

New Cabs Voted In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The police commission has announced it will permit 110 more taxicabs to operate in San Francisco — the first such expansion of cab service in 20 years.

The commission yesterday awarded the 110 new permits to 90 of 270 applicants, who have 60 days to get their cabs in operation. The city currently has 739 cab permits, of which 503 are held by Yellow Cab Co.

Commission President J. W. Mailliard III said "existing permit holders are operating under efficient management and are making a profit," but "under normal conditions they are inadequately serving the public."

Mailliard noted that the new permits, unlike those issued in the past, are not transferable.

Budget On Agenda

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Association of Bay Area Governments' executive committee will consider ABAG's 1969-70 budget at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Berkeley Room of the Hotel Claremont. The proposed budget, which is financed by dues from counties and cities and from federal funds, is to be prepared by the finance subcommittee at 5:30 p.m.

Five Marooned In Antarctic

LONDON (AP) — Five British explorers are marooned in the snows of the Antarctic, and the Royal Navy is steaming to the rescue.

The five members of the British Antarctic Survey were aboard a twin-engine plane that was force down by bad weather in Graham Land a week ago.

The plane apparently was undamaged but is short on fuel. The navy said the men all have standard foul weather clothing for Antarctic conditions and emergency rations for 30 days.

Council Endorses Higher Density For Enchanted Knolls Ridge Area

After nearly three hours of discussion and a coffee break for informal consensus-making, a new zoning density totaling seven dwelling units per acre was approved last night for 76 undeveloped acres of Enchanted Knolls by the Mill Valley City Council.

But the long fought-over proposal may have to go back to the planning commission before returning to the council for final action.

The council approved a three-part proposal by Councilmen George Wickham to allow 6.5 units per acre on 49 acres east of the ridge line and nearest Highway 101, four units per acre on 19 acres west of west of the ridge, and 17 units per acre on eight acres near the frontage road and now zoned for multiple residential use.

The plan was passed 4-1, Rodric L. Robinson voting against it and Wickham, Jerome C. Hauke, Robert H. Andresen and Mayor Dean N. Meyer voting for it.

Robinson objected that the plan set no overall density for the entire 76 acres, and said developers conceivably could develop the denser parts and sell the rest, whereupon the new owner would seek higher density for his portion.

The Wickham plan was the third offered as councilmen scribbled furiously to find a density formula to allow profitable development by developers Warner R. Odenthal, Eugene C. Hartner and Sherrill Broudy and keep low density developmen next to existing homes in Enchanted Knolls.

The council debated two hours on a proposal setting overall density at 7 units per acre, lower than the 8 units asked by the developers but a step up from the planning commission proposal for 6.5 units per acre overall.

The commission had approved three zones of 4.5 units per acre on the west side, 6.5 on the east side and 17 per acre on a five-acre parcel on the frontage road.

Andresen objected the overall density plan was "only delaying the final determination" of densities inside the acreage, which would still have to be set in plan review of the developer.

Andresen, Wickham and Hauke combined to beat the motion 3-2, and Andresen then suggested a coffee break to seek a consesus.

After the break, Andresen proposed densities of 15 for the 10-acre frontage parcel, four for 19 acres west of the ridge and six for the remaining 47 acres.

Wickham seconded the motion, but Planning Commissioner Robert E. Burton objected the proposal left no flexibility as intended in the plan review district.

Developer Odenthal said the proposal, allowing 357 units instead of 330 allowed under present zoning, was not enough difference to do any good.

Andresen's motion lost 4-1, even Wickham voting against it, and Wickham then presented his proposal.

Meyer said a ruling will be needed from City Atty. Leland H. Jordan on whether the proposal must go back to the planning commission for consideration before final council passage. Jordan was out of town last night.

The Wickham formula would allow 531 units — exactly one under the 532 allowed if a flat density of 7 units per acre had been approved.

Fire Board Hires Firm On Bonds

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board last night retained San Francisco attorneys Orrick, Herrington, Rowley and Sutcliffe as counsel for a proposed $580,000 bond issue for district improvements.

Public hearings on the proposed issue will be scheduled later, Fire Chief Richard Oswald said. The bonds will finance a new main station, upgrade the water system, buy fire apparatus and improve training facilities.

The board also recommended that the Marin County supervisors appoint William K. Gealy of 308 Todd Way, Homestead Valley, to complete the term of former chairman John F. O'Connor, who has moved from the district.

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board also:

HYDRANT MONEY — Added $2,165 to the hydrant fund for further hydrant and main improvements at Oswald's request. The sum was surplus in the hydrant fund last year and went into the general fund.

CHRISTMAS — Announced Santa Claus will visit schools in the district Friday to hand out pamphlets on fire prevention during the holiday season, and will ride through the district Saturday and Sunday handing out candy canes.

TWELFTH NIGHT — Scheduled a Twelfth Night Christmas tree burning ceremony for 7 p.m. Jan. 6 on the Tamalpais Valley School playground.

VOLUNTEERS — Accepted as full-fledged volunteer firemen two men completing six months probationary status, Tad Alvord and Arthur Quaster.

Rolling Quake In Mid-Alaska; No Casualties

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —A long, rolling earthquake lasting about 90 seconds hit south-central Alaska early today but the only damage reported was a brief power outage at Kenai, 60 miles from Anchorage.

The National Earthquake Information Center at Rockville, Md., said the quake had a listing of 6.25 to 6.5 on the Richter scale. Its epicenter was about 130 miles southwest of Anchorage in the Chigmit Mountains in the vicinity of 10,197-foot Redoubt Volcano.

"Of course there was some concern on the part of all who remember 1964," said Police Officer Charles Audino. "But there was nothing like panic, or anything akin to that."

Audino was referring to the tremendous Good Friday quake of 1964 in which at least 115 persons were killed and damage was in the millions of dollars.

Antiwar Marine Ails After Hunger Strike

1-J Special Report

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. — Marine Pvt. John Robinson, 19, one of the "Marin City Nine," won't be released from Portsmouth Naval Prison until he regains his health, impaired by a hunger strike, although his six month sentence is up, officials said today.

Robinson, who participated in an antiwar demonstration in July in which AWOL servicemen chained themselves to clergyman in a Marin City church, began a hunger strike Oct. 27 as a protest against the Vietnam War.

The Marine, who is from Westport, Conn., originally was given a bad conduct discharge but this has been lifted. Friends of the youth said that he fears that he will be sent to Vietnam as soon as he is released from prison.

Officials said today that once he regains some weight and gets over a kidney infection he is to return to active duty.

His weight dropped from 200 to 140 pounds and he was transferred from the prison to the base hospital, but officials said that yesterday he was taking food voluntarily.

A Boston-based antiwar group, the New England Resistance, has petitioned the Marine Corps to release Robinson as a conscientious objector.

Pleads Innocent

Leonard Jason, 41, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge of car theft in Larkspur Nov. 28. Jury trial on the charge was scheduled for Feb. 10.

This property is in an area of fine homes, near Marin Terrace School. 4 bdrms., 2 baths, all elec. kitchen, oak floors, entry hall, a 3rd bathroom is roughed-in and an additional room is uncompleted. This modern home is only $32,500. And why is the price so low? This home is very dirty, but is not actually damaged in any way. Paint and cleaning will do wonders. If you don't mind a little cleaning, take advantage of this low price.

SUMMONS
(General)
NO. 52532

Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Marin.

DAPHNE B. HOPPER, Plaintiff,
HUGH D. HOPPER, Defendant.

You are directed to file with the clerk of this court in which the above entitled action is brough a written pleading in response to the complaint within ten days after the service on you of this summons, if served within the above named county, or within thirty days if served elsewhere (except that if the action is against the state pursuant to Section 738.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure, within 180 days). You are notified that unless you so file a written responsive pleading, the plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or will apply to the court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

You may seek the advice of an attorney on any matter connected with the complaint or this summons. Such attorney should be consulted within the time limit stated in this summons for filing a written pleading to the complaint.

City, County Officials Give Lawmakers Christmas List

Long lists of new laws they would like for Christmas were presented yesterday to Marin's state and federal legislators by county and city officials.

All understood that like Santa, the legislators could not deliver in many cases, but still there was no harm in asking.

The event was the annual workshop between local officials and legislators in the Civic Center, and about 50 officials attended the two-hour session.

At the top of everyone's list was property tax relief, although few speakers had more than a vague idea that something must be done about the problem.

The strongest pitch for new legislation was by Betty Presley, head of the county's department of public social services (welfare), who termed "scandalous" the state Legislature's failure for 12 years to increase its contribution to Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

During the same 12 years, she said, the cost of living has risen 25.75 per cent. Marin, to meet the gap, now is spending $427,800, mostly property taxes, she said. Statewide, it is costing counties over $7 million annually to meet the gap.

Federal funding of the aid automatically would increase if the state hiked its participation, said Miss Presley, thus eliminating the county's need to fund a gap.

Modernization of the states' Welfare and Institutions Code also should provide for annual increases in state funding to meet increases in the cost of living, she told the legislators.

Present were Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both San Rafael Republicans, and staff representatives of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and Don H. Clausen, R-First District

Supervisors John F. McInnis and William A. Gnoss noted that because three new supervisors will join them in January, they preferred to wait until then to prepare a legislative program. Gnoss, however, said he hoped for legislation so school buses could be used during the day to take senior citizens and welfare recipients shopping.

The outgoing supervisors, however, were not so reticent.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer led off with suggestions that "something be done" about property tax relief, that tax increases on home improvements be deferred until the home is sold, that a portion of gas taxes be used for mass transit.

Also, that there be a statewide mass transit bond measure, a requirement that drivers show proof of public liability insurance to get a license, that the voting age be lowered to 18 or 19, that residency requirements to vote be shortened, that there be nationwide voter registration, that there be both state and local fair campaign practices committees, that counties have the option of making supervisorial elections county-wide instead of by district, and that jury pay be hiked.

Later, Storer added that there should be a law to require drivers to pull over to allow faster vehicles to pass, even if only one vehicle is following.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen suggested that public employees be given only partial disability payments if they still can work. At present, only total disability is allowed for in state law, he said.

He also suggested that homeowners be allowed to get some credit on their property taxes for improvements, and that any increase in property taxes due to the difference between the present and the highest and best use be deferred until a property is sold.

Kettenhofen added that partial fees should be charged by the public defender's office, which now can only collect its whole fee or nothing at all, that the state pay interest on overdue payments to counties, that the state "pick up a large share" of the cost of welfare to families moving to Marin because their relatives are in San Quentin Prison and that the Marin County Transit District be abolished and its functions transferred to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Commenting on this last suggestion, Bagley said he would try again to replace the bridge district with a "San Francisco-North Bay District, but I don't know if next year will be the time to push it."

McCarthy noted that he would try in the coming legislative session to set up a regional transportation agency or to expand the authority of the bridge district to other forms of transportation.

Supervisor-elect Peter Arrigoni Jr., who unseated Kettenhofen in the June primary election, suggested that supervisorial elections be held with the November general election whenever there are only two candidates. This would eliminate the long "lame duck" term of a supervisor who lost in June. Kettenhofen favored this suggestion.

Arrigoni also urged federal legislation to provide more federal money for flood control projects.

Also presented was a nine-point legislative program by County Superintendent of Schools Virgil S. Hollis.

His program called for a law to provide fact-finding, mediation and arbitration for public school employees, an areawide tax on districts contracting with the county schools office for bus service, extension from age 5 to age 3 of training for mentally retarded children.

Also, creation of a state agency to carry out experimental programs, more state funds to local districts for special programs for gifted students, increased allowances for kindergarten classes, continuance of federal aid to districts near federal facilities, more federal funds for experimental education centers and more state funds under the Miller-Unruh reading program.

Larkspur representatives urged that retirement residences be subject to some city charges even if they are owned by a tax-exempt group. The city noted that The Tamalpais, now being built, could someday be owned by a tax-exempt group, and under present law the city would lose all revenue from it.

Mill Valley representatives called for state legislation to end "unjust taxation imposed on incorporated taxpayers by county governments."

Admits Marijuana

Gerald Mathew Pointer, 21, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge he possessed marijuana Feb. 25, when stopped by the California Highway Patrol on Highway 101. His case was continued until Jan. 13 for sentencing.

Argument Ends In Shotgun Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A San Francisco man was held on murder charges today following a shooting which grew out of a traffic accident.

Eugene Rogers, 26, was charged with the slaying of Benjamin Holmes, 52.

Police said Holmes was killed with a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun at Rogers' home last night. Investigators said Rogers borrowed the victim's car during the day and was involved in an accident. Holmes went to the suspect's home to discuss the mishap.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Cold Hands From Bad Circulation Should Not Be Merely Ignored

A 28-year-old woman suffered from poor circulation.

"Winter is my worst time," she said. "If I go out-of-doors without a heavy coat my fingers tingle, become cold and turn bluish. This persists until I duck into a warm doorway or lobby. As my fingers begin to warm upthe skin reddens and burns; and then it returns to normal."

VAN DELLEN

THE STORY was typical of Raynaud's phenomenon. When the woman consulted me, her hands looked and felt normal. It was a cold day, so I asked her to go out without gloves and to leave her coat unbuttoned. When she returned, her fingers were stony cold and white. Shortly thereafter, the digits became blue, red, and warm.

Subsequent studies showed that the condition was not the aftermath of an injury, pressure on a nerve, previous frostbite, or certain collagen diseases.

"WOULD IT HELP to move south?" Not necessarily, because emotional stresses can also shut off the circulation by narrowing the small arterioles in the fingers.

In addition, chilly mornings and evenings are not uncommon in the south and spasms may develop when the body is exposed to the lowered temperatures.

Emotional aspects are more important in some than others. A few need psychotherapy, along with tranquilizers to relax the vessels.

FOR THE MAJORITY, the best remedy is to wear suitable clothing when out-of-doors. Warm up the ar in blustery weather before driving. Avoid chilling at all times.

It may be necessary to put on gloves before taking food out of the refrigerator.

Avoid injuring the hands, because a small cut or lesion may take a long time to heal.

Vasodilating drugs, such as Priscoline, Vasodilan, and nitroglycerin, may prove helfpul.

UNLESS TREATMENT is instituted, the disease may progress, leading to painful ulcers or gangrene of the fingertips. Dr. Raynaud's original patient had the right idea: She shook her hands, ran home, and put them in hot water.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

EAR NOISES

Mr. E. writes: Ear noises both me day in and day out and at night, too. But when I am asleep, I don't hear them. Is there any cure?

REPLY

Sleep is wonderful. May I suggest a thorough examination to determine the origin of your head noises. Causes vary from early deafness to a brain disorder. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

AVOIDING BRONCHITIS

A reader writes: How can the system be built up so that every cold won't turn into bronchitis?

REPLY

Important factors are adequate rest and nutrition, cleanliness, moderate exercise, and moderation. Spare the bronchial membranes irritation from tobacco, dust, and strong fumes. The risk of infection can be minimized by avoiding exposure to crowds and to persons with colds.

PULLING JUNIOR'S EARS

C. E. writes: Some mothers pull a child's ears as a form of punishment. Doesn't this cause deafness?

REPLY

No, but ear pulling is painful and if done often, could lead to a deformity of the ears. The hearing parts are in the skull, where they are safe from cruel adults.

HERNIA AND CANCER

A reader writes: If a hernia is not treated surgically, whill it become malignant?

REPLY

No, but it may strangulate, and cause an emergency.

SWIMMING AND ARTHRITIS

J. E. K. writes: Is it true that children who swim a lot in cold water suffer from arthritis when they reach adulthood?

REPLY

No. Arthritis is a common disorder and some forms are related to wear and tear associated with strenuous physical activity. Cold water is not a causative factor, although with age, joint pain may increase.

Panther Tells Of Cleaver Guns Order

OAKLAND (UPI)—One of six Black Panthers arrested after a shootout with Oakland police last April says Eldridge Cleaver ordered the Panthers to arm themselves with guns for a ghetto patrol that night.

Warren Wells, 21, made the charge in a statement allegedly given to police from his hospital bed while he was recovering from wounds sustained in the shootout, although his defense attorney had objected to police questioning.

The statement was read into the record yesterday in Superior Court, where Wells is on trial for assault and attempted murder in connection with the shootout in which one Panther was killed and two policemen wounded.

One of the six Panthers arrested was Cleaver, now being sought on a fugitive warrant after his parole was revoked because of his part in the shootout.

"Cleaver said we were going to go out and patrol the area and for everyone to take a gun," Wells said in the statement. "Someone asked Cleaver why we needed the guns and Cleaver said if the police stop and try to kill us we will fight back."

"Everyone took a gun, so I took one too — a rifle they call 'the Enforcer'," Wells continued, adding that after the Panthers reached the West Takland ghetto area they parked.

"All of a sudden Cleaver jumped out of the car. Then I heard someone say, 'Cops, take cover.' That is the first time I knew there were police around.

"I opened the door and crawled about five feet on the sidewalk. As I opened the door my rifle fell out on the sidewalk. I didn't touch the rifle.

"Then I heard a lot of shooting and I got up and ran about ten steps when I was shot. I crawled to some bushes and lay there for about an hour when I was arrested.

"I did not do any shooting at any time. I want that understood. I left my gun at the car," the statement said.

Flea Market Due Consideration Again

For the third time, the Sausalito Planning Commission will consider an application for an arts and crafts flea market on Harbor Drive at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The commission considered the proposal by William McQuiston on Nov. 20 and Dec. 4 but could reach no decision.

Aviation's Birthday Rites At Kitty Hawk

KITTY HAWK, N.C. (AP) — Sixty-five years ago today Orville and Wilbur Wright made man's first successful heavier-than-air flight.

The Dayton, Ohio, bicycle makers made the flight, and ushered in the air age, over the sandy coastal hills of Kitty Hawk.

And at Kitty Hawk the anniversary is marked with speeches, flyovers by modern planes, and the unveiling of portraits of distinguished fliers.

President Johnson, proclaiming today Wright Brothers Day, recalled in Washington that the flight was shorter than the floor of the giant C5 cargo plane that was test flown this year. "But those brief flights, in the sand hill area outside Kitty Hawk, N.C., on Dec. 17, 1903, launched the air age. They changed mankind's way of life," the President said.

Orville made the first successful flight, having won the privilege by a toss of a coin. He flew 120 feet and remained in the air 12 seconds. The brothers made three more flights that day, the longest 852 feet in 59 seconds by Wilbur.

Maj. Gen. Nils O. Ohman, commander of Bolling Air Force base near Washington, D.C., is the principal speaker at today's ceremonies.

Pentagon Given Satirical Award For F111 Program

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N.C. (AP) — The top award of the Man Will Never Fly Memorial Society for 1968 goes to the U.S. Defense Department for the controversial F111 jet fighter program.

The society announced last night it was awarding its national antiaviation citation presentation to the department for "a consistent and overwhelmingly convincing demonstration of the futility of flight."

"At a taxpayers' cost of $7 million per machine," the society said, "the Air Force alone has crashed nine F111s, not to mention those which have plummeted to earth in what are called 'unrelated testing incidents."

The Man Will Never Fly Society was formed in 1959 as a spoof of the Kill Devil Hills Memorial Society, which sponsors an annual observance of the Wright Brothers' first flight.

Its membership, which comes from several states, has adopted the motto: "Birds Fly; Men Drink."

Pony-Car Crash Injures Girl, 8

An 8-year-old Woodacre girl received minor injuries yesterday when her Shetland pony ran into the side of a slow-moving car, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Katrina M. von Staden, of Scott Street, was treated by her family doctor for a bump on the head and a cut nose and finger.

Waterfront Plan Due Airing Again

The Sausalito City Council will hear a preliminary presentation of the city's final central waterfront plan at 8 p.m. today at city hall. George Mader will present the plan for consultants William T. Spangle and Associates.

City Mgr. George M. Patterson will also present the resignation of Police Chief Edward S. Kreins, who is leaving to organize a new police department in Pleasant Hill.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Directors of the Marin Hospital District, Marin County, California is inviting separate sealed proposals for the landscaping of the Community Mental Health Center Grounds, Marin County, California.

Instruction to bidders, plans, specifications, and other contract documents are available at the office of Henry Cole, Landscape Architect, 1653 Second Street, San Rafael, California for examination without charge and reference is made thereto for particulars. Copies may be secured at the office of Henry Cole, Landscape Architect, 1653 Second Street, San Rafael, California upon a deposit of $30.00 per set.

Bids must be in a sealed envelope clearly marked "Bid" and filed at the office of the Board of Directors of the The Marin Hospital District, Marin General Hospital, Marin County, California prior to 7 P.M. January 28, 1969. Bids will be opened and read publicly at that time.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or a cashier's check payable to said Hospital District which shall be given as a guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into a contract satisfactory to said Hospital District and which shall be liquidated damages for failure to do so. The check shall be in the amount of ten percent (10) of the bid.

The successful bidder shall furnish a faithful Performance Bond for one hundred percent (100%), and a Labor and Material Bond for fifth percent (50%) of the amount of the bid, together with proof of adequate Workmen's Compensation and other insurance as specified.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

The Marin Hospital District Board of Directors reserves the right to reject any and/or all bids, waive any irregularities and to be sole judge of the responsibility of any bidder and the suitability of the materials and/or services rendered.

Pursuant to law, said Hospital District has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates for legal holiday and overtime work in the locality in which the work is to be performed for each craft or type of workmen or mechanic needed to execute the contract, which will be awarded the successful bidder.

Marin Originates Bulk Of Span Commute Use

About 95 per cent of commuters crossing the Golden Gate Bridge into San Francisco in the morning are from Marin County, according to a commuter survey taken by the Marin Transit District on Nov. 20.

This and other information from the survey will be presented to the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the bridge administration building.

Y. T. (Tito) Sasaki, engineer for the transit district, said a sampling of 500 commuter questionnaires from the 21,000 cards returned showed that 25 per cent of the commuters come from Ross Valley; 21 per cent from the San Rafael-Terra Linda area; 18 per cent from Mill Valey; 13 per cent from Tiburon-Belvedere, 9 per cent from Sausalito, and 8 per cent from Novato. Only 4 or 5 per cent are from Sonoma and Napa counties.

Many of the commuters reported that they start to work about three hours ahead of time in order to beat the traffic and obtain parking spaces, and thus must kill a couple of hours in San Francisco waiting for their offices to open.

The tri-partite panel, composed of representatives from Marin, San Francisco, and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, will also discuss transit planning between Marin and San Francisco and a proposed joint powers agreement between the transit and bridge districts to set up a modern bus transit system.

Sonoma Supervisors Scold Dentist On Sewer Battle

I-J Speckal Report

Dr. Raymond Nizibian of 1475 Mountain View Road had protested the inclusion of his land in the sewer district on Sunnyslope and Mountain View roads. Health department officials had ordered the area to be sewered, saying septic tanks could no longer serve the area safely.

"Immigrants like Dr. Nizibian should feel like they owe America something and should pay their share," Vella said.

Noting it would cost Sonoma county $400 to acquire $50 worth of property, the supervisor said: "That adds insult to injury because Dr. Nizibian makes three times as much as we do on this board."

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors also:

HORSE -BARNS — Awarded a contract for construction of three horse barns at the Sonoma County fairgrounds to James Construction Co. of Santa Rosa on a low bid of $42,860.

GRANDSTAND ROOF — Delayed awarding a contract on construction of a roof on the fairgrounds grandstand. Low bidder was Hayco, Inc. of San Rafael at $51,650, but supervisors learned the bid was being challenged as incomplete by other bidders.

PRESERVES — Added to the list of County agricultural preserves the property of Julien B. Girnad, 295 Rainsville Road, Petaluma.

Neighbor Faces Murder Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — A young grocery clerk has been accused of slaying a mother and her infant son, then setting fire to the apartment to cover up the killings.

Kevin Goode, 22, who lived in the apartment next door to the two victims, was charged yesterday with homicide and arson in the deaths of Agathe Hughes, 31, and her son, Francis, 2 years old.

Police said Mrs. Hughes her body slumped over a bathtub, had been strangled with a towel. Her son, face down in the tub water, had drowned.

Goode was one of several neighbors who rushed later into the burning apartment and it was he who called police after the bodies were found, authorities said.

Martin Hughes, 36, the father and husband, was at work at the time at the Irish Tourist Bureau on Fifth Avenue in Manhattan. The family came from Ireland.

Student Association Executive To Speak

Karen Duncan, a 1963 Novato High School graduate now employed by the National Student Association, will speak on "Institutional Racism" at 8 p.m. Thursday before the Novatans for Racial Equality at Our Lady of Loretto Parish Hall.

Tennis Popularity In Australia At A Low Ebb

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — The 57th Davis Cup Challenge Round between the United States and Australia starting here the day after Christmas Day looms as a complete financial flop and, as a result, might be the last played under the present amateur format.

Cup competition probably will have to go open to revive worldwide interest. A move in that direction will be made this weekend in a meeting of the big four tennis powers—the United States, Australia, France and England.

A major blow to Australian sponsors came today with the announcement that the Australian oil firm which backed television coverage in the past was withdrawing from the picture. No television sponsor is available and that is an automatic loss of $12,000.

"It shows how low the tennis image has dropped in Australia," moaned Neville Vickers, Challenge Round chairman.

Season ticket sales for the three-day event December 26-28 went on sale here Monday, and reaction at best was tepid.

"The sale was well below that of 1963, the last time the United States played here," said Lance Hoskins, secretary of the South Australian Lawn Tennis Association.

Only half of the 7,000 seats were sold for the Memorial Courts, where Arthur Ashe and company will attempt to bring the cup back to America. The Americans are overwhelmingly favored over the Australian team depleted by pro raids.

The tennis bloom has gone in Australia which once looked upon the game as a sort of religion.

The Queensland Championships in Brisbane last week, which provided a Davis Cup preview between top U.S. and Australian players, drew between 300 and 600 daily. In past years as many as 10,000 have paid to witness practice sessions alone.

Once American Davis Cup players invading Australia were treated like visiting VIPs. Worshipful fans would queue to get a glimpse of them going from practice to their hotel. Children swarmed them to get autographs.

Now the young men in the blue blazers with red, white and blue shields hardly raise an eyebrow. Their arms loaded with rackets, they move among the Australian populace almost unnoticed.

Tennis has generally lost its magic in this big under-populated continent at the bottom of the world where sport is king.

The London-to-Sydney auto rally, football news and horse racing have pushed the Davis Cup to the back of the sports pages and sharply trimmed the lineage devoted to the racket boys.

Flying over Australia at night the traveller no longer sees lighted courts dotting the countryside like a checkerboard—many have been sold for real estate—and it is no longer common to see school tykes trudging to class with racket equipment in hand.

Most observers blame the collapse on the fact the Australians have won the Cup 15 of the last 18 times and competition has become boring. Others say the move to the pro program is the reason. Fans want only to see the best — the pros.

The American team under Captain Donald Dell and the Australians under veteran Harry Hopman got down to serious two-a-day practice today.

Tennis in Australia—like the old gray mare—ain't what she used to be.

Reg Carolan Could Earn A Lot Of Playoff Loot

REGGIE GOTROCKS — Next Sunday I'm going over to Oakland Coliseum and cheer my head off for Reg Carolan of the Kansas City Chiefs in their American Football League Western Division playoff game against the Oakland Raiders.

Don't get me wrong, now; deep down inside, my heart will be pulling for the Raiders with provincial pride. But I want Reggie to see me and hear me shouting his name, exhorting him to great heights just in case Kansas City wins.

You see, Carolan is a long-time friend of mine from his athletic stardom and Eagle Scout days in San Anselmo where he attended Drake High School. And, he stands to earn considerable loot this post-season should the Chiefs go all the way to the Super Bowl in Miami.

Already Been There Once

Two seasons back Reg played in the first Super Bowl and, although the Chiefs lost to the Green Bay Packers, each member of the losing team received $7,500. That, coupled with his league championship share of $5,308.39, gave Reg a $12,808.39 bonus in addition to his regular football salary and whatever he earned as a substitute teacher in Marin County during the off-season.

When he came home and stopped by the office for a visit, the big guy was a picture of success, coins jangling in his jeans, greenbacks almost spilling out of his pockets.

Could Be Valuable Friend

Of course, I was financially fat in those days and didn't have to put the touch on him, but with the cost of living going up, Reg may be a valuable friend in need the next time he stops by the office.

That, then, is why I'll be rooting for him next Sunday. For a tight end, Reg Carolan is pretty generous. If things go well for him, he could pocket around $20,000 in playoff loot and, a friend in need, is a friend indeed.

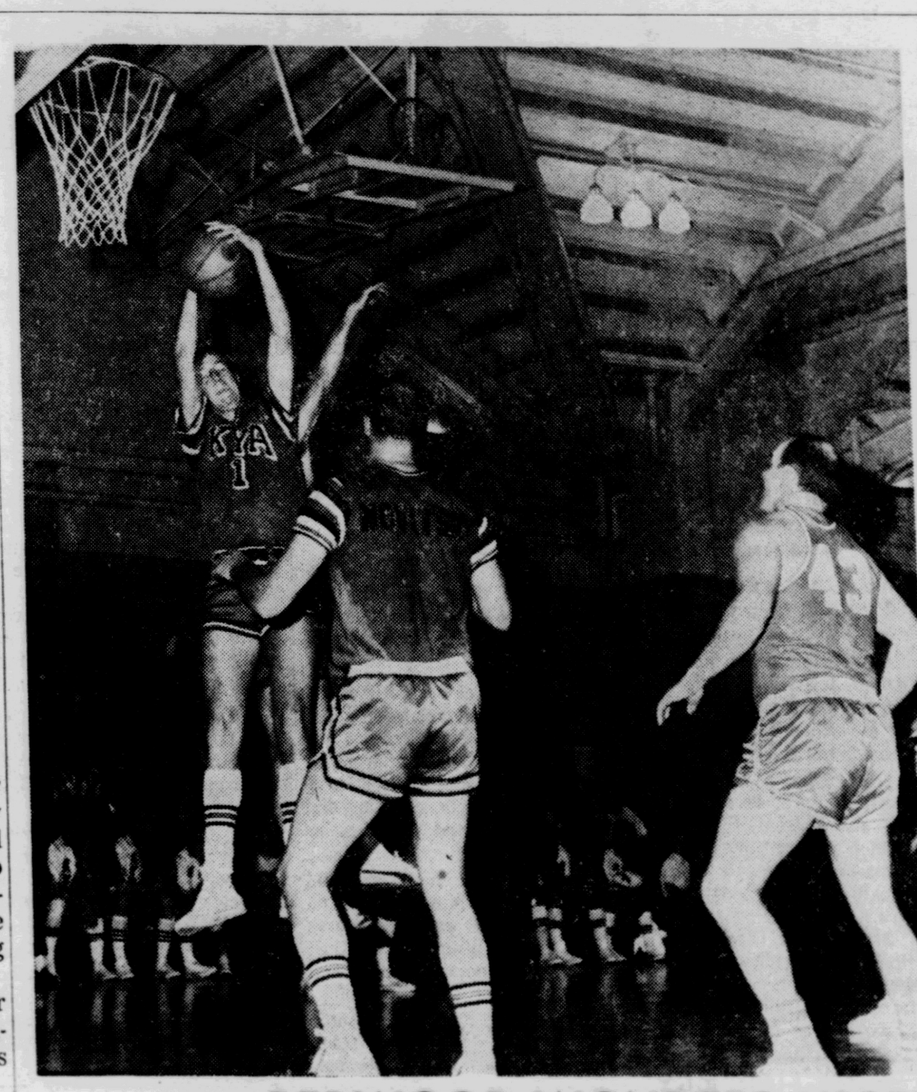
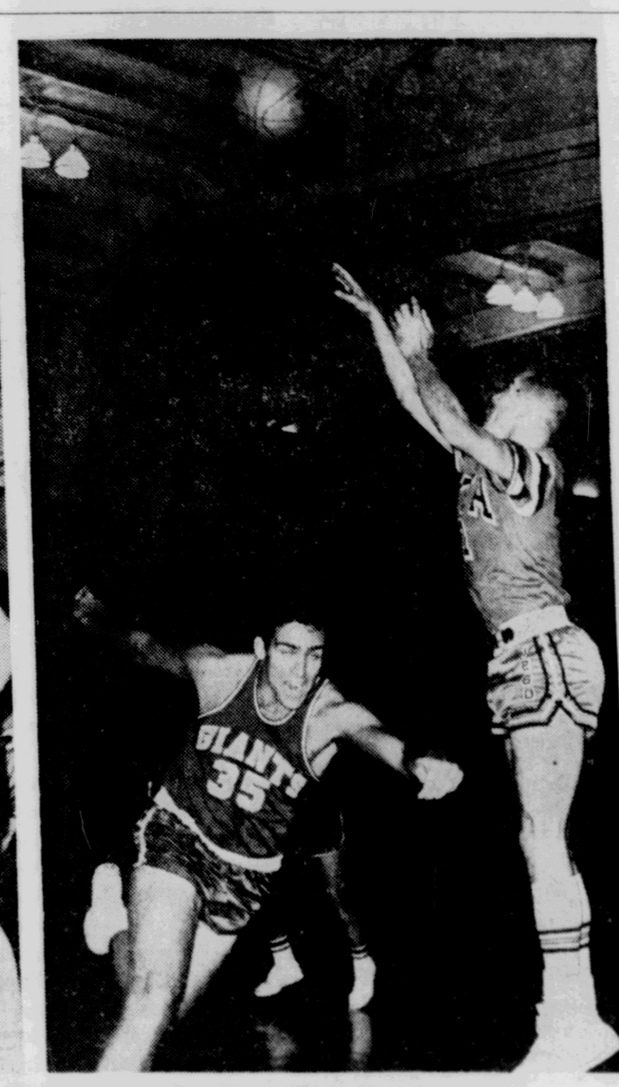
More Alum Players Needed

THE JAN. 18 football game between alumni of San Rafael and Novato high schools has run into a snag, to wit: The National Collegiate Athletic Association has notified game officials that any college player would lose a year of eligibility if he played in the alumni tussle. Thus, officials need more manpower and any old grads from either of those high schools who'd like one more fling at athletic glory should contact coach Bob Muster at San Rafael or Al Scott at Novato. Practices are currently in progress.

CHARLES MONTE, chairman of the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club's North-South Marin High School Football All-Star Game, announces the first player selected for the 1968 game. His name is Matt Monte and according to proud papa Charles, "He yells like a quarterback but kicks his legs like a halfback. He arrived last Thursday and weighed in at 7 pounds, 11 ounces." Mother and son are doing fine but pop's out looking for a helmet Matt's size.





REDWOOD WONDERS UPSET RADIO ONEDERS

Ali Starts His 10-Day Sentence

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Dade County Jail accepted its quickest quipster yesterday when Muhammad Ali — formerly Cassius Clay — surrendered to serve a 17-month-old, 10-day sentence on a traffic charge.

"I'm here to pay my debt," the ex-world heavyweight boxing champion said at a press conference before turning himself in at the jail. His sentence was for driving on an expired license.

Ali was made a jail trusty.

Ali's 10-day sentence—if attorney Henry Arrington can't get it reduced on grounds Ali is a Muslim minister—could be a preliminary to the main event for the former champion.

Ali is presently appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court a five-year conviction on draft dodging charges.

"I might have to do five for the Army thing, so this will be conditioning for me," Ali said.

The man who once boasted of a "float like a butterfly, sting like a bee" boxing style, said he would like to return to the ring "for financial reasons" once his legal problems are resolved.

"People ask do I miss boxing and I have one answer—No. Boxing misses me," Ali said.

"Your eyeblink is 4-100s of a second," Ali said. "That means if you blink your eyes I can hit you and be back again before your eye opens."

Ali said it would be tough for him to get back into condition to fight again but once he did he could beat either Joe Frazier or Jimmy Ellis, who share the various versions of the heavyweight boxing crown, because of his speed.

"They're easily hit people," Ali said. "People are hitting them who are not one quarter as fast as I am."

COLTS, RAMS DOMINATE

Five 49ers On Pro Bowl Team

Five San Francisco 49ers will be on the Western Conference team in the Jan. 19 National Football League Pro Bowl game in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

On offense, fullback Ken Willard, flanker Clifton McNeil and guard Howard Mudd will represent the Prospectors, while linebacker Dave Wilcox and back Kermit Alexander will man positions on the defensive unit.

EIGHT COLTS

Just as they dominated the league's Coastal Division, the Baltimore Colts topped the selection with eight players on the west team.

Quarterback Earl Morrall led the Baltimore delegation as a tribute to his job in helping the Colts win their division crown after Johnny Unitas was injured.

Other Baltimore players selected by the Western Conference coaches were halfback Tom Matte, ends John Mackey and Willie Richardson, tackle Bob Vogel, defensive tackle Fred Miller, linebacker Mike Curtis and defensive back Bob Boyd.

SEVEN RAMS

The Los Angeles Rams, who waged a season-long battle with the Colts for honors, landed seven men on the West team including quarterback Roman Gabriel. Other Rams named were Charlie Cowan, David Jones, Merlin Olsen, Maxie Baughan, Tom Mack and Joe Sibelli.

Baughan and Forrest Gregg of the Green Bay Packers are the veterans on the squad, both chosen for their eighth Pro Bowl appearance.

LIONS, BEARS

Detroit and Chicago landed two players each. The Lions are represented by Lem Barney and Charles Sanders while the Bears will be represented by Dick Butkus and Roosevelt Taylor. The Atlanta Falcons' only member of the team is linebacker Tommy Nobis.

The Western Conference coaches selected 34 players while the coach, after he is named, will be permitted to name a 35th member of the team.

San Rafael Wrestlers Lose To Santa Rosa

San Rafael High School's varsity wrestling team lost to Santa Rosa High yesterday, 30-23, but the San Rafael junior varsity won its match, 33-25 with the Santa Rosa JV.

Varsity winners for San Rafael: 95—Mike Custis, fall; 103—Ed Wash, fall; 112—Stu Campbell, decision; 138—Gabe Lugo, fall; 165—Ray Wirts, fall.

Gibson, Marichal Collect Most N.L. Hurling Honors

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals and Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants cleaned up most of the pitching honors in the National League during 1968, official averages showed today.

Steve Blass of the Pittsburgh Pirates took the only other major title. His 18-6 record gave him a .750 winnin gpercentage, tops in the league.

Gibson, who had a 2-1 record in the Cards' losing effort in the World Series with the Detroit Tigers, posted a 1.12 earned run average in 34 games—the lowest in the history of the league. The previous record of 1.22 was by Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Philadelphia Phils in 1915.

In addition, Gibson had a 15-game winning streak which stretched from June 2 to Aug. 19.

Gibson had a 22-9 won-lost record for a percentage of .710. He allowed only 11 home runs in 305 innings. He walked only 62 and those included six intentional walks.

Marichal, finishing with a 26-9 and a .743 percentage, won the most games. The 30 games he completed also topped the league and his 326 innings pitched were high. However, he gave up the most hits—295.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs made the most starts, 40, and he and teammate Bill Hands each yielded 26 home runs, tops in the dubious gopher ball category.

Claude Osteen of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Ray Sadecki of the Giants lost the most games—18 each—as they each posted 12-18 marks.

The 94 walks issued by Bob Veale of Pittsburgh were tops in the league.

Wrestlers Win 40th Straight

Novato High School's varsity wrestling team chalked up its 40th consecutive victory yesterday with a 33-18 decision over San Ramon High in Danville.

English Farmer Wins Marathon Auto Race

SYDNEY (AP) — Andrew Cowan, a 31-year-old English farmer, flashed from fourth to first place in the London to Sydney car marathon in the final runs today.

So far Cowan officially is only the provisional winner of the $24,000 first prize because the penalty points are not yet fully checked. But there is virtually no doubt that he has won in his Hillman Hunter.

Second is Paddy Hopkirk, in a British BMC 1800, $7,210. Second prize and third is Ian Vaughan in an Australian Ford Falcon GT $4,800. According to the unofficial tally, Cowan had 50 penalty points, Hopkirk 56 and Vaughan 62. Two accidents and mechanical trouble put three who were ahead of Cowan out of the prize money.

Leader Lucien Bianchi of Belgium, chief driver of a British-entered Citroen, was in a head-on collision with a Mini car 113 miles short of Sydney.

He was pinned in his car for 20 minutes during which he told rescuers "I want to get to Sydney—I want to get to Sydney." But he was taken to Nowra Hospital where he is expected to remain 24 hours for treatment of facial injuries and

An Early Vote For San Rafael In Cage Race

By GARY TISCHLER

Enough games have been played now to take a slap-happy stab at trying to determine a winner in the upcoming Marin County Athletic League basketball race.

I've got no money on it, but here's the way it seems to me: 1. San Rafael; 2. Novato; 3. Redwood; 4. Terra Linda; 5. Drake; 6. Tamalpais; 7. Marin Catholic; 8. San Marin.

SAN RAFAEL—The Bulldogs are 4-2 won-lost now and seem to be getting good play out of the non-experienced members of the club. We'd say the 31 points out of junior guard Bruce Nave against Armiijo last week is learning fast.

Coach Mike Diaz, for a change, has height and experience in Ron Taylor, Roger Thomas and Phil Sleezer. Add Nave and Lowell Widmer and sixth man Bruce D'Ambra and the usual Bulldog tenacity and you have a pretty potent bunch that could go all the way.

NOVATO — If a team will win on sheer talent, the Hornets ought to do it in a league that finds no team standing head and shoulders over anybody else. The brew of Steve McNalley, Ed Herrnberger, guards Bob Ament and Gene Barnes, plus forward Larry Ferguson and 6 foot, 7 inch backup sophomore Don LaFierre is pretty strong. McNally is one of the finer shooters in the league; Hernberger shoots well and does a great job on the boards. Barnes, given time, could devevelop into the best playmaker in the league. And Ament is pure hustle. The bench is good, headed by LaFierre, guard Mike Phillips and Dave Perron.

REDWOOD — The Giants had their usual Drake Tournament fiasco, getting beat by Terra Linda after a tough loss to Petaluma, but all they lack is some real board strength. The bench is deep, the first five are talented with excellent shooters in Jerry Piro, and Roger Smith, backed up by more little fellows like Jeff Boro, Skip Corsini and Rod Carew. The height is supplied by inelegant but effective Jim Peters and Phil Simpson. The Giants have beaten good teams, such as Salesian of Richmond and Lincoln of San Francisco. The Drake tourney may just be a jinx, but it probably did no good for morale.

TERRA LINDA — Everyone keeps getting surprised by the Trojans, but they shouldn't be. Coach Bob Corley has a veteran crew, good height, fine ballhandlers. Mike Timmel and Mike Peden provide the height, Byron Sakanari and Bob Nadell the guard experience. Pat Purcell is the best ballplayer on the squad, but he has cut down his shooting. The backup crew works fine when mixed in with the vets, but collapsed and almost blew a hefty lead against Napa.

DRAKE — If hustle wins games, the Pirates would have won their own tournament. But there is little height when you consider that Fred Wescott at 6-2 is the biggest man on the squad and the rest look like midgets. But the Pirates do go all out. Wescott is the top scorer, but Dave Alvarado, Clark Jamison, Art Pfaff and Bob MacLean all can put it in. So can Jeff Meeker, underneath.

TAMALPAIS — The Indians have a problem. They have yet to discover where the basket is. The only victory they have is a 34-33 squeaker. But the potential is there for the MCAL defending champs with decent height provided by Bill Secor, and veteran experience by Ron Small and Don Mackin. They won't win it this year, but they'll win some, eventually.

MARIN CATHOLIC — The Wildcats, who have been in awfully fast company this season, will win more than just one game. It's a question of when. They may jell as a team, but it will probably be too late when they do. Mike Murray heads a brand-new double-team entry which will once again go-go-go. But the 'Cats will have to do it without giving up 80 points or so, which is what they've been doing.

SAN MARIN — The MCAL's newest entry, is at least a year or two away from challenging for the title but Gary Howard, who is averaging in the 20-point category, could, be the league's super-star this year.

Marin Skaters Win In Pee Wee Hockey

Marin Junior Hockey Club's Pee Wee team tied Berkeley youngsters 3-3 Sunday at Raydine's ice rink in Corte Madera.

Murray Journeay scored two goals and Pat McPartlan the other for the Marin team. Credited with assists were Maury Carmody, two, and Shawn Mitchell and Gene Presley, one each.

COSTLY ACCIDENT — Lucien Bianchi, chief driver of a British entered Citroen, was pulled out of the vehicle's wreckage today after it crashed head-on into another car at Nowra, Australia — 113 miles short of the finish line. The British car had been favored to win the London-to-Sydney, Australia marathon. Bianchi was reported in "satisfactory" condition today in a hospital. (AP Wirephoto)

bruises. His condition is reported as "satisfactory."

Bianchi was asleep at the time of the collision with co-driver Jean Claud Agier at the wheel. Agier and the occupants of the other car received only minor injuries.

Gilbert Staepalaere, driving a German Ford, broke a tie rod 200 miles from Sydney in a stretch where there are 300 turns in 15 miles. He hit an embankment and overturned but was not injured.

Briton Roger Clark, in a Cortina, had mechacical trouble and although he bought an axle from an Australian Cortina owner he lost so many points that he was out of it.

That left the way clear for Cowan to drive carefully into Sydney so he would not lose penalty points or have an accident.

Thousands of people lined the highway as the cars approached the finishing point on the outskirts of the city at Warwick Farm where another 10,000 people awaited them, cheering and swarming around the cars as they arrived.

Cowan sipped champagne that was thrust on him as he sat on the roof of his car for pictures and told newsmen, "We just went on and on and on . . . I feel bloody fine."

Organizers had picked some of the worst roads and track for the 3,400 miles through Australia from Perth to Sydney, and cars required an average 50 miles hour including stops. In some sections they had an average of 60 miles an hour and for long distances many were running at over 100 miles an hour.

Of the 98 cars that started from London Nov. 24, 72 arrived in Perth and of these about 60 are expected to finish in Sydney.

With Cowan in the iwnning car were Brian Coyle, 27, from Scotland, and Colin Malkin, 25, a director of group of garages in the English midlands.

Their car had protective kangaroo bars mounted on the front, eight headlights and spot lamps and a 34 gallon fuel tank. They carried four spare wheels and tires on the roof.

Nancy Richey Holds No. 1 Net Ranking

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nancy Richey today held the No. 1 women's ranking recommended by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Official recognition probably will be forthcoming when all tentative rankings are submitted for approval at the USLTA's annual meeting in Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 8.

This honor marked the second time Miss Richey, of San Angelo, Tex., was named top U.S. women's player on a solo basis. She earned this laurel in 1964 and shared co-ranking with Billie Jean Moffitt King in 1965. Miss Richey was second in 1966 and 1967 to Mrs. King, who turned professional this year.

Julie Heldman of New York, returning from a brief retirement, turned in some brilliant tournament work during 1968 and for that was named No. 2 women's player. Vicky Rogers of New York moved up from 10th to third place.

Rounding out the top 10 in the recommended rankings were Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis; Kathleen Harter of Seal Beach, Calif.; Peaches jbartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich.; Kristy Pigeon of Danville, Calif.; Linda Tuero of Metairie, La.; Stephanie DeFina of Hollywood, Fla., Patti Hogan of Irvine, Calif., and Cecilia Martinez of San Francisco.

Miss Richey and Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, Calif., were named the No. 1 doubles team.

PLAYER OF WEEK

Santa Clara Ace Wins Top Honor

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Santa Clara's Bud Ogden is the Northern California Player of the Week for his work in the Cable Car Classic.

The Broncs stunned previously unbeaten Houston 75-50 and then polished off USF 78-56 to dominate the San Francisco basketball tourney last weekend.

Ogden was honored by Northern California sports scribes yesterday for his 42 points and 27 rebounds in the two games. "Bud didn't make a mistake in either game," Bronc mentor Dick Garibaldi said in praise.

Santa Clara, which moved into the tenth spot in national ratings because of its performance, hosts unbeaten North Texas State Friday. The Texans are averaging 99.6 points a game.

But it's a rough week all the way around for Bay Area quintets. USF is at sixth ranked New Mexico in the Lobo Invitational Friday.

California hosts fourth-ranked Cincinnati tomorrow and then goes against 12th rated Purdue to open the Sun Devil Classic at Tempe, Ariz., Friday night.

Stanford closes down its old pavilion by entertaining Cincinnati Friday and ninth-rated Kansas Saturday. The Indians move into the new Roscoe Maples Pavilion after these games.

Many think that California's team has the stuff to join UCLA and Santa Clara in a Golden State-dominated top ten in the nation.

Bear Coach Jim Padgett said that the games with Cincinnati and Purdue "will let us know if we're ready. We're still experimenting and I'll be giving several of our boys a chance to see what they can do."

USC Wins, Stanford '5' Loses

The Rose Bowl isn't the only collision between West Coast and Ohio sporting teams these days. There's some wild basketball battles going on, too.

Last night, for instance, Cincinnati called on Southern California and got drubbed while Ohio State squeaked by Washington State in a wild one.

At Los Angeles, big Ron Taylor hit 11 of 17 shots for 27 points and grabbed 19 rebounds in leading the Trojans to an 83-68 win over the fourth-ranked Bearcats. Rick Roberson had 25 for Cincinnati, now 4-1 going into tomorrow's gaem at tough Cal.

Ohio State squeaked past Washington State 75-74 when Jim Cleamons scored with four seconds to go. The contest saw Ohio State draw a trio of technicals.

Stanford called on Wyoming and absorbed an 87-73 setback. Don Griffin scored 24 for the Tribe, but didn't get much help.

Ghilotti, Kettle Cagers Triumph

Ghilotti Brothers and The Kettle romped to easy victories last night in the San Rafael Recreation Department's Class A Adult Basketball League at San Rafael High School gymnasium.

Ghilotti Brothers, with Ken Anderson scoring 21 points and Jim Garanica adding 20, beat Sausalito Pharmacy, 76-51. MacArthur Smith's 17 points led Sausalito.

Roosevelt Green was a one-man gang for the Kettle as he scored 29 points in a 67-46 victory over Taberna. Denny Striett scored 16 for the Kettle and Bill Sparrow scored 13 and John Farrar 11 for Taberna.

Storms Cheered Duck Hunters; Better Days Ahead For Anglers

STEVENS

A reader of this column, Bob Johnson, sent me a picture of timely interest. It showed two guys in a rowboat, huddled together to escape the pouring rain which was soaking the pair. In the same picture was a second scene in which two hunters, in a roofless blind, were getting soaked in the driving rain. One hunter says to the other hunter: "Just look at those fools!" indicating the men in the skiff.

That scene might well be a shot taken today or the several yesterdays of cold rainy days in this part of California. Oddly the picture is germane to present fishing and hunting activity over most of the Bay and Delta region.

NO QUESTION but what the wet and windy weather cheered the duck hunters who have blamed "bluebird" weather lately for a dearth of ducks in the air. The avid anglers may look forward to an improvement of stream conditions in the coastal waterways. Practically every coast stream from near Santa Cruz to the Oregon border has had its bar-bound mouth washed clean, allowing the steelhead awaiting opportunity to enter the mouth to proceed in due time on their spawning run upstream.

HOWEVER, MOST streams are spewing yellow mud from back-in-the-hills tributary streams. If your desire to feel the electric thrill of a supergame steelhead tugging and fighting the hook is centered around the south and central coastal waters, it's up to you to sit back and wait for a spell of rainless days. Hold back at least three or four days of ideal weather in most streams, and from four to seven days for others. As always, I caution all steelhead anglers whose wont is to ply their efforts on certain tributary streams to call a dependable source of "on-the-ground" information.

IF YOU'D rather stay home keeping dry and dreaming of better days to come, you might spend a little of your spare time reading and studying a booklet by George B. Hartzog on basic and general regulations for the operation of pleasure craft on the rivers, lakes, waterways and seashores administered by the National Park Service.

It's well worth the while of anyone owning or operating a pleasure craft.

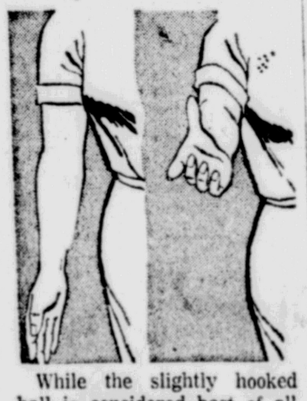
New color pages with pictures and descriptions of the Channel Buoy Guides, the Storm Warning Flag System, and the Uniform State Waterway Marking System have been added to this new and improved booklet.

INFORMATION ON lighting regulations, recommended life saving and fire fighting equipment, as well as the statutory rules of the road are included in the brochure.

Send for this remarkable booklet; it's well worth the bargain price of 30 cents. Address your request to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



While the slightly hooked ball is considered best of all deliveries, some women prefer the straight ball. They seem to be able to control this type more easily. If you're one, don't be ashamed to use it. But concentrate on rolling the ball high into the 1-3 pocket from the right-hand side of the alley. Your thumb should be exactly on top of the ball at release and don't twist your wrist.

Smith In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Redskins rookie Jim Smith, who suffered a broken neck Sunday in Washington's season-ending National Football League game with Detroit, was listed in satisfactory condition in a hospital Monday.

Team physician Dr. George A. Resta said there has been no indication of paralysis.

Two New Schools For West Coast Conference

SAN JOSE (AP) — The University of Nevada and Nevada Southern University have been elected to membership in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

The Wolf - pack and NSU's Rebles will become full participants starting with the 1969-70 school year. They are replacing San Jose State and the University of California at Santa Barbara which have announced plans to withdraw from the WCAC next June to join the new Pacific Coast Conference.

WCAC Commissioner Walter J. McPherson announced the results of yesterday's election by the remaining six members of the conference—the University of San Francisco, University of the Pacific, St. Mary's Santa Clara, Loyola of Los Angeles and Pepperdine.

The two Nevada universities were selected over the University of Portland, the University of San Diego and Seattle University, which also applied for membership. There was no discussion of possible expansion of the conference.

Ohio State QB Hurts Shoulder

RAY NITSCHKE
Defensive star

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rex Kern, the often-injured quarterback of Ohio State's Rose Bowl-bound football Buckeyes, is sidelined again.

Hayes moved sophomore Ron Maciejowski into the No. 1 quarterback slot immediately and said that if Kern doesn't recover before the Jan. 1 game against Southern California "Maciejowski will do a fine job for us at quarterback . . . He's a good one."

FOOTBALL

ATLANTA — Coach Norm Van Brocklin of the NFL's Atlanta Falcons fired the coaching staff he inherited when he took over from former Coach Norb Hecker last October.

WASHINGTON — Redskins rookie Jim Smith, who suffered a broken neck in Washington's season-ending NFL game with Detroit, was listed in satisfactory condition in a hospital and is expected to remain in traction from two to six weeks.

NEW YORK — Ray Nitschke of the Green Bay Packers has been named Associated Press defensive player of the week in the National Football League for his play in last Sunday's game against the Chicago Bears, which the Packers won, 28-27.

Cowboys, Colts Chiefs Picked

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — Bookmakers favor Dallas and Baltimore in the National League and Kansas City in the American in next weekend's pro football playoffs.

The Dallas Cowboys were made three-point favorites Monday over the Cleveland Browns in Saturday's Eastern Conference playoff.

Baltimore was given an 11-point edge over Minnesota in their Western Conference NFL playoff game Sunday.

Bookmakers made Kansas City a 2½ point favorite over Oakland. The Chiefs and Raiders meat Sunday in Oakland for the AFL Western Division title.

Jets Head Eastern All-Stars

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The New York Jets' passing and receiving corps will be intact on the East team in the American Football League All-Star Game at Jacksonville Jan. 19.

Quarterback Joe Namath will have as wide receivers his New York teammates, Don Maynard and George Sauer, on the All-Star team announced today.

A second string was named with Bob Griese of Miami at quarterback, Matt Snell and Emerson Boozer of New York as running backs, Karl Noonan of Miami and Haven Moses of Buffalo as wide receivers.

The 46-man squad has 18 players from the eastern champion New York Jets, 11 from the Houston Oilers, seven from the Buffalo Bills, six from the Miami Dolphins and four from the Boston Patriots.

Players named to the East squad:

Offense

Wide receivers—Don Maynard, New York; George Sauer, New York; Karl Noonan, Miami; Haven Moses, Buffalo.

Free safety—George Saimes, Buffalo; Bill Baird, New York.

JACK HANLEY'S COLUMN

Feeney Next Commisioner Better Late Than Never

By JACK HANLEY

Chub Feeney will be the next Commissioner of Baseball. His appointment will be announced this week when major league owners meet Dec. 20 in Chicago. Nobody in baseball is going to ask "Who's he?" as Willie Mays did when William D. Eckert was appointed to the job three years ago.

As soon as Eckert was forced out of office at the major league winter meetings last week, Feeney logically was made a top candidate for the post. During the past week owners informally agreed Feeney was best qualified for the job.

INDEED, HE is. Feeney, more formally known as Charles Stoneham Feeney, has been in baseball since he was knee high. But Feeney's knowledge of the game and its rules is just one of his qualifications. He is a polished executive with an Ivy League and legal backgorund.

Feeney, a native of New Jersey, is 47. His Dartmouth College class of 1943 was accelerated because of World War II and he was graduated in 1942. He served 3½ years aboard a sub chaser and destroyer, finishing his naval career as a senior grade lieutenant. Then he picked up a law degree at Fordhan (1946-49).

FEENEY'S WIFE, Margaret Ann, is a New Jersey native, too. They grew up together in Maplewood where their parents still live. The Feeneys have five children, Katharine, 19, who now is attending Connecticut College for Women, her mother's Alma Mater; Charles Jr., 18, known as Stoney, a student at College of San Mateo; John, 16, attending San Mateo High; William, 12, Crocker, Jr. High in Hillsborough, and Mary, 8, North School in Hillsborough.

Schooling of the children was an important factor in Feeney's decision. The commissioner's job means the family will move back east. There will be no abrupt switch in schools for the four younger Feeneys. But the move does mean the boys probably will follow their father at Dartmouth, Mary her sister and mother at Connecticut College for Women.

There isn't an owner in baseball who doesn't respect Feeney. His work on the all-important rules committee not only has been substantial but progressive. And baseball can use progressive ideas of the kind Feeney has to offer.

Baseball players also respect Feeney. His reputation for fair dealing in salary negotiations is well known.

"He never lays down any take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum," is the way Willie McCovey sums up Feeney's approach to salary talks.

IT SEEMS incredible that it has taken baseball owners this long to recognize a baseball man for the job of commissioner. The first one was a jurist, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis; the second one a politician, Happy Chandler; the third one a newspaperman, Ford Frick; the fourth one, William D. Eckert, a general.

But better late than never.

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 17, the 352nd day of 1968 with 14 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1903 Orville and Wilbur Wright made the first successful airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. It lasted 12 seconds.

In 1925 Brig. Gen. William Mitchell was found guilty of criticizing the Army and Navy and sentence to suspension from the Army for five years. In 1945 the Senate voted to award him the Medal of Honor posthumously and promoted his rank to major general.

In 1939 the Nazi vessel Graf Spee, chased by British warships, scuttled off the coast of Uruguay.

A thought for the day: Poet Latitia Elizabeth Landon said: "Were it not better to forget that but remember and regret."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No-trump Responses Depend Upon Your Partner's Count

Today we continue our articles on the proper response to partner's opening bid of one no-trump. Your best bid depends on the assumption that partner's bid promises 16 to 18 points in high cards, with balanced distribution and strength in at least three suits.

No. 3740 ..... Dec. 17, 1968

GAME COUNT

When you have nine or 10 points you know that the partnership total must be 25 to 27 points, with 26 points usually needed for game. If your own distribution is balanced you should consider raising no-trump instead of bidding a suit. In today's hand, North jumps to three no-trump with his nine points rather than search for an 11-trick game in diamonds.

South should try to win the first trick with dummy's queen of spades since it is possible that West has led from a suit headed by A-J-10 Actually, East wins with the ace of spades and returns the suit.

HOLDS UP KING

South refuses the second spade but must win the third. Now South must not allow West to gain the lead, since West would defeat the contract with the rest of the spades. There is no danger in allowing East to gain the lead, since East is out of spades, and cannot reach his partner's hand. (If East had another spade, the suit would break 4-4, and the defenders could take only three spade tricks in all.)

THIRD SPADE

After winning the third spade, South takes the ace of diamonds and leads the jack of diamonds for a finesse. If this happened to lose East would be unable to defeat the contract.

As the cards lie, the finesse succeeds. The play allows South to develop the diamonds without allowing the dangerous opponent (West) to gain the lead. If South had not finessed, he would have gone down.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ J 10 9 8 4
♥ K 7
♦ Q 6 5
♣ J 9 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

Since you have only seven points in high cards, you know that the partnership total is 23 to 25 points, not normally enough for game. You should be safe at two spades if partner passes. If partner has 17 or 18 points with strong spade support he will raise to three spades, and then you will go on to four spades. If partner has less, you are willing to settle for a part score.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Health-Care Stock Rebound Is Forecast

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please explain why American Hospital Supply has gone so low and Becton, Dickinson has not. — T. DeG., E. F. At one time you seemed very optimistic about American Hospital but never mention it any more. — H. K.

A. I'm indeed optimistic about the health-care industry and believe that continued holding of Am. Hospital Supply should prove rewarding. This strong growth industry should be represented in every well-balanced portfolio.

It is generally believed that the market for hospital supplies and equipment will expand at an annual rate of 15 to 20 per cent into the 1970s. Checking my files I find American Hospital either reviewed or recommended six times since July 1.

Disappointing price action earlier this year — shares are now moving up toward their historic high of 39 — was attributable to the effect of last June's secondary that increased outstanding stock by 1.8 million shares. Earnings of 14 cents a share in the June quarter were flat year-to-year but improved to 18 cents for the September quarter — the best one to date, though again flat year-to-year.

Becton, Dickinson also reported a flat quarter in June but rebounded in the final quarter to end fiscal 1968 with share net of $1.30 vs. $1.16 in 1967, a gain of 12 per cent. This year's gain in American Hospital's earnings should be 20 per cent.

Shares are more volatile than those of Beckton, Dickinson, whether moving up or dovn, investors are currently paying a bit more for the company's future growth, judged by the price-earnings multiples of the two stocks. AHS, expected to report 65 cents a share for 1968, commands a multiple of 49X. BDX trades at 45X on estimated earnings of $1.55 in fiscal 1969. Sales projections of $365 million and $200 million respectively show relative size.

Product lines for the two companeis are in part dissimilar, Becton having diversified into manufacturing and research markets that serve other than the health-care industry. Purchase of such high-multiple stocks should be made only during market weakness.

Weyerhauser Slates Vote On Stock Split

TACOMA (BW) — Weyerhaeuser Co's board of directors has agreed to submit a 2-for-1 stock split proposal to the forest products company's shareholders.

Shareholders of record on Feb. 28 will vote on the matter at the April 17 annual meeting in the form of an amendment to the company's articles of incorporation.

Market Hit With Stiff Closing Loss

NEW YORK (AP(—The stock market closed with another stiff loss today. Trading was moderately active.

Declines were pared considerably in the final hour, but the setback was still a severe one. Fears of restrictive credit moves and the usual caution before a midweeek closing of the exchange as well as year-end tax selling were cited as factors.

Prices near the close included:

Losses outnumbered gains by 2 to 1.

Fears of a new "money crunch" and of federal restraints to curb inflation were the most commonly quoted reasons for the decline.

Blue chips gave ground along a broad front. A few specially situation stocks made vigorous progress.

Caution was ncreased also by the closing tomorrow to allow time for a catchup on paper work.

Steels, motors, nonferrous metals, chemicals, rails, airlines and drugs were among the losers.

S. S. Kresge, down 1, was boosted to the slot of most-active stock by a block of 191,200 shares.

Benguet, off about 2, was a heavily traded loser. The company termed "misleading" a report on government moves to block its acquisition of a Bahamas resort.

INA Corp. also was heavily traded and up more than 2. AMK Corp. was reported negotiating to acquire a block of INA from Bangor Punta. AMK was up about 1½ and Bangor Punta was down about a point.

United Fruit advanced more than a point in further response to an improved offer for United Fruit stock from AMK. Sterchi Brothers erased an early gain on news of a 2-for-1 split and showed a fractional net loss.

Losses of a point or so were taken by Du Pont, Goodrich, Chrysler, and Zenith. Anaconda lost about 3.

ELEVEN MONTHS of completed multiple listed real estate sales for 1968 have reached a total of $66,966,116 — 22.8 per cent over the January through November period of last year. Although completed sales for this November ($6,337,910) dropped slightly from a year ago, new reported sales at $6,868,092 were higher than in 1967 and may result in a good December showing.

OTHER REAL ESTATE. Patricia Megan of Tiburon is now with the Fox and Carskadon office in that community. She was formerly with Belvedere Realty . . . Real estate broker John E. McSweeney with Cagwin and Hamilton, Mill Valley, has received an award from the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank for donating 44 pints of blood — one pint every quarter for 11 years.

Giant Climb In Consumer Spending Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Consumer spending in California is expected to rise to a new all-time high during thei Christmas season, with an increase of some 10 per cent over the 1967 season's record pace, Wells Fargo Bank reported Friday.

Ward C. Drebs, senior vice president and chairman of the credit policy committee, said that while sales early in the season were disappointing to many retailers, they picked up sharply in November as eager buyers returned to the stores in ever greater numbers.

This spending surge is expected to continue throughout the Christmas season.

Krebs said the bouyant buying mood of the consumer reflects a number of factors:

There are more Californians on payrolls than ever before and fewer without jobs.

The banker said that the consumer's financial situation remains generally strong and he is in a position to use his credit card freely and to continue to add substantially to other short term debt.

Moreover, Krebs said, his confidence has been further buoyed by the removal of the election uncertainties and the signs of the improved outlook for progress in the Paris peace talks.

As a final point, Krebs noted that "consumer buying psychology is reflecting an apparent conviction that inflationary trends will continue and that now is a good time to buy. In fact, higher prices will absorb as much as half of the increase in his outlays this Christmas season."

To Restore Responsibility, Bring Back Woodshed

"Campus unrest can be easily solved once we recognize that its basic cause is America's refusal to wean its young," writes Rossell Baker in the New York Times.

Baker's thesis is that American parents "kill themselves" to provide college educations to a lot of "kids whose natural aptitudes might have started them already down the road to happy lives in auto repair, barbering, cabinetwork and similar crafts vital to a civilized society."

His "solution" is to present every high school graduate with a college diploma, thus satisfying the demand of corporate personnel offices and freeing colleges from attempts to educate masses of young people who have no interest in what the colleges are supposed to be there to teach.

ALTHOUGH BAKER writes with tongue in cheek, he helps bare a sad truth about American society. And it is a truth that likely contributes not only to unrest on the campuses but also to such phenomena as juvenile pot-smoking, the hippie syndrome, and other abberant manifestations among our youth.

It all goes back, we suspect, to the devotion, now two generations old, to permissive rearing of children. It results from the passing of the woodshed.

Little Mary or little Johnny, not yet out of diapers, throws a tantrum because mama or daddy snatches away the heirloom watch which Mary (or Johnny) is pounding on the floor to see what will happen.

True to the dicta of permissive child rearing, mama or daddy gives back the watch, instead of slapping Mary's bottom and letting her howl.

THE PATTERN IS SET. It is followed with the passing years. It becomes the most natural thing in the world for Mary and Johnny to burn down the college administration building because the trustees have refused to grant a degree program in navel contemplation.

Exaggerated? Not at all! Right here in Marin, when a kindergarten found it necessary to transfer some 5-year-olds from morning to afternoon classes, some of the mothers informed the teacher they could not give permission until they talked it over with the children.

Under the strange phantasies of permissive child rearing, this is supposed to help the children assume responsibility by involving them in decisions. But it does just the oppostie. They quickly learn their whims will rule, and they never learn responsibility.

AFTER A THIRD of a lifetime of such treatment, with someone else (papa and mama) paying the bills, Johnny and Mary at last get their college degrees. They then become teachers, counselors and social workers dedicated to perpeuating the system — or they serve on committees that decry the "lack of opportunity" for youth.

It never occurs to them, of course, that most has been lost by lack of opportunity to learn self-discipline through the hard school of being desciplined by their elders.

Bring back the woodshed!

Vietnam Talks Most Critical Test Of New Administration

PARIS — No test is more critical for the incoming President than the Vietnam peace talks. If within six months fairly rapid withdrawal of both American and North Vietnamese forces is not well advanced Richard Nixon will find himself in the same trap that has meant frustration and defeat for Lyndon Johnson.

That is why the changing of the guard here in Paris is so important. Henry Cabot Lodge, now ambassador to Germany, expects to come here after Jan. 20 to replace Averell Harriman as chief negotiator. The announcement of his appointment may be made even before these words are in print, although the Nixon camp is reported to have had second thoughts about Lodge in light of editorial criticism of his close relationship with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky when Lodge was ambassador to Saigon in 1965-67.

Lodge has no doubt of his ability in view of his long experience and background — two tours of duty as ambassador to South Vietnam and then service as a roving diplomat for President Johnson. He has never lacked for self-confidence at any point in his career.

ALONG WITH many Americans involved in the Vietnam quagmire, both diplomats and the military, Lodge believed that the war would end without any formal settlement. It would simply fade out as the North Vietnamese ran out of men and resources. He is still inclined to think this may be the end result rather than any pact ratified around a conference table.

But against this view must be put the long and painstaking effort of Harriman and his partner, Cyrus Vance, for they have worked in complete harmony. The goal has been to build a relationship of mutual trust with the North Vietnamese negotiators who came here after the partial bombing halt. With that confidence established the two sides can pull back, the fighting can slack off, the casualties decline. And this can take place while the wrangling continues over an eventual political settlement.

But there are those who either do not want it to happen or believe it is a superfluous exercise, since the war is bound to fade out. High on this list, it is suspected here, are Ky and President Nguyen Van Thieu. Whether they can sustain their regime in Saigon into the foreseeable future — one year, two years, three years — without the full support of a half-million American troops is the troubling question.

On the list, too, are high-ranking American military who say that within another six months Hanoi's inablility to wage war will be so evident that the Paris conference will look like a meaningless game. These are the same generals who have been saying over the years that with 100,000 or 200,000 more troops the war could be won. If it had not been for the dollar crisis two years ago Gen. William C. Westmoreland, now promoted to chief of staff of the Army, might have persuaded Johnson to raise the American force in Vietnam to 750,000, or so it is believed here.

BUT OF ALL the forces working on Harriman's successor, Ky will be No. 1. He is shrewd, a clever intriguer, reckless at times with the recklessness of the gambler ready to risk everything on a single play. He worked closely with Lodge in the massive escalation following the showdown of 1965 when victory for the Communists had seemed so close.

Masterminded by Thieu, the South Vietnamese succeeded in delaying the enlarged talks for five weeks after Johnson announced a total bombing halt over North Vietnam. This is thought here to be a principal reason the wrangle still goes on over procedures. The Americans said they would have their ally at the conference table and they were guilty in the eyes of the North Vietnamese either of bad faith or a bad blunder.

There is no reason a new negotiator should not build up a relationship of trust with North Vietnam's delegation and within that relationship inch along toward a mutual pull-back. But if the new negotiator is content to let the formal talks spin on with the side benefits ignored, then the slight momentum gained thus far will be lost. And that will suit Ky perfectly as he calls the shots for his delegation.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Human Freedom Requires Flexibility

It is obvious that attempts to infringe upon the rights of majorities by a few in our universities who would wallow in the pity of self glorification is but another exposure of the mailed fist which has plagued societeis throughout their existence. The tired tactics employed are nursed from the dying dogma of Marx, and will expire in a reactionary application of truth, but the fact must be accepted there can be no truths without our determined freedom as a mass to protect our rights.

Human freedoms entrusted to us by our predecessors for growth and preservation are a vital force in our pursuits, and for any individual to deny another of their security and guidance is intolerable.

Yet a people like us, with wide diversity of interest, race, and religion, in order to exist in harmony and to progress as a nation, must adopt a quality of flexibility in our personal demands upon freedom — for in so doing we insure a conformity to the singular rights of the other individuals of the mass. This voluntary and sacrificial combining of individual rights constitute our strength as a people, and our dignity as humans. . . .

In contrast, our reception of Mrs. Antonova was exceedingly gracious, to our credit as a healthy, free, and tolerant nation. In future, if she and/or other "cultural exchange" teachers are to attend student club meetings, U.S. history or government classes in addition to guest-instructing Russian language classes in our public schools (as was done during her week's visit), then is it not the duty of the administrations and the faculty as well to clearly indicate to our impressionable youth that representatives of totalitarian governments believe that the "end justifies the means" and therefore, their glowing descriptions "ain't necessarily so"?

Obviously I have more on my mind than the rather meaningless editorial referred to above. For in that editorial you take your usual vicious swing at the direct mail industry.

I wonder if some day you might present the other side of the story as far as the third class bulk mailers. I wonder if you would tell your readers that the third class bulk mailer is responsible for the following:

(1) Over two million jobs in the United States today are attributable to industries who depend upon their sales efforts on direct mail.

(2) Post Office Department deficits would be enormously higher if it were not for the contribution made by the business mailer.

(3) The business mailer performs some 30 functions for the Post Office department that are not performed by the first class mailer. One of the most maligned aspects of the newspaper's constant war agains the bulk mailer is the little publicized fact that their class bulk mail is more profitable (or causes less loss) than first class mail . . .

Just for once in the spirit of fair play I would like to see the editorial pages of your newspaper present the positive side of the direct mail industry rather than attempt to perpetuate the myth of "junk mail".

Different Report On Russian Prejudice

Your Dec. 6 issue contained a story by Dave Gilbert, a Redwood High School student, regarding an exchange language teacher from the USSR in which the Moscow visitor, Mrs. Tanya Antonova, uttered the official position on Czechoslovakia, etc., and further stated:

"Everybody is the same in the Soviet Union. There are about 100 different nationalities, yet with all those different people, we can feel no prejudice. We have no problems on our campuses like yours because there is not prejudice."

A surgeon friend who spent many months in the Soviet Union with funds supplied by the USSR Health Ministry, our National Cancer Institute, the State Department, and others, wrote this:

"What with my Russian parentage it should not be difficult to understand a certain affection I have for these people. . . . Although legally outlawed, racial discrimination, especially against Negroes and Jews, is more here (in Moscow) than in the States. . . . I have never seen Negroes stared and laughed at in the streets in the States, but it is common and brutal here."

Also, when he visited a "cultural exchange" American medical exhibit in Leningrad, he wrote:

GOLDEN GATE VIEW

Undefeated Supervisor Behr Rumored Eyeing Assembly Race

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Behr for Assembly?

That's the word drifting this way — retiring Supervisor Peter H. Behr may be interested in seeking William T. Bagley's seat if Bagley accepts an appointment in the Nixon administration.

"Losers don't get priority," this writer's source said in a jibe at supervisors Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Thomas T. Storer. They barely have concealed their hunger for another try at the electorate that rejected them.

Behr, unlike these two outgoing supervisors, chose not to run again for what was certain reelection.

A REPUBLICAN since birth, Behr is not the sort of conservative Republican the Reagan administration would prefer, but even the administration might find it more important to go with a possible winner than with a candidate who merely would toe the line.

The Republicans hold the Assembly by only one vote, so any special election would be vital to the party's nominal control of the lower house.

If the vacancy occurred, Reagan would have to call a special election to replace Bagley. He cannot simply appoint a replacement.

THE ELECTION would be a doozy. The primary would be "sudden death" if any candidate got more than 50 per cent of the votes. If none got more than 50 per cent, then a runoff between the top vote getters in each party would be held only four weeks later.

The real kicker, however, is that there would be only one ballot for voters, regardless of their party, so a strong, moderate Republican could attract a large Democratic vote in Marin.

Still up in the air, of course, is the central question of whether there even will be a vacancy. Bagley may go to Washington, but only if he gets a job significant enough to lure him away from the influential position he holds in the Assembly.

That is now up to Bagley's friends, President-elect Nixon and Robert H. Finch.

Cities, counties and special districts will be "swept aside by a tidal wave" if they continue their petty political bickering and maneuvering, he warned during a hearing on Bay Area transportation problems.

"Local government is becoming more and more intolerable, and there's a generation of Americans who won't stand for it," declared Karabian.

Proposed regional government in the Bay Area, he said, "looks good on paper, but unless you can sell it, our society is going to step on it — and over it." Local governments should start getting more interested in solving problems than holding onto their outdated powers, said Karabian.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A BRAND NEW patient turned up at the office of a prominent eye doctor, and was asked if he could read a card the doctor held up at the other end of the room. When he said no, the doctor moved closer and asked, "How about now?" Again the answer was no, so the doctor virtually shoved the card under the patient's nose, and barked, "Surely you can read this now."

"No," sighed the patient, then added, "I never learned to read."

U.S., Russia Talk Peace, Yet Build Toward War

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As both the Soviet Union and the United States increase the kill power of their armaments and both profess a desire for peace, the question naturally becomes "peace for whom?"

Under this line of thinking, the Soviets label the visit of two U.S. destroyers to the Black Sea a "provocation."

They, however, see no provocation in the immense buildup of their own forces in the Mediterranean, and in fact suggest that the U.S. Sixth Fleet withdraw from that inland sea and leave the peacekeeping duties to them.

WHEN THE RUSSIANS and their hard-lining Warsaw Pact allies invaded Czechoslovakia they did so with the avowed purpose of preserving the integrity of the so-called Socialist Commonwealth and saving the Czechs from counter-revolution.

It had little or nothing to do with the Czechs' own feelings.

Yet, when the NATO powers expressed alarm at the buildup of Russian troop strength at the borders of NATO's eastern limits and warned against further incursions in the areas of the Mediterannean or central Europe, the Soviet Union took this, too, as proof of the West's aggressive intent.

As the superpowers have steadily increased the kill powers of their nuclear weapons, there also has developed an unwritten but existing recognition of spheres of influence.

One indication was Western refusal to intervene in Hungary's behalf during its revolution against rule from Moscow in 1956.

Another could be read into Moscow's abrupt retreat when faced with the United States reaction to the presence of its missiles in Cuba.

And it was noteworthy that NATO's warning to Russia against further incursions in central or southern Europe contained no specific threat of military reprisal. It simply meant that any such action by the Russians would make international agreement that much harder to achieve.

A FIRST RESULT of the U.S.S.R.'s action against the Czechs and its threatening posture against others who might stray from the Soviet fold, was the military revitalization of NATO.

It led Britain, Canada and Belgium to abandon plans to decrease their NATO forces and instead to reinforce them. Denmark, Germany and the Netherlands also announced plans to increase their expenditures.

NATO itself increased its surveillance of Russian ships in the Mediterranean and considered a plan to establish a special fleet for emergency occasions. The United States promised to increase its participation in NATO maneuvers next year.

But in a starving world it also is expensive and the question leads to the next.

When nations have used all their resources on armament, what then?

Nixon Still Planning To Appoint Democrat United Nations Envoy

NEW YORK (UPI)—President-elect Richard M. Nixon will name the man who will serve as his ambassador to the United Nations later in the week, it was announced today.

The individual, according to press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, will be a Democrat.

Last Wednesday when he unveiled his cabinet, Nixon promised that he would choose a Democrat for the post. His aides said the announcement would be coming "within the immediate days."

R. Sargent Shriver, currently U.S. ambassador to France and previously director of the anti-poverty program under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations had been considered the most likely choice, but the relatively long delay in making the announcement has raised speculation Nixon may now be looking elsewhere.

Ziegler was peppered with questions by reporters wanting to know whether Nixon had changed his view on Senate ratification of the nuclear proliferation treaty. During the campaign Nixon said he favored the treaty but felt that the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia had changed the situation and the United States should not ratify it while Soviet troops are in Czechoslovakia.

However, yesterday, following a Nixon meeting with GOP congressional leaders, Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois indicated he would support ratification if President Johnson asked the Senate to act on the pact between the outset of the 93rd Congress Jan. 3 and Nixon's inauguration Jan. 20.

"Mr. Nixon will not be stating a position on foreign or domestic issues before Jan. 20 and this includes the non-proliferation treaty," Ziegler said.

REAGAN DEPLORES CAMPUS PROTESTS

Governor Applauds Hayakawa's Hard Line Policy; Raps Teachers Who Back Students

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said today California has come "to a point of confrontation" with college protesters and "we must take a stand."

In his strongest attack yet on campus rebels, the governor, at a news conference, praised San Francisco State College acting president Dr. S. I. Hayakawa for his tough line against demonstrators.

"I think on the basis of attrition, Dr. Hayakawa is winning," Reagan said.

The governor announced that neither the University of California nor the state colleges will get as much money as they are seeking in the forthcoming state budget.

"We're not going to go to the people and ask for new taxes," said Reagan.

And he chided television for its coverage of the San Francisco State College demonstrations. He said television newsmen should photograph students in class "instead of dwelling on the noon hour" demonstrations which he said were "very exciting and make good photography."

It was Reagan's first news conference in the Capitol since Nov. 6, and most of the time was occupied with questions on the protests that have erupted at San Francisco State, San Fernado Valley State, College of San Mateo, and other colleges by members of the Black Students Union, the Students for Democratic Society and other groups.

He was especially critical of professors—mostly members of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO—who are joining the protests.

Again, Reagan said he opposes any negotiations over the protesters' demands for departments of black studies and other changes in state college educational policy.

He said that the contracts of teachers who engage in the protests shouldn't be renewed and that student demonstrators should be dropped from school.

"There is nothing to negotiate with them," he said of the professors. "These professors are there on a contract basis."

Reagan maintained that despite his cuts in educational budget requests, state colleges will be able to set up departments of ethnic studies by shifting faculty members on individual campuses.

On other matters, Reagan said he:

Couldn't say when he will appoint a successor to Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, who is the new secretary of health, education and welfare.

College Calm; Talks Set On Teacher Aims

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Representatives of the state college system at San Francisco State College arranged to meet today in efforts to avert another kind of campus turmoil — a teachers' strike.

The two Bay Area campus troublespots — San Francisco State and College of San Mateo 10 miles to the south — remained free yesterday of disturbances by students now on Christmas vacation.

Police limited entrance to the campus to one road, scrutinized every car and turned away a score of persons who didn't have proper identification. As an extra precaution, they checked student body cards against enrollment records.

At San Francisco State, closed for Christmas a week earlier than usual because of two weeks of violence, meetings were arranged to try to head off a teachers' strike threatened for Jan. 6.

Yesterday Theodore Meriam of Chico, chairman of the state College Board of Trustees agreed to the "discussion" with the American Federation of Teachers, a militant union which backs the demands of dissident students who have kept the campus in an uproar since early November.

Meriam appointed Norman Epstein, general legal consel for the trustees and Dr. C. Mansel Keene, assistant chancellor for faculty and staff affairs, to meet with AFT representatives, but the president of the local union said there was nothing new in Meriam's statement, which gave approval for grievance hearings.

"It is only a statement that it is legal for the trustees to meet and discuss the issues with the AFT," said Gary Hawkins. "The AFT has always known that such meeting are legal."

Hawkins said Meriam did "not indicate to Local 1352 any willingness to negotiate on the issues."

Meriam's statement was made in a telegram to Ronald Haughton, a mediator brought

In his reply, Johnson thanked the 740,000 postal employees for devotion to duty.

Lawmakers Draft New Region Plan

Proposed Superagency Would Be Born By 1970

By PAUL E PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A detailed proposal for setting up a regional government in the Bay Area in 1970 was unveiled today by a legislative committee studying the need for a new layer of government.

The proposal was drawn by the Joint Committee on Bay Area Regional Organization (BARO) after hearings throughout the nine-county region, and is likely to set the form of any similar proposal to come before the 1969 Legislature.

It was presented here in the State Building by the chairman of the committee, Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond.

The regional government would meet only present, critical Bay Area problems, explained Knox, but would be empowered to "add on" to its jurisdiction additional powers "as are required."

Specifically, the proposal calls for a regional government which would take over the functions of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission after it goes out of existence in late 1969, would begin work on the billion-dollar regional sewage disposal facilities needed by 1980, would "designate major transportation corridors for the region and coordinate the various types of transit which will use such corridors," and would acquire, operate and maintain regional parks and open space.

Knox told newsmen that the proposal does not call for the immediate take-over of other regional agencies or districts for two reasons. First, there is no clear indication that this would "produce better services or lower costs for Bay Area residents," and second, more time is needed to work out the details of transferring existing agencies to a regional government, he said.

Knox said the proposal did not yet have the formal approval of his committee, but predicted the committee would approve it next month in Sacramento. Knox also predicted "a broad base of support" for the proposal among Bay Area residents.

However, he conceded, "it will be somewhat controversial in the Legislature."

Adele Alpers Quits County School Post

Mrs. Adele J. Alpers, 74, who has served on the Marin County board of education longer than any member, has submitted her resignation because of illness.

Asst. County Superintendent Stanley Friese said a letter of resignation was received yesterday. He said the board will hold a special meeting at 6 p.m. Thursday at the district offices in Corte Madera to consider the resignation.

If accepted, the resignation would be effective immediately, Friese said, and the board would then establish a procedure for replacing Mrs. Alpers. Her term expires June 30, 1971.

Mrs. Alpers, of 139 Bay View Drive, Bayside Acres, San Rafael, was elected to the board May 18, 1956. She was board president in 1960 and was re-elected as president in 1961. She also has served on the County Parks and Recreation Commission, and in 1962 was on the California Council on Crime and Delinquency.

FBI Agent Found Shot To Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The body of an FBI agent was found shot to death in a parking courtyard of the Justice Department today. Authorities said he apparently committed suicide.

The FBI identified the man as Special Agent Thomas Elrod, 35, Woodbridge, Va. He was assigned to the FBI Laboratory in the Justice Department building.

There were said to be indications Elrod might have shot himself and then plunged out an eighth floor window.

Illinois Court Stays Speck's Execution

CHICAGO (AP) — The electrocution of Richard Speck, 27, for murdering eight student nurses was stayed today by the Illinois Supreme Court pending possible future action by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Jan. 31 had been set as the date for execution.

Fair-Marin Given Grounds Control

The County of Marin and Fair-Marin Inc., today agreed to let Fair-Marin manage the Veterans Memorial Auditorium and the 30-acre fairgrounds site at the Civic Center.

The action came on a motion by Supervisor William A. Gnoss and a unanimous vote of the board of supervisors. The contract gives the Fair-Marin board autonomy in managing the fairgrounds but gives the county control over planning and development of the fairgrounds site.

Fair-Marin will have two budgets — one to operate the county fairgrounds property and another to run its own cultural activities off the Civic Center site.

Today's action climaxes a year-long battle between Fair-Marin directors and the county administrator's office over the extent of authority Fair-Marin would have over the fairgrounds.

The administrator originally wanted to limit Fair-Marin's authority to the memorial auditorium and a few acres around it, but Fair-Marin won control over 80 acres of the 140-acre Civic Center site.

Developer's Daughter Is Kidnaped

ATLANTA (UPI)—An Emory University co-ed, the daughter of a wealthy Miami real estate executive, was kidnaped from a motel room today by a man with a shotgun who identified himself as a policeman.

The gunman tied up Mrs. Jane Mackle, mother of Barbara Jane Mackle, 20 then fled with the girl, a darkhaired beauty who is a junior at the Atlanta school.

The FBI refused to discuss the case, but officers swarmed around a motel on the edge of the Emory campus throughout the morning.

Motel employees were ordered not to discuss the case as were employes of the Deltona Corp. in Miami. The girl's father, Robert F. Mackle, 57, is secretary-treasurer of Deltona, vast land development company.

Mrs. Mackle was apparently unhurt by the gunman. Officers said Mrs. Mackle admitted a man to her room after he identified himself as a policeman. He immediately trained his shotgun on the women, tied up the mother and took the girl away.

Soviets Launch Another Cosmos

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today the launching of an unmanned earth satellite in its Cosmos series with an orbit ranging from 24,591 miles above the earth down to 310 miles.

Tass said that Cosmos 260, launched yesterday was circling the earth once every 11 hours and 52 minutes.

Novatans Could Elect Mayor By Simple Passage Of Change

Should the people of Novato elect their mayor?

At first this does not seem like a logical question, but it is. The city is incorporated as a general law city. Voters elect a city council. The council in turn selects one of its members for mayor.

Nobody questioned this until Ronald Rauhecker of 91 Trish Drive raised the question at last week's council meeting. He asked why a city the size of Novato did not elect its own mayor.

Two former mayors, J. Wayne Womack and M. E. Babe Silva each thought that the way Novato did it was the only way that it could be done in general law cities. Mayor Harley McAskill said he thought the law had been changed so the people could elect their mayor directly.

The council placed the item on its agenda for its Jan. 14 meeting.

A CHECK with City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. showed that McAskill was correct. General law cities may elect a mayor, he said. The law was changed in 1959, according to Palmer.

The steps necessary for the change would be to place it on the ballot at a municipal election as a proposition to the people to elect the mayor to serve for a four-year term. It would take only a simple majority for passage.

THE SAN MARIN Improvement Association has done the entire city of Novato a big favor. It has just issued a directory of San Marin residents, listing the residents alphabetically and then according to addresses.

The directory also lists 65 young people, ages and addresses, who are available for babysitting.

This indeed is a good service, not only to the young people for getting the work, but also to couples who want to go out and may not be able to engage their usual baby sitters.

Which leads to another point. If memory serves us correctly, the Marinwood Fire Department has conducted babysitting classes.

This might bring a smile to many people, but there is a definite need for some training for this job.

In addition to the routine things such as feeding and changing a baby, and putting older children to bed, the babysitter may be called on to face emergencies. In these cases, a knowledge of what to do can be helpful.

The baby sitter should know the emergency telephone number of the doctor, fire department and police. A little knowledge in the fundamentals of first aid would not hurt, either.

We're sure that if some organization was interested in sponsoring such a course for an hour some night, it would find the young people interested in babysitting more than willing to participate. It would probably find firemen and police who would explain the functions of their departments in emergencies.

NOVATO is indebted to the General Cigar Co. of New York and Charles Schulz for making the names of two of its new citizens common household words.

They are Robert Burns and Charlie Brown. Robert Burns, the Scotch poet, achieved fame when a cigar was named for him. He is also a Maj. Gen. Robert Burns, commander of the Fourth Air Force at Hamilton Air Force Base.

When I told someone the new city manager of Novato is Charlie Brown, he commented that he supposed he would soon have an assistant named "Snoopy" hired at $8,000 per year.

ALFRED BOWMAN of Novato lost his car in a bad fire last Wednesday evening. He ran over a mattress on Highway 101 and before he could get it out from under the car, it had set the car on fire.

As he stood there watching the firemen fight the blaze, he overheard someone remark:

"I've heard about people starting a fire by smoking in bed, but this is ridiculous!"

Tricky Technique Of Offering Job So It Will Be Rejected

WASHINGTON — One of the tricks every President-elect must learn is how to offer a job to somebody in such a way that he will have to refuse it.

While Mr. Nixon spent many hours selecting his cabinet, he spent many other hours talking to men he had no intention of hiring. One of them was Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. How Mr. Nixon offered Governor Rockefeller a job, without offering it to him, is something we'll have to wait to find out when their memoirs are written. But until then, there is no harm in guessing.

"NELSON, it's good you could stop by. How's Happy?"

"She's very happy, Dick. Well, I guess you've got a tough job selecting the right cabinet for the country."

"I do, Nelson, It isn't easy to find dedicated, selfless men who are willing to come to Washington and spend four years making the great decision of history."

"Oh, it can't be that hard, Dick. I imagine there are many men who would love to serve in your cabinet."

"DO YOU KNOW of any, Nelson?"

"Well, I haven't been thinking about it much. Let me see. For secretary of state, you ought to find someone with a prestigious name, identified with public service, with a clear, liberal image, who perhaps is the governor of a very large state."

"Exactly my thinking, Nelson. But I can't think of anyone with all these qualifications. And, heaven knows, my people have looked. What about secretary of defense, Nelson? Do you have any ideas for me there?"

"Well, Dick, I think you ought to find someone with a prestigious name, identified with public service, with a clear liberal image, who perhaps is the governor of a very large state."

"I'D RATHER HAVE Volpe for secretary of transportation."

"I wasn't thinking of Volpe, Dick."

"Well, Reagan's out of the question. If I put Finch in the Cabinet as HEW secretary, I can't put Reagan in, too."

"I wasn't thinking of Reagan, either."

"Then who were you thinking of, Nelson?"

"I wasn't thinking of anybody. I was trying to answer your question."

"HOW HAPPY, Nleson?"

"You asked me that before. She's fine. Who have you got in mind for secretary of the treasury?"

"I was going to ask you about that, Nelson. Whom do you think I ought to get?"

"I think you ought to find someone with a prestigious name, identified with public service, someone with a clear liberal image who perhaps is governor of a very large state."

"How about your brother, David?"

"He's not a governor."

"INCIDENTALLY, Nelson, how's Happy?"

"Look, Dick, I have to get back to Albany. Is there anything else you want to ask me about?"

"Well, frankly, Nelson, I'd like you to be on my team, and there is one key job that everyone is going to be watching so far as my appointments go."

"Anything you say, Dick."

"You remember when President Johnson appointed his secretary's husband to the subversive activities board and the squawk that went up?"

"I sure do."

"THAT JOB is open, Nelson, and I thought that if you would consider . . .

"I'm sorry, Dick. I like my job as governor of a very large state. It's prestigious. It identifies me with public service and gives me a clear liberal image. I wouldn't think of coming to Washington in a million years."

83 Items Sold

The Novato Police Department made 83 sales Saturday in its annual auction of bicycles and other items picked up during the past year. The auction netted $333 which will go into the city's general fund, Police Chief Robert DiGrazia said.

Junior Horsemen Elect Officers

Jean Rankin of 65 Ormond Court, Novato, is vice president, and Sue Reed of 1034 Las Raposas, Terra Linda, secretary.

Awards were given to Donna Bellucci of 7 Equestrian Court for best grooming: Becky Loftus of 1848 Indian Valley Road, attendance and participation; Karen Wright of 1137 Court Road, all Novato, demonstration and Miss Reed, highest points.

Judges Announced For Home Displays

Outdoor lighting in the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato will be judged at 7 p.m. Friday, sponsored by the Marin Country Club Garden Club.

Judges will be Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Cirelli of 20 Bogey Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf N. Wallace of 48 Eagle Drive and Mr. and Mrs. John A. McVey of 361 Fairway Drive, all winners from last year's contest.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Warns Students

PARIS (AP) — With student unrest on the rise again in France, Premier Maurice Couve de Murville said last night the government will tolerate no more university sit-ins.

Four hours after France's largest student organization called for a nationwide class boycott, Couve de Murville asked in a television address for students, teachers and the government to work together.

"Contention must be ended," he declared. "This signifies that politics has no place in the high schools. This signifies that first of all no occupation will be tolerated in the universities."

The student strike call was not considered a serious threat to public order since the Christmas holidays are about to begin. But new campus control measures touched off first fights and other confrontations between students and police.

Quads Again

IMPERIA, Italy (AP) — A 28-year-old woman whose first set of quadruples died at birth a year ago gave birth to four more babies today. One died.

The other three were reported in good condition by doctors at the Villa Rosana Clinic. The mother, Maria Columbu Gariano, wife of a policeman, was reported well.

The couple had expected three babies, and had chosen names for two boys and a girl.

Two boys and two girls were born. One of the girls died.

$10,000 Reward

MONTREAL (AP) — The city of Montreal is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of bomb terrorists and is challenging the Quebec Federation of Labor and the Confederation of National Trade Unions to match the sum.

Fifty-five bombs, most of them sticks of dynamite attached to timing devices, have either exploded or been found in the Montreal area in the past seven months.

70 Pins Back

CHICAGO (AP) — A Sears, Roebuck and Co. spokesman said yesterday about 70 jewelry pins garnished with deadly beans and sold by Sears across the nation have been returned.

But some 200 to 330 of the pins decorated with the extremely toxic jequirity beans still have not been brought back, he said.

Fighting Heavy

LAGOS (AP) — Heavy fighting was reported on several fronts in Nigeria today, and western-television cameramen reported Biafran troops have reentered Owerri and virtually encircled Nigerian troops there.

Resumes Trials

GREENOCK, Scotland (AP) — The 65-000-ton Queen Elizabeth II left drydock today to resume her trials. The liner carried a full crew for the first time.

Catholic Theologians Ask Six Vatican Curia Reforms

ZURICH, SWITZERLAND (AP) — Some 40 internationally known Roman Catholic theologians stated today that the teaching authority of the Pope and his bishops must not impede the theologian's scientific task.

The group, which included at least one scholar whose teachings are under investigation by the Vatican, warned that "any form of inquisition" would cause immeasurable damage to the church.

The theologians petitioned Pope Paul VI to make six major reforms in the Vatican Curia, the central administration of the church. Among them was retirement of cardinals on reaching 75.

The petititon was published by the Neue Zuercher Zeitung, which said it originated in Nijmegen, Holland, and soon would be printed in Concilium, an international review of theology.

Signers included leading progressive theologians, among them Prof. Eduard Schillebeeck of Nijmegen, Hans Kueng of Switzerland, Karl Rahner of West Germany, M.D. Chenu and Yves Congar of Paris, and John McKenzie and Ronald Murphy of the United States.

Progressives at the Vatican reported in September that the conservative-dominated Congregaton for the Doctrine of the Faith, the former Holy Office, was preparing a heresy trial against Prof. Schillebeeckx, a Dominican father who is theological adviser to the Dutch Catholic bishops. The Vatican, however, said there would be no trial.

Old Del Mar Hotel Declared Nuisance

DEL MAR (AP) — The 120-room Del Mar hotel, once-glamorous setting for gala parties of movie stars and socialities during the horse race season, is a public nuisance, city officials said yesterday.

The city says most windows now are broken, there have been 20 small fires in recent months, and it wants the church organization that owns it to board up windows and install a guard.

Electoral College Makes It Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Electoral College has made it official—Richard M. Nixon will be the 37th president of the United States.

And many of the 538 members who cast their ballots yesterday also made something else clear—they think the college is outdated.

Balloting by the college went pretty much according to script as members met in the 50 state capitals and District of Columbia to fulfill the tasks voters chose them for Nov. 5.

There were exceptions in North Carolina and Michigan that left Nixon with 301 votes instead of 302, Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey wound up with the expected 191, and George Wallace, the third party presidential candidate, got one more than originally expected with 46.

In North Carolina, Dr. Lloyd W. Bailey of Rocky Mount, jumped the tracks and cast his ballot for Wallace while the other 12 electors voted for Nixon.

"The Electoral College is one part of the system of checks and balances which guarantees that the minority voice can be heard," said Bailey.

In Michigan, former Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency, something of a political maverick, refused to cast his ballot for Humphrey who had won the state's 21 votes. The other electors picked a replacement to keep the delegation's Humphrey vote intact.

The U.S. Constitution technically allows the electors to vote for any candidate they choose. But tradition dictates, and some state laws demand, that the electors follow the result of the popular vote in their respective states.

There were some other minor foulups.

North Carolina's electors found themselves without someone to administer an oath and it was more than an hour past the appointed time when they finally dug up a judge.

Modern Americana stalled the New York session at Albany when one bloc of electors got delayed in a stackup of commuter trains and the man who was supposed to preside was delayed when his flight got held up at crowded Kennedy International Airport.

The New York Democrats finally cast their ballots for Humphrey in the afternoon after eating lunch on the state's Republican administration—a fact they gleefully noted.

Reagan Sees Elector Rule As Outmoded

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan and other California presidential electors agree the current Electoral College system is too old-fashioned for jet-age politics.

"I think some correction could be made," Reagan told newsmen yesterday after joining 39 other California electors in officially casting the state's electoral votes for native-son Rchard M. Nixon.

Following the requirements of the 164-year-old 12th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, the electors met in the State Senate chamber, went through a half hour of necessary bookkeeping and filled out ballots showing they favored Nixon, who carried the state over Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey by 233,000 votes out of more than 7 million cast in the Nov. 5 election.

All that kept it from being a routine day was a minor traffic crash. A bus carring about 30 of the electors to a luncheon at the Cal Expo site was hit in the side by an auto.

U.S. Leading Major Push On Red Fort

SAIGON (UPI)—About 7,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops today attacked a Communist jungle mountain fortress threatening Da Nang, the nation's second largest city. First reports said they killed at least 123 guerrillas and captured 41 suspects.

It was reported from the battle zone that Leathernecks and South Vietnanese troops engaged in Operation Taylor were using saws and machetes to chop their way through steaming, sun-blocking jungle to reach the Red fortress. Today they fought at the fortresses' outer defenses.

KEPT A SECRET

Allied commanders ordered the drive Dec. 7. But they kept it secret while some 3,000 Leathernecks wheeled down from South Vietnam's northern border to join the drive into the triple canopy jungles 25 miles southwest of Da Nang, the bastion city 30 miles up the coast from Saigon.

U.S. spokesmen said 18 Marines have been killed and 73 wounded in the fighting. The battle zone is 15 miles southwest of a Red stronghold called "Dodge City" where allied forces killed 1,025 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese earlier this month in the war's largest jungle dragnet operation.

LOWLAND POST

The Communist mountain fortress commands the lowlands—called "Arizona territory" by the GIs—that leads into Da Nang, a city of 347,000 persons.

Allied warplanes literally blew off the tops of nearby hills to clear the way for the American artillery batteries that, in the final analysis, have proved the death of previous Red fortresses in South Vietnam's northern provinces.

Saigon Holding Firm On Talk Table Shape

PARIS (AP) — The Saigon government's negotiators in Paris say they will yield no further in the dispute over the shape of the table for the Vietnam peace talks.

The South Vietnamese delegation "has gone far enough" and "cannot diverge from the formula of a two-sided conference," delegation officials said.

Saigon's view on the procedural dispute holding up the peace parley was conveyed again to the Americans last night at a dinner session of the top allied negotiators: U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and his deputy, Cyrus R. Vance; South Vietnam's Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Ambassador Pham Dang Lam.

Earlier yesterday Ky issued a sharp denial of U.S. Defense Secretary Frank M. Clifford's implication that Saigon was much to blame for the continuing delay in the start of the conference. He said ever since Clifford succeeded Robert S. McNamara, "Secretary Clifford has shown a gift for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time."

The new chief of the Viet Cong delegation, Tran Buu Kiem, censured both the United States and South Vietnam equally upon his arrival from Hanoi yesterday.

Preparations for the meeting are "being dragged out by the delaying tactics of the United States and the Saigon administration," he told 300 cheering welcomers at the airport. Kiem is considered the foreign minister of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The shape of the table at which the negotiators will sit is the focal issue in the quarrel over arrangements for the conference because the shape will symbolize status.

New Purge Expected In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's military-dominated government is expected to launch a sweeping purge stripping hundreds of its opponents of their political rights, as a result of President Arthur de Costa Silva's first major speech since the suspension of Congress last Friday.

The president told the graduating class of the army staff school and top military leaders last night that the house-cleaning undertaken following the 1964 revolution "unfortunately" had not been completed.

Nigeria Warns Biafra Citizens Of Raids

LAGOS (UPI)—The Federal Nigerian government last night warned civilians in territory held by the rebel Biafran government to stay away from military targets.

Military observers said it may indicate the federal government is planning to step up air attacks on the secessionist territory.

U.N. Urges Speed

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United Nations General Assembly trusteeship committee voted 105-0 yesterday, to ask Spain to hurry transfer of Ifni, a North African territory within Morocco, to Morocco and get ready for a U.N.-sponsored referendum in the Spanish Sahara.

Meany Boycotts Labor Group On Reuther's Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany has announced a boycott of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions until it rejects membership to a new alliance including Walter Reuther's auto workers.

Meany told a news conference yesterday he considers the Alliance for Labor Action, formed by the United Auto Workers and Teamsters Union which are both non-AFL-CIO members, a rival organization.

"We will take no part in any activities of the ICFTU whatsoever until this matter is disposed of," Meany said.

The AFL-CIO pays $515,000 a year toward operation of the international organization which conducts programs of mutual interest to its labor organization members throughout most of the world.

Auto workers president Reuther withdrew his 1.6-million-member union from the AFL-CIO last summer after a long dispute with Meany over U.S. labor policy.

Rohnert Park Center Work Stalled By Rain

Heavy rains have slowed construction on the Rohnert Park Community and Recreation Center and will delay its opening by at least a month, the city council learned last night.

Originally planned to open Jan. 1, the center will not be completed now until the end of the month, construction officials reported. They said weather conditions will govern the progress since roofing has been scheduled for this time period.

Vice Mayor Jimmie Rodgers is establishing a committee to plan official dedication. The council last night also approved a progress payment of $15,636 to project architect Larry Simons.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

TEEN-AGERS — Considered in closed session the appointment of teen-agers to vacancies on the park and recreation commission and the cultural arts commission. Robert Daggett, principal of Rancho Cotate High School, had submitted the names of three students.

SALARIES — Approved monthly salary raises from $950 to $1,025 for C. A. Wiggins, director of public works, and Bradley Koch, public safety director, effective Jan. 1.

CATV — Adopted ordinance establishing basic rate for cable television service at $4.70 per month with Storer Cable TV, Inc.

DANCES — Introduced for study an ordinance requiring licensing and regulation of dances and dances halls as requested by Koch.

PLAQUE — Presented plaque of appreciation to Dr. Donald Davis for six years' service as chairman of the parks and recreation commission. Davis resigned Nov. 4.

PAYMENT — Approved final payment of $1,993 to Northwestern Pacific Railroad for construction of a grade crossing at Wilfred Avenue. Total project cost was $12,378.

GOLF COURSE DRIVE — Approved payment of $1,505 for soils engineering inspection fee on Golf Course Drive.

POOL RATES — Cut rates in half for entrance to the Benecia swimming pool for the month of December. If patronage requires, the pool will be kept open on a year-round basis.

Execution Slated For Sonoma Man

RENO (AP) — Washoe Dist. Judge John Barrett has set Jan. 13 for the execution of a 24-year-old Sebastopol man convicted of murder in 1962 and scheduled four times to die in Nevada's gas chamber.

Barrett scheduled the execution date yesterday for Lester E. Morford III after refusing to rule on a petition by a defense attorney asking that Morford's guilty plea be withdrawn and the State Supreme Court name a three-judge panel to reconsider the case.

Morford had been sentenced to die by a three-judge panel after he pleaded guilty Aug. 22, 1962, to a charge of murder in the slaying of Jack Foster, 23, of Medford, Ore.

But execution has been delayed by a variety of unsuccessful appeals, three of them which reached the U.S. Supreme Court. Morford testified in the 1962 trial he was intoxicated from model airplane glue when the incident occurred.

College Boosters To Plan Drive

The board of directors of the College of Marin Foundation will hold a planning meeting for the 1969 scholarship and loan fund drive at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Fine Arts Building, Ernest N. Ketterhoffen, second vice-president, said.

Drive chairman J. Galen Foster of San Rafael and his co-chairmen, Donald L. Johnson of Novato and Edwin Johnson of San Rafael, are expected to outline the campaign's methods and objectives. The campaign is slated to start early next year.

Foundation funds go for scholarships, short term emergency loans and matching funds for National Defense student loans.

Bigger Planning Voice On Agenda

A committee-approved plan giving the Marin City Council and Marin City Community Services District a greater planning voice will be heard when the Marin County Redevelopment Agency meets at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at Manzanita Center in Marin City.

A coordinating committee representing the agency, council and district last week approved a plan to have the council and district meet to study any plans for development of a nine-acre commercial site in Marin City before the plan comes to the redevelopment agency.

The agency will also consider several questions presented earlier by the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association about legality of giving planning power to the council and other community organizations.

The Marin County Housing Authority will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Manzanita Center to consider a proposed county election in April to authorize more than the present 200 units of senior citizens' housing in Marin.

Innocent Pleas To Growing Marijuana

Suzanne Ziegler, 21, and William Kreutzmann Jr., 22, both of Nicasio, pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge they gew marijuana at their residence Sept. 18.

Jury trial for the couple was set for the week of April 7.

Board Lets Pupils Decide Skirt Length

The Tomales Bay School District board last night left the length of girl's dresses in the school's dress code up to the student council, according to Supt. Ralph E. Nixon.

The student council met this morning and decided that the dresses should not be more than five inches above the floor when the girl is in a kneeling position, Nixon said.

"By this action, the board let the students set their own code and gave them a chance to put democracy into action," Nixon said.

The Tomales Bay School District board also:

APPLICATIONS — The board authorized Nixon to apply for $200 in library book funds from the federal government and $3,000 for matching funds for audio-visual materials from the National Defense Education Act funds.

BLOOMFIELD — Decided not to sell the approximately two acres of the Bloomfield School property at this time. This is the playing grounds across the street from the school building. The district has sold the building.

CREDIT CARDS — Approved the use of credit cards for making telephone calls. This action was necessitated because it constitutes a contract and must be approved by the board, according to Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell.

ATTENDANCE — Heard a report from Nixon that the average daily attendance this year was 237, compared to 210 last year.

Sewer Districts Merger Sought By Bay Board

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A March deadline for the Bolinas Community Public Utility District and the Stinson Beach County Water District to conclude arrangements for a merger will be considered by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Alameda County Board of Supervisors chambers, 1221 Oak Street.

The regional board long has tried to stop the Bolinas district from dumping raw sewage into the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon, and has been encouraging merger of the two districts to seek a joint solution of their sewage problems.

The deadline would be enforced by imposing a cease and desist order to stop the Bolinas district from dumping into the lagoon.

The item is number 27 on the board agenda, and probably will not be covered until late in the day, according to a spokesman for the district.

Novato Planners Vote For Mobile Home Law

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved an ordinance establishing standards for mobile home parks within the city.

The ordinance will go before the city council Jan. 14, according to Planning Director Brian W. Mattson.

Some of the standards set were: a minimum of 20 acres per park with a maximum density of seven units per acre and a minimum lot size of 3,000 square feet. Parking should be provided for two cars per unit with guest parking as required by the plan review committee, according to the standards.

The ordinance also required a green belt, underground utilities and storage facilities.

Other items which may be included in the park are offices; park maintenance workshop; coin operated laundry and dry cleaning facilities, vending machines inside the community building, recreation and meeting halls, storage facilities and car wash facilities.

The ordinance calls for a minimum of 50 spaces ready for occupancy before any mobile home may be moved into the park. The wheels of the mobile home should be concealed either with fencing or grading.

Meeting Not Held

The Marin City Target Area Board did not meet last night for lack of a quorum. The board will meet at 8 p.m. Jan. 6 in the Manzanita Center, secretary Reba Mason said.

San Anselmo Planners Vote For Apartments

The vote came on motion of Commissioner Wilbur H. Tusler Jr. and was backed by Commissioners John F. West and Joseph Gue. Dissenting, saying density would be too high, were Commissioners Allen J. Creighton and Philip S. Heinecke.

The commission Dec. 9 gave tentative approval of the application, by Emily Merriman, to rezone her property from single family to planned development for the apartment project. She had asked for 24 units, but agreed to cut two units, and also agreed to dedicate frontage on Madrone and Center Boulevard for street widening.

The commission approved 33 parking spaces for the project, with 31 to be provided first and two others at a later date.

The application now goes to the city council for consideration.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

PARKING — Denied the application of Andrew Stafford to provide three instead of four parking spaces at an apartment building at 188 Tunstead Avenue.

VARIANCE — Granted Stella A. Ehrenfelt a four foot and a six-foot sideyard setback variance for rebuilding a house at 33 Scenic Avenue.

ACCESS — Agreed to recommend to the city council that Center Boulevard be made a limited access street from Madrone Avenue to Fairfax. This would prevent driveway access on Center from new residences.

PUBLIC HEARING — Scheduled a public hearing for 8 p.m. Dec. 30 at city hall for proposed widening of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from a 60-foot right-of-way to 64 feet from San Francisco Boulevard to Butterfield Road.

Lagunitas Board Drafts Guides For The Future

Lagunitas School District board members last night agreed to draw up lists of guidelines they believe should be included in a handbook for future boards, Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff reported today.

Agreement followed a review of the building program for the San Geronimo Valley Elementary School, McCunniff said. The school opened last month.

John Winn of the state Department of School Planning attended last night's meeting to discuss his department's role in planning school construction, McCunniff said.

The superintendent reported Winn said the department is available for consultation in the early planning stages on what is needed in a district; and for approval of plans, especially on facilities using state funds.

Burglars Invade Homes For $1,850

Two residential burglaries that netted the thieves an estimated $1,850 worth of loot were committed in Sausalito yesterday, police reported.

Robert G. Perring of 178 Glen Drive told police burglars entered between 7:30 a.m. and 7:50 p.m. and took stereo equipment valued at $1,000.

At 39 Cable Roadway, home of Harold T. Treacy, thieves pried open a dutch door between 1:30 and 7:50 p.m. and took $850 worth of assorted loot including a polar bear rug, a hood ornament from a 1924 Chrysler, an antique silver and brass shoe, three watches, two pairs of binoculars and a radio.

Woman Injured In Viaduct Accident

Gertrude McNamara, 48, of 85 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a cut forehead and cut right leg after the car she rode in hit the side rail of the San Rafael viaduct on Highway 101, the California Highway Patrol said.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her daughter, Marilyn C. McNamara, 18, of the same address. The accident occurred at 7:20 p.m., the highway patrol said, when Miss McNamara drove around a curve to find a stalled car blocking the left lane. She braked and slid into the rail. The stalled car drove away before the driver was identified.

Girl Is Struck In Parking Lot

Sandra Marcelli, 18, of 285 Orange Blossom Lane, Terra Linda, suffered back and elbow injuries early today when struck by a car in the driveway of the Greenbrae Lanes, 101 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Larkspur, police said.

She was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Officers said Miss Marcelli was preparing to enter a car at 1:15 a.m. when a car, driven by Keith L. Ray, 18, of 2 Meadowcraft Drive, San Anselmo, struck her. No citation was immediately issued, officers said.

Highway Bully Trouble Reported

A Santa Rosa family said a carload of five young men terrorized them Sunday as they drove from Rohnert Park to Petaluma on Highway 101.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Olson said the 1965 Oldsmobile followed them closely on the highway, with the driver blinking headlights and sounding the horn. When Olson pulled over to the side of the road, he said the five men began pounding on the car in a threatening manner.

Continuing south on the freeway, Olson went to a service station at Petaluma, where his wife, Cora, tried to telephone police. She said four of the men followed her into the station office.

She said they tore the phone from her hands, ripped the cord loose and struck her in the left eye. When her husband came to her rescue, the men fled.

Rescuers Eluded In Bridge Jump

A Daly City man leaped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday afternoon, eluding efforts to two men to seize him as he climbed the rail, the California Highway Patrol said.

The Coast Guard recovered the body of Edwin W. Mann, 61, an operating engineer, from the water at 3:19 p.m., 12 minutes after Mann stopped his car near the south tower and jumped.

The highway patrol said Jeremy G. Godbeer of Oakland and an unidentified passerby tried to stop Mann but he evaded them, climbed the railing and jumped.

He is survived by his wife, Blanche E. Mann of Daly City.

Forest Knolls Man Hears Weapon Count

Louis Fred Cisco, 25, of 175 Resaca Avenue, Forest Knolls, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on two charges of misdemeanor battery and one of brandishing a firearm for allegedly forcing two bill collectors for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. from his home Friday and striking them with the barrel of a .30-30-caliber rifle.

He was to plead to the charges today in Municipal Court.

Held To Answer

Ronald D. Russell, 32, of no fixed address, was held to answer in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge he possessed marijuana in two suitcases when arrested in Mill Valley July 24. He was told to answer the charge Dec. 30 in Superior Court.

Haugton was joined yesterday by another mediator, Samuel Jackson, a Negro director of the Disputes Settlement Center of the American Arbitration Association. He was scheduled to meet tomorrow with a special citizens' committee appointed by Mayor Joseph Alioto.

The AFT has threatened to take nearly one-fourth of the school's 1,100 faculty members out on strike when classes resume unless school officials meet a series of demands handed down by the Black Students Union and the Third World Liberation Front.

The demands include speedy implementation of a Department of Black Studies, firing of a white financial aid councellor and her replacement with a Negro, and restoration of suspended Black Panther George Murray to a position as an English instructor.

Leaders of the student strike—which began Nov. 6 and ultimately led to a massive show of police force on campus held a City Hall rally yesterday and vowed to continue the strike if their demands for more benefits for minorities are not met.

Police arrested Jerry Varnardo, a leader of the campus Black Students Union, on a previous warrant.

The BSU and the Third World Liberation Front representing non-Negro minority students have demanded establishment of a School of Ethnic Studies over which they would have control.

At San Mateo, the campus branch of the same two minority student groups want more ethnic courses and more financing for them.

A hastily formed organization called United Students for Order circulated petitions calling for an end to "student apathy to violence and intimidation and destruction of public property."

The petitions ask the removal from campus (San Mateo) of any person who attempt to "agitate and disrupt."

"We will be prepared for any trouble that might arise," said Robert Ewigleben, president of the 8,500-student college.

Ewigleben also disclosed yesterday that two persons most instrumental in the college's readiness program have bene relieved of their duties.

They were identified as Robert Hoover, director of the special tutorial and counseling program offered to students inadequately prepared for college level instruction, and Jean Wirth, a counselor in the program.

Ewigleben said Hoover and Miss Wirth would be reassigned to other duties in the San Mateo Junior College District.

Hoover was one of the speakers at the noon rally held on campus Friday that touched off the rioting which resulted in injuries to 12 and $15,000 in campus damage.

Goldstein Denies Houseboat Claim

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. yesterday turned back a challenge by houseboat owners of Marin Municipal Court's jurisdiction over the floating homes.

Attorney Carl Shapiro, representing two houseboat dwellers who face criminal charges for failure to apply for occupancy permits, had contended that the boats were under the sole jurisdiction of the federal government.

Court Date Set

John L. Messengale, 27, of Larkspur, was held to answer in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of stealing cars in Sausalito Sept. 28 and in Larkspur Sept. 15. He was ordered to appear in Superior Court Dec. 30 to answer the charges

Lawmakers Propose Superagency For Bay

such as Marin may fear they will not have an effective voice in a regional government, Knox said the proposal "will provide a better way of protecting everyone. We'll have to be united by our problems, which themselves are regional."

Knox said the legislative analyst's office estimated the cost of running a regional government at $1.5 million to $3 million a year.

Knox noted that the proposed regional government would have no power of eminent domain.

He also said the Bay Conservation and Development Commission should continue regulating bay fill until some form of regional government is set up in the Bay Area. The commission is scheduled to go out of business in late 1969.

The regional government would cover all nine Bay Area counties, and be established by a referendum at the 1970 primary election, according to the proposal by Knox's committee. A majority vote in the area, not in each county, would be necessary to set up the regional government.

Its governing body would be composed of 36 members, directly elected from districts and based on one man, one vote. The population of the districts would not be allowed to vary from the average by more than 15 per cent.

Members of the governing body would serve four-year terms, with 18 members elected every two years. Elections would be nonpartisan, Knox said.

The members would be paid an annual stipend of $6,000, and also receive payments for attendance at board meetings or other official business, for a maximum of $16,000. Travel expenses also would be paid.

Board vacancies would be filled by an election if more than one year of a vacant term remained, and by appointment if less than one year remained.

Officers would include a president, selected by the regional board either from the board or the general public, and a vice president selected by the board from its own members.

There also would be an executive committee, appointed by the regional board, to include the president and six to 10 board members. Five standing committees would be set up to oversee transportation, environmental quality, regional parks and open space, the bay, and public services. The five committees would report their recommendations back to the regional board.

Employees of the regional government would include an administrative officer, treasurer, planning director, attorney, clerk, auditor, and a civil service.

The law setting up the regional government would make the same provisions as in state law for initiative, referendum and recall.

The regional government's duties would include drawing of a general regional plan that would propose "specific regional objectives, policies and standards" for each of the five standing committees. The plan also would "have to include recommendations for specific short-term programs which would accomplish the objectives of the plan," according to Knox.

Local governments would be free to adopt specific local standards for land use and development "so long as they did not conflict with the general standards laid down by the regional government," according to Knox's proposal.

Existing plans by present regional agencies would be used as interim plans until a regional general plan was drawn.

Initially, the regional board would exercise control over the policy and management of other agencies "only where there was a clear regional need for such control," stressed Knox.

Specifically, this control would be exercised in the areas of water quality control and transportation.

Significantly, the regional government would have the authority "to determine the apportionment of state highway funds within the region," according to the Knox proposal.

The regional government also would review all applications for state and federal grants, a function now of the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG).

The proposal for a regional government drawn by ABAG, incidentally, sharply differs from the Knox proposal. ABAG's proposal envisions a regional board composed entirely of county supervisors and city councilmen, while Knox proposes the board be composed entirely of persons elected directly by the voters.

Presumably, the fact that the two proposals are so far apart leaves more room for bargaining when the Legislature considers bills to set up regional government in the Bay Area.

Last, the Knox proposal proposes seven possible sources of revenue: state and federal subventions, income surtax, sales and use taxes, property tax, documentary stamp tax, fees for filling the bay or dumping wastes into the bay, and by both general obligation and revenue bonds.

The joint committee, formed by the 1967 Legislature, is composed of eight Bay Area legislators, including Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael. Given $240,000 for expenses by the Legislature, the committee is to make its final recommendations to the Legislature by March, 1969.

Pupils Play Host To Head Start

Carrie Manley, president of the Granada Student Council, said the event was the result of a student suggestion and student planning. Gifts of stuffed animals and Christmas candy were financed by the student council, she said.

The program included a puppet show, "Rudolph the Red Nose Dog," so called because "we didn't have a reindeer," Carrie explained.

Burglary Hearing

Peter Michael Casali, 19, of Novato, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge that he burgled a home in that city Friday night. He was to return to court today to plead to the felony charge.

Spat Causes Damp Auto, Hurt Police

A San Rafael man was arrested last night on suspicion of resisting arrest, striking and biting police officers and disturbing the peace during an incident which started when his wife pushed his car, then unoccupied, into San Rafael canal, police said.

Arthur L. Valentine, 29, of 37 Meadow Drive, was booked into Marin County Jail and later released on $750 bail.

Valentine is accused of pushing Patrolman David H. Jones, kneeing Jones in the groin and also biting Patrolman Sherwin W. Hool's left arm during a melee after Jones arrested Valentine on suspicion of disturbing the peace.

The San Rafael Fire Department reported to police that at 8:30 p.m. a car was submerged in the canal outside Pete's Pier 15 bar, 15 Harbor Street. Shortly, Jones responded to a complaint about a disturbance in the bar, but didn't fnd any.

Jones instead found Valentine standing by the canal. Valentine told the officer that hs wife pushed his Volkswagen into the water, but also demanded that Jones leave the scene.

After the Valentines argued outside the bar, Jones arrested Valentine for disturbing the peace. The melee ensued before Valentine gave himself up.

Valentine was ordered to remove the car today from the canal. He will appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Revised Plans For Medians Approved

Revised landscape plans for the Miller and East Blithedale avenues median strips were approved last night by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, secretary Jeanne McLean reported.

Committee members were "very pleased" with the plans, Mrs. McLean said. The plans had been revised by landscape architect Eldon Beck after the committee last month critized them as "showing a lack of restraint."

Committee members also asked the staff to investigate the possibility of the city landscaping the island at the south end of Miller Avenue adjacent to Tamalpais High School.

The Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committe also:

SYCAMORE AVENUE — Asked that plans for access to the new middle school from Sycamore Avenue extension be restudied by architects and staff.

FOTOMAT — Declared that the intensity of lighting at the Fotomat stand in the Purity Market parking lot should be reduced.

STREET LIGHTING — Asked a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. representative and City Engineer Stanley M. Bala to discuss Miller Avenue street lighting at the Jan. 6 meeting.

PLAN REVIEW — Continued to Jan. 6 plan review for apartments at 181 Miller Avenue.

Petaluman Reports Garage Is Looted

Mrs. Joel Miller of 6 Payran Street, Petaluma, reported to police yesterday the theft of $608 worth of equipment from the garage of her home between Oct. 6 and Oct. 12.

Taken were three stereo speakers, a saxophone and case, a portable television clock radio and a tool box.

OBITUARIES

Clarence J. Bravo Dies At 46

Clarence J. Bravo, 46, of 1191 Mountain View Road, Petaluma, a dairyman, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

IN MEMORIAM

McCARTHY, MARIE — In loving memory of our dear mother MARIE McCARTHY who passed away December 17, 1962.

A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better never was made.
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by her friends, whom all she knew
Our wonderful mother, that mother was you.

Butterball - Capri

Equally delightful – broiled, BBQ or on the rotisserie. One 3 to 3½ lb Butterball; ½ cup soy sauce; 3 tblsp. cooking sherry; 1 tsp. Italian seasoning; ¼ tsp. coarse ground pepper; ½ tsp. Monosodium Glutamate (½ tsp. garlic powder, optional). Place all ingredients in a glass bowl, mix well. Place butterball in the marinade and turn so that all sides are coated. Let stand at room temperature 2 to 3 hours turning occasionally. Broil or BBQ at high heat 3 to 4 inches from heat source. Turn so that all sides get a nice crusty brown, approximately 30 to 35 minutes. Serve on a preheated platter, carve in diagonal slices ¼ inch thick. If cooked on a rotisserie, cook at high heat until meat thermometer registers doneness. Serves 4 to 6 people. Serve with a Paul Masson Burgundy.

Northgate Woes, Loitering Law Rebuke Prompt Study

San Rafael City Council, faced with a court ruling against the city's trespass ordinance and Northgate merchants seeking action, called last night for study on a new law.

Merchants renewed their complaints about drug traffic, drag racing, profanity, various forms of vandalism and shoplifting and the Northgate Shopping Center.

Councilman John A. Miskimen said, "It's obvious to me that Northgate is the pit of crime in San Rafael," but other councilmen contended there was more crime in East San Rafael.

Miskimen sought to establish the need for more police protection in the Northgate area, but Asst. Police Chief Joseph Brusatori said it would require more police officers.

Councilmen and merchants expressed frustration at a ruling last week by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court that the city's ordinance, designed to protect merchants, was unconstitutional.

City Atty. David J. Menary Jr. said he has appealed the judge's ruling, and councilmen agreed that the city should continue to apply the ordinance.

The council bypassed action on a proposed ordinance which would prohibit "loafing or loitering upon any commercial property without the consent of the person in charge thereof."

Menary admitted that it wouldn't cover "just hanging around," and that courts interpret "loafing or loitering to bear a sinister or wrongful interpretation."

Richard Less, representing owners of the center, suggested that the city consider the area as public property, a move he felt would give police "more ability to act." He said the intent is not to discriminate on the basis of dress or long hair, but "to get rid of the people who cause the damage and loss of customers."

Councilman Louis H. Baar said the council's intent is to protect the area and councilmen willing to enact any ordinance that will help.

Attorney Frank Solomon of 18 Professional Center Parkway noted there was a kidnapping last week at Northgate and said, "I think the law isn't being enforced as written."

He said the proposed loitering ordinance was vague and suggested that any new ordinance "should be addressed to specific activities."

Baar said, "I think harassment, if that's the proper word, is the motivating force to move people to other areas."

He contended that the problem went beyond the "If you think you have problems, you should see what blems, you should see what goes on at the beaches in West Marin," he said. "It's gotten to the point where people can't take children, even if they're 21, to the beaches anymore."

One merchant claimed the "problem is juvenile authorities." He said one youth was taken in for carrying a concealed weapon. "but in 20 minutes was back out and never brought to trial. The younger ones are the problem; nothing happens to them."

The current law permits business owners to make arrests if persons refuse to leave after being given an order, but councilmen conceded that people don't like to make a citizens arrest and there is a risk involved.

Eric Colby, publisher of the Terra Linda News, asked at one point, "If we have adequate protection, why are we having so many problems."

One merchant said a police officer had an opportunity to make an arrest, and didn't. Brusatori said he would investigate that incident.

'IN GOOD HANDS'

Supervisor-Elect Baar Bids Farewell To Council

San Rafael City Councilman Louis H. Baar, who will be joining the Marin County Board of Supervisors next month, left his council seat early today after 11 years' service.

It was 12:15 a.m. and the council chambers were virtually empty when Baar said farewell to fellow council members, noting that "the city is in real good hands."

He reviewed the accomplishments of the city in the past 11 years . . . "new city hall . . . no bonded indebtedness . . . reduced tax rate," and praised the city staff.

He was given a standing ovation from the council, staff and few remaining members of the audience.

The council, which has the task of appointing Baar's successor, received a letter from another candidate for the post, John J. Adams of 87 Marinita Avenue, a member of the city planning commission.

Baar announced that James Dougan of 40 Knoll Road, a candidate for council appointment, asked to be removed from the list.

Then Baar moved that Dougan, East Marin general manager of his campaign for supervisor in the Fourth District, be appointed to the city planning commission to succeed Carl S. Brown, who resigned after 11 years because he is moving from San Rafael.

The council voted 3-2 against appointing Dougan last night, but said this didn't put him out of consideration since they wanted to wait before making the appointment. Baar and Fred E. Jensen voted to appoint Dougan.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said there was another applicant and the council wants other interested persons to apply for the commission post. "I think we should give ample opportunity. There's no rush," he said.

The council said the other applicant for the commission was Louis M. Della Valle of 67 Arguello Circle, general manager of Shamrock Materials Co. of San Rafael.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

HORSE PERMIT — Heard a protest from Edward K. Wachsman of 50 Palm Drive about revocation of his permit to keep horses in his yard, and advised him that he must take his protest to Dr. Harry O. Hund, city health officer, who made the ruling.

HOUSING RULES — Denied a request from the Mexican-American Political Association to waive its two-year residency requirement to qualify for leasing housing in San Rafael for a newly-arrived family that faces eviction by the end of this year.

COURTHOUSE — Passed a resolution expressing its interest in developing parking facilities at Courthouse Square in downtown San Rafael and its intent to cooperate with Marin County in development of the square. Bettini said the resolution was designed to aid the county in its efforts to sell the courthouse site.

ABATEMENT — Filed a 30-day notice to abate a carriage house at the rear of the main dwelling at 1623 Fifth Avenue, considered a fire hazard.

FRINGE BENEFITS — Gave first approval to an ordinance to extend hospital and medical benefits to elected officials, including council members, on a 4-1 vote with John Miskimen dissenting.

DIRT — Adopted an ordinance amending the city building code to make contractors responsible for mud or loose dirt left on city streets by persons working for them.

CURB MARKINGS — Adopted an ordinance making white zones valid only when theaters, restaurants or other public assembly places are open and limiting green zones to federal, state, county or municipal buildings only.

ABANDONMENT — Passed a resolution of intention to abandon portions of McCoy Road and Bret Harte Road and set a public hearing for Jan. 6 at 8 p.m.

SIGN DENIAL — Upheld planning commission denial of a request by Ray Willits for a sign at 807 Francisco Boulevard for a proposed automotive business at 16 Medway Road. The vote was 3-1 with Jensen dissenting. Baar arrived too late to vote.

SEWER EXTENSION — Granted a two-month extension until March 1, 1969, for completion of sewer relocation in connection with widening of Highway 101.

REGIONAL PARK — Postponed discussion on San Anselmo's proposal for a regional park covering the Sorich Ranch property, unincorporated area and 120 acres in the Terra Linda section of San Rafael after a brief outline of plans from Parks and Recreation Director Andrew Snyder.

FALSE ARREST — Denied a false arrest claim by Michael Kielman of San Rafael, who contended he was falsely detained at the police station Nov. 23. Asst. Police Chief Joseph Brusatori explained that Kielman was detained while police checked to determine if a warrant for him was outstanding, but it turned out that the warrant had been served.

PERSONNEL — Approved hiring of Dale Palmer as a groundsman at $525 a month and Gary J. Mordue as a police cadet at $390 a month.

SYNANON — Received a request from Synanon Inc. to solicit in the city, and noted that a permit was not required, but advised that solicitors carry identification.

San Rafael Wants Consultant On Lease-Purchase Golf Course

San Rafael City Council agreed last night to have a consultant make a feasibility study before committing the city to a 40-year lease program for a municipal golf course.

As proposed the San Rafael Municipal Facilities Corp., a nonprofit group, would construct the $1.3 million, 18-hole golf course on Smith Brothers Ranch north of Gallinas Creek and lease it back to the city.

Councilman Louis H. (Bud) Baar urged that the city have a study by a disinterested, unbiased consultant, as it did when the new city hall was constructed.

With the city's obligation to be "in the neighborhood of $3 million," buying an impartial study "would be money well spent," Baar said.

As planned the revenue from the golf course would be used to meet the lease payments, $99,000 a year starting in the fifth year. At the end of 40 years the city would own the land and the course.

Councilman Fred E. Jensen, noting, however, that the city would be responsible for the lease payments if course revenues were low, said the proposal should be put to a vote of the people. "I believe the people should have a say. This would be the largest undertaking the city has undertaken."

"We didn't subject city hall to a vote," said Baar.

"We had the money then, and didn't tie up the city in a 40-year lease," replied Jensen.

Baar said development along Gallinas Creek eventually could include a swimming pool, tennis courts and boating facilities.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said a golf course offered potential for attracting other development in the area such as a marina. "I feel this is a wonderful idea," he said.

Charles A. McPhee of Schwabacher-Frey and Co. of San Francisco, municipal financial consultants, said the study presented to the council in October was "based on objectivity."

Baar said the council "should hear from different consultants on problems and costs" and getting another report "would only be fair for the people we represent."

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen submitted a report on other municipal golf courses in the Bay Area, and noted "all reported they were making money."

Jensen noted that Andersen's report listed only income and not expenses.

Courses at Walnut Creek and Livermore have been constructed by nonprofit financing, but one just opened and the other is not yet open so no figures were available, Andersen reported.

The revenues listed were San Mateo, $282,946; Oakland, $188,000, San Leandro, $83,000, Palo Alto, $198,724, Roseville, $124,500, and Alameda $216,000.

In the initial study, William Sherman, golf course specialist of San Rafael, estimated that San Rafael income from green fees, electric carts, golf shop and snack bar would total $182,450 in the first year of operation, 1971, and reach $309,950 by 1979. He also estimated then that operating costs would be $145,000 a year.

Councilmen authorized San Rafael Municipal Facilities Corp. to apply to the Internal Revenue Service to have the proposed financing bonds ruled tax-exempt. Jensen dissented.

The corporation also will draw up a proposed lease form, with terms left blank for IRS review, but Andersen stressed this wouldn't commit the city. The city isn't committed until it signs a lease, he said.

Fired Professor Sues For Old Job

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A former San Francisco State college professor who was dismissed from his job more than 18 years ago has filed a superior court suit asking for reinstatement, pension rights and more than $79,000 in back pay.

The action was brought yesterday by Albert E. Monroe, presently executive director of the Southern California American Civil Liberties Union.

Monroe said he was dismissed from the college Nov. 4, 1950, when he refused to sign a loyalty oath. The state Supreme Court declared the loyalty oath unconstitutional last Dec. 21.

Monroe said that he had asked the state college board of trustees to reinstate him to his teaching job as a full professor, but they refused.

Apollo Crewmen Rehearse Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— The three Apollo 8 moon pilots honed their skills in a spaceship trainer today for a mission that navigator James Lovell says "has something new happening all the time."

The countdown for the Christmas journey around the moon was reported clicking off "right on time" toward a Saturday morning blastoff.

"We're in good shape," said a Space Agency spokesman.

Lovell, Frank Borman and William Anders, wearing casual sports clothes, spent most of the morning in an Apollo spacecraft simulator that does virtually everything but fly.

Hallinan On Trial On Campus Sit-In

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— The trial of attorney Terence Hallinan on a charge of assaulting a policeman during a San Francisco State College demonstration last May began today before a Superior Court jury of nine men and three women.

Hallinan is accused of attacking patrolman Norbert Gutierrez, one of the officers summoned to evict sit-in demonstrators from the school's administration building May 21.

LEGISLATURE—1969

Law And Order Looms As Bitter Controversy Facing Lawmakers

By CARL INGRAM
(Second of five articles)

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Law and order, a battle-scarred veteran of the election campaign, looms as a bitter and emotion-packed controversy for the 1969 Legislature.

An avalanche of anticrime bills is certain, ranging from tougher penalties for lawbreakers to increased spending in the ghettoes.

Most lawmakers polled by UPI talked of changes in the pornography laws but they indicated little agreement on how to go about it.

The poll indicated Gov. Ronald Reagan's plan to take the politics out of appointment of judges is in serious trouble. It also showed that efforts to repeal the death penalty are doomed to failure.

But Republican Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan, a sure-fire bet to replace Democrat Jess M. Unruh as speaker, has pledged to shuffle the committee membership so such legislation will get to the floor for a vote.

Lawmakers indicated strong support for new smut controls but some suggested any such legislation should be restricted to minors and not interfere with the reading habits of adults.

They split almost evenly on support for the governor's "merit plan for judicial selection." But a two-thirds vote in both houses is required for passage. Some Republicans, whose votes Reagan would need, said they oppose it.

The "undecided" lawmakers said they might support the plan if it were revised. None suggested how.

Most legislators, who campaigned for election amidst demands for a crackdown on crime, said they would oppose scrapping capital punishment.

Reagan has said that anti-smut legislation and the judges proposal will be key features of his "Creative Society" legislative package. He advocates retention of the death penalty as a deterrent to crime.

Assemblyman-elect Henry A. Waxman, D - Los Angeles, said he intends to introduce a death penalty repealer.

Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R - Fullerton, called the death penalty a deterrent. He suggested televising executions to other convicts "so they would know first hand what awaits them unless they alter their courses upon release from prison."

For instance, Senate Democratic caucus chairman George R. Moscone, San Francisco, welcomed "reasonable legislation defining and prohibiting" pornography.

But he added: "I would not support a definition broad enough to restrict the right to read matter simply because it is controversial."

Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R - Huntington Beach, said the smut "producer and distributor must be made responsible for control over material to see that it is kept out of minors' hands."

Support for the judges plan, which proposes local screening committees to recommend names of judicial candidates to the governor, was drawn mostly along party lines.

The measure cleared the Senate by a single vote last year but died in the Assembly Judiciary Committee, headed by Republican William Bagley of San Rafael.

Reagan may have hurt chances for approval of the measure during the coming session when he appointed his executive secretary, William P. Clark Jr., to the Superior Court bench in San Luis Obispo County.

Lawyers in San Luis Obispo complained that Reagan failed to heed principles of the judges plan, which he has said he follows even though it is not law.

Some Assembly Republicans who supported the judges bill last year indicated they would not do so in 1969. The lower house is controlled by the GOP 41-39 and the bill would need at least 54 votes for passage.

Personnel Panel To Study Changes

Revision of rules governing the operation of the Marin County Personnel Commission will be discussed by commissioners at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Civic Center.

County Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott said the rules were adopted some 15 years ago, long before the county had a regular personnel staff.

Elliott will also report on procedures to be used in case the county decides to cut back on personnel.

Tallulah Leaves $100,000 In Will

The will, dated Nov. 24, 1967, left $10,000 each to Estelle Winwood, 85-year-old British-born actress, and Kenneth Carten of London.

Intermediate School Plans Due Review

A proposal to equip intermediate schools to accomodate sixth graders will be discussed by the San Anselmo School District board at 7:30 p.m. today at Red Hill School.

The schools, Red Hill and Hidden Valley, now serve seventh and eighth graders. Sixth graders would also attend these schools, relieving attendance at schools now serving kindergarten through the sixth grade.

Seeks Setback

Application of A. R. Nicolaisen for a sideyard setback variance for a proposed 24-unit apartment building at 779 Meadowsweet Drive is scheduled for the 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow of the Corte Madera Board of Adjustments at town hall.

At this rate a person could get rich.

If there's one thing that's harder than making a dollar these days, it's saving one.

So where do you start?

Usually with a good, safe savings program.

One that pays you the very highest interest you can get on insured savings.

One like our American Extra-Interest Plan:

You open an American Extra-Interest Account in $1,000 multiples and earn the highest interest in the U.S. on insured regular savings: 5% compounded daily.

After 36 months we pay you 3 extra-interest payments of ¼% each. One for each 12 month period. (A total of .75% extra. Guaranteed.)

That ¼% plus your regular 5% gives you 5¼% per year. The big rate above.

But that's not all. Because what that rate doesn't tell you is that we compound your interest daily. So you can boost your regular interest from 5% to 5.13% even before your .25% extra-interest is paid. (Now add it up.)

And that you are free to withdraw all or part of your money without loss of regular interest. (Unlike other plans that tie your money up.)

And your savings are at American, where for 83 years straight everyone has made money. Where assets over $1.4 billion means we're the largest in Northern California.

In short: it all adds up to a lot more than 5¼%.

So come in to one of the 32 American Savings offices listed below. Talk to the manager about the American Extra-Interest Plan.

He'll show you that our interest is making people rich.

$226,812 For Novato School District Kitty

The Novato School District will receive $226,812 in frozen federal funds and probably use part of it to improve the playing field at San Jose Junior High School.

Supt. James G. Bunker reported release of the funds to the school board last night. These are funds which had been allocated to the district because of the impact of children from military bases, but which were frozen by President Johnson.

The board discussed but postponed action on using approximately $40,000 to $45,000 of the funds for grading and drainage at the playing field at San Jose Junior High school. Bunker was asked to get a more accurate lost estimate.

The Novato Unified School District Board also:

CONTRACTS — Renewed the contracts of Bunker at the same salary of $24,700 per year and Deputy Supt. Ralph Giovanniello at the same salary of $20,300 per year, each for an additional four years.

HIRED — Hired Emma Arieta at $1,920 for the balance of the school year as part-time teacher at North Marin High School; Ida Bailey at $3,842 for the third grade at San Ramon Elementary School; Harland Bartholomew at $1,700 for part-time teacher at Sinaloa Junior High; Charles Dement at $5,000 for English at Hill Junior High and Lyn Sue Jung at $3,130 for kindergarten at West Novato School.

LEASE — Renewed the lease at $1,400 per month for the district warehouse at 819 Olive Avenue for three years. The past rent has been $1,300 per month.

LIBRARIES — Approved the application by Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley for $101,399 in federal funds for three school library projects.

DRESS — At the request of Jerrold Moore, president of the Novato Teachers Association, postponed action on a dress code for teachers. The NTA has been preparing such a code and asked for more time to work on it before submitting it to the board.

Schirra Gets Navy Honors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., commander of the first manned Apollo flight, was praised yesterday for space deeds "exceeded by no one afloat or airborne."

The words came from Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, who presented the Navy captain with the Distinguished service Medal for his work during the orbital flight last Oct. 11-12.

Moorer said at a Pentagon ceremony Schirra's performance helped "set the stage for the very exciting" moon shot which is scheduled in a few days.

Resisting Police Plea Date Slated

Colin Herbert Sparks, 25, of San Anselmo, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of resisting a police officer for allegedly struggling with a San Anselmo policeman early yesterday when questioned by the officer.

Sparks was ordered to plead to the charge in court Dec. 23.

Kaiser Hospitals Protest Actions Of Picket Lines

Kaiser Foundation Hospital officials claimed today that patients were being harrassed and that violence had occurred at some of its facilities as a strike by hospital workers went into its second day.

Although no violence was reported at the San Rafael hospital, officials said that patients attempting to enter the emergency room were being verbally harrassed by pickets.

A truck driver delivering oxygen refused to cross the picket line at the San Rafael hospital this morning, but hospital officials said that a supervisor would complete the delivery.

Union spokesman said that this kind of support from other union members was "inevitable" and that it was to be expected in a "deadlock situation."

They denied reports, however, that patients at some of the Kaiser facilities had been the victims of tire slashing and windshield smashing.

Parents of a critically ill child taken to the Hayward hospital returned to the parking lot to find their tires slashed, according to a hospital official.

Tim Twomny, secretary treasurer of the AFL-CIO Hospital and Institutional Workers Local 250, said the strike was a success and predicted it might last several days.

Union negotiators yesterday accepted a two-year contract providing an average hourly pay boost of 30 cents, but union members turned it down, demanding a 50-cent raise and extra benefits.

Flood Work Easements Win Approval

The Kentfield School District board last night gave final approval of easements for the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project.

They are a 15-month temporary construction easement along Adaline E. Kent School campus and a permanent right-of-way at the school to enable moving of equipment.

Application for $872 in federal funds for library improvement, including the addition of audio-visual materials and books, also was approved by the board.

The Kentfield School District board also:

CURRICULUM — Expanded the nongrade system at Greenbrae School to place different aged pupils in the same homeroom grade. Previously, the nongraded system applied only to reading, mathematics, and the language arts.

FROM HAVANA TO MARIN—Lorenzo Alfredo O'Reilly of San Rafael works on a boat at his San Rafael home. He became a U.S. citizen Nov. 6 in San Francisco.
(Independent-Journal photo)

New Citizen Sees Fidel's Regime A Dreary Contrast

Cuba may only be 90 miles from the shores of the United States, but it is much further away for Lorenzo Alfredo O'Reilly of San Rafael in terms of human existence and state of mind.

"In contrast to the Cuba of Fidel Castro, America has put a lot of faith in me about human nature. It indeed is a very fine experience living in the United States," he commented.

Born in Havana, O'Reilly left Cuba in 1962 on a visa to Panama. He stayed two years before going to Miami, a city where many Cuban refugees have settled. He was a textile factory manager in his native land.

O'Reilly, 31, became a U.S. citizen Nov. 6 in U.S. District Court in San Francisco. He was among 18 Marin County residents naturalized last month.

He commented, "To say that I am happy to be an American citizen would be an understatement."

O'Reilly moved to San Rafael on July 4, 1967. He lives at 51 Greenfield Avenue with his wife, Mara, who is from Spain and married him three years ago in Battle Creek, Mich. He has two sons from a previous marriage.

O'Reilly is employed as a documentations clerk with Harper Robinson and Co., a San Francisco importing firm. He has been taking evening accounting courses at the College of Marin.

O'Reilly stayed in Miami 18 months and was a taxi driver there. He left the Florida city because he felt that it didn't offer any opportunities.

The Cuban spent the next three years in Battle Creek, where he was employed as a clerk for an equipment firm before coming to San Rafael.

Other Marin residents naturalized last month were:

LARKSPUR — Mrs. Gertrud Lattion (Changed name to Trudy Lattion), 10 Murray Avenue.

MILL VALLEY — Mrs. Mary Harrold, 363 Marin Avenue; Mr. Ole Holberg-Olsen, 18 Circle Way.

NOVATO — Heidi Marie Thompson, 10, 1224 Second Street (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Thompson); Pierre Marc and Jacqueline Julia Cornellia Atlan (changed name to Jacqueline Julia Atlan), 1241 Lynwood Drive, and Mrs. Rose Patricia Mackie, 1085 Banta Court.

SAN ANSELMO — Mrs. Ilda Ruth Neilsen, 20 Tamalpais Avenue; Mr. Jan Tor Nielsen, 566 San Anselmo Avenue, and Mrs. Nguyen Hong Van Purcell (changed name to Evelyn Theresa Purcell), 20 Luna Lane.

TIBURON — Mrs. Diella Maria Huff, 1761 Centro West.

Rep. Tunney Eyes Senate, Statehouse

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Rep. John V. Tunney says he is giving serious consideration to becoming a Democratic candidate for governor or U.S. senator in 1970.

"I am considering the possibility or running for statewide office," the Riverside congressman told newsmen yesterday after a speech to a businessmens club. "I haven't made up my mind about what I am going to do."

Tunney, a close friend and law school roommate of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Senate along with assembly speaker Jess M. Unruh, San Francisco mayor Joseph Alioto and actor Gene Barry.

Incumbent Sen. George Murphy, a Republican, announced earlier this month he will run for a second six-year term. Gov. Ronald Reagan has indicated he will seek re-election.

Black History Class For Police?

The possibility of establishing black history courses for law enforcement officers will be discussed at 8 p.m. tomorrow at a Civic Center meeting of the police community relations committee of the Human Rights Commission.

An interfaith group of churches is interested in setting up the courses, committee chairman Bella Aaron said.

Lothar Salin, member of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, and Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske will report on progress made with youth coffee houses and plans for a youth clinic. They will ask committee members for suggestions.

Tam Fiscal Worry Nips Truancy Plan

A preliminary plan for an opportunity school in the Tamalpais High School District, prepared at the request of the district board, was left hanging last night after the board chronicled financial problems.

The school, authorized by the state Legislature with permission for a 5-cent override tax, would be for students who are habitually truant, irregular in attendance and have discipline problems and difficulties in social development.

The board had budgeted $42,120 to organize the program this year. The preliminary plan presented last night by Nicholas J. Gennaro, dean of the adult and summer school program, recommended spending part of that amount for a program consultant.

Trustee David D. Ring asked if the program ever came up before the Legislature made it financially possible. "It doesn't seem to justify a separate program," he said.

"Will it be jeopardizing the chances of a building program?" wondered Chairman Gloria W. Melboastad, noting an override is not very democratic.

Gennaro outlined the program as a setting for the student to learn self-respect, to include the student in the planning and direction of an educational program and to help the student experience pride in himself and achieve a measure of success.

He said in some cases it would be an alternative to dropping out or ending up in juvenile hall and emphasized that the 50 or so students involved now have a definite effect on the rest of the student population.

Cost of the school was not given, but Gennerao noted the outside limit of the override would produce $150,000.

Tamalpais High School District Board Also:

BUILDING NEEDS — Heard the opening statements of Supt. Chester G. Carlisle regarding immediate building needs and decided to delay the matter for a special workshop, despite protests of parents and teachers who said they had come to hear the report.

BLACK STUDIES — Hired Stephen N. Mutunga to teach African history, culture and Swahili at Tamalpais High School next semester at a salary to be determined.

DISTRICT STUDIES — Agreed to seek bids and interview professionals to assess the educational program of the district in terms of administration and students and to survey the community to see "what the 15,000 no votes were saying" in the last unsuccessful bond election, with the cost to be within "reasonable financial limitations."

ARCHITECT — Agreed to ask the school architects to return $4,800 paid by mistake and to suspend all work on the two proposed high schools.

PERSONNEL — Hired Marta Sonya Mayer to teach science at Tamalpais High School next semester at $3,877.

Tam Trustees Knock Sensitivity Training

Sensitivity training, by any name, is prohibited in classrooms in the Tamlpais High School District, the district board decided last night.

The board had been expected to adopt guidelines to govern sensitivity training as presented in a report essentially favorable to "human relations" training prepared by a special study group of district psychology teachers, psychologists, counselors and supervisors.

But the board agreed it should decide individually any requests to conduct classroom sensitivity training and shelved the report for use as a guide in future decisions.

The report, as interpreted for the board last night by Dr. Walter Lee, psychologist and chairman of the study committee, was a distinct surprise to a parents ad hoc committee which had prepared its own recommendations on sensitivity training.

Committee members said they based their conclusions and recommendations on meetings of the study group which they attended and by the final report which they had printed for distribution to the public.

Last night, however, Dr. Lee said he "could not envision how it could be used in a classroom" at the present time and quited the fears of anxious parents.

"It's like the song, 'Two Different Worlds We Live In'," said William E. Henderscheid, a member of the parents committee, who found it difficult to believe Dr. Lee's presentation in the light of the report generally favorable to training.

The board's decision came under fire from Philip Howard Pease, Redwood High School librarian, who had expected a policy decision.

"What you're saying is that policies are irrelevant on controversial issues," said Pease, explaining he was worried about how the decision would affect future matters such as books in the library.

Students were also displeased with the board's prohibition. Willard Carpenter, a Tamalpais High School student, said they could have formed an ad hoc committee to support sensitivity training.

"We could day it's okay to touch a person of the opposite sex because sex is a natural thing," he said.

Noting the two-hour time limit proposed in the guidelines, Carpenter said they could have recommended sessions last longer than two hours "because life goes on."

"It's our lives and we'd like the best start we can get," Carpenter added.

He was one of several students who stayed with about 75 parents and teachers for the discussion which didn't come up until 11 p.m.

Robert D. Torrey, assistant superintendent, noting that the policy the committee presented permits sensitivity training under rigorous guidelines, said the committee was concerned for the dignity and value of each student. "This is sensitivity to the rights of people," he said.

Marijuana Arrest Name Omitted

The name of Terry Nicholas Tsigeletos, 24, of San Francisco, was omitted in yesterday's Independent-Journal from the list of persons arrested at a Stinson Beach motel Sunday night on suspicion of possession of marijuana for sale.

Tsigeletos and his five companions are being held without bail in San Francisco County Jail awaiting hearings on federal charges.

The others arrested were Paul Stanton Gladman, 22; Gary Lee Arthur, 22, and Michael Taylor, 30, all of whom gave the Fern Motel in Stinson Beach as their address; Charles Mather Weiner, 18, of Stinson Beach, and Robert Leighton Leoni, 23, of Bolinas.

Pay Hikes Plan Draws Criticism

A 5 per cent increase for most city employees was presented to the Petaluma City Council last night for study.

The plan, as recommended by City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer, also includes 10 per cent raises for police and fire department personnel and 6.25 per cent hikes for public works employees.

Both the Petaluma Police Officers Association and public works employees already have rejected city offers.

DEMAND MORE

Leo D. Hutchinson, president of the police association, said the officers would be willing to accept the 10 per cent increase in January, but would demand an additional 5 per cent in July. "If these cannot be considered, the offer will be rejected again," Hutchinson said in a letter to council.

The public works personnel, represented by Don F. Jensen, said they will stand firm on their request for a 20 per cent pay increase and requested that Admission Day and Lincoln's birthday be added to the list of paid holidays.

In his proposal, Meyer said he felt the increases he suggested would meet better the financial capabilities of the city.

The total additional cost for the 1968-69 year under Meyer's proposal would be $40,000. Additional costs for the 1969-70 fiscal year, including normal step increases, would amount to $79,477. Meyer noted another $10,642 would have to be added for state retirement and workmen's compensation payments.

HOUR REDUCTION

Meyer's plan also calls for a reduction of hours of the fire department from 158 shifts and 72-hour work week to 146 shifts and a 67.4-hour work week. He said this would cost the city an additional $17,314.

His plan also calls for paying police officers for off-duty court appearances and recommends longevity pay study. Meyer said he would recommend no additional holidays and recommended against the request of the water department employees for pay during standby time.

Meyer said the city personnel board began negotiations on Nov. 6 and concluded talks Dec. 2. He requested a special council meeting Dec. 23 to discuss the plan.

Fairfax Council To Meet On Job

The Fairfax City Council personnel committee is expected today to release a report on specifications for the job of administrative secretary and recruitment for a replacement for Mrs. Dell Blodgett, who resigned.

The report will come up at an adjourned meeting of the council set for 8 p.m. today in the women's club.

Council last week accepted Mrs. Blodgett's resignation. The council will also take bids for a new floor in the women's club tonight.

$263,000 Price Tag For Petaluma Bridge

The Petaluma City Council last night heard a report on preliminary plans for construction of a new five-lane Washington Street bridge to replace the 1913 two-lane drawbridge.

City Engineer David Young said the firm of DeLeuw Cather and Co., consulting engineers, had estimated costs for the bridge and road project at $263,000. Believing the estimate $20,000 too low, Young said the costs of concrete and demolition of the old bridge would probably be higher than the company-estimated.

In addition to the bridge construction and demolition, the cost includes demolition on the southeast corner of Petaluma Boulevard North and Washington Street to enlarge the intersection. The price also includes a new signal system for the intersection.

Young told the council the estimate was $100,000 higher than the original plans for the project that included renovation of the old span and widening it to only four lanes. When council sought bids on the plan last summer, all came in at least $90,000 over the estimate, causing all to be rejected and the plan re-engineered.

Young said he would receive final specifications next week and would present the total plan for council approval early in January, he said that, if bids are sought next month, a contract could be awarded in February and the work begin in March.

During construction, the old span would continue in operation until two lanes of th new bridge is completed. Three lanes of the five-lane bridge will be traveling west and include a special turn signal to permit left turns onto Petaluma Boulevard North.

Earlier in the meeting, three council members objected to payment of a $346 bill for a color sketchc of the proposed bridge. Vice Mayor Kenneth J. Colin said he didn't feel the artist's rendering was necessary. "It's not like we have a bond issue at stake and must sell the plan," he said. Councilman Phillip L. Joerger and John W. Cavanagh Jr. agreed.

Young reminded the council that it agreed to the sketch at an informal study session Sept. 9. Agreeing with the expenditure, Mayor Helen Putnam said, "It's garnered us more than $346 in publicity."

The Petaluma City Council Also:

LIBRARY — Approved in principle the merger of the Petaluma City Library with the Sonoma County library system. Joerger cast the lone dissenting vote, saying he opposed giving up local control.

COMMITTEES — Appointed two committees to implement plans of the council's downtown committee to put the Core Area Plan to rejuvenate the business sector into operation. Named to the finance committee to study means of spreading assessments were Henry Tomasini, John Garrison, Mrs. Anna Neilsen, William Schneider, Stanley Hartmann and Gus Zitlau. Appointed to the committee to explain the plan to property owners were Donald Ramatici, Mrs. Ray Johnson, Frederick Mattei, Floyd Wynne, Walter Roach and Clifford Bartlett Jr.

REZONING — Approved rezoning of property owned by Aubrey W. Sanderson on Redwood Highway North at McDowell Boulevard North from light industrial to highway commercial. The zoning had been approved a year ago, but reverted to original zoning after the time period elapsed without development.

STOP SIGNS — Heard a report from councilman David W. Brainerd of the traffic committee that 50 unnecessary stop signs in subdivisions on the east side of town will be removed. Young said the signs had been placed indiscriminantly by developers at no cost to the city.

COMPRESSOR —Awarded a contract for purchase of a compressor to Rix Co., Inc. of Emeryville on a low bid of $4,175.

LET'S FLY — Said a councilman and City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer should attend the Jan. 8 meeting of the state Public Utilities Commission in San Francisco to show city support for granting Let's Fly, Inc. of Santa Rosa permission to fly a commuter service out of the Petaluma Sky Ranch Airport on a regular basis.

DUPLEXES —Approved rezoning of four acres on Magnolia Avenue to permit construction of duplexes. Rezoning on adjacent Cherry Street had also been requested, but was denied because of incompatibility with nearby single-family homes.

HOLIDAYS — Approved eight 1969 holidays for city employees to correspond with those in 1968.

Air West Fails To Get Quorum

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Directors of Air West have failed to achieve a quorum at a scheduled meeting, causing new controversy over the firm's future.

Failure of 13 members of the 24-man board to appear yesterday had the effect of sidetracking a purchase offer from Mallory Randall Corp. of Brooklyn, N.Y., and leaving Howard Hughes' offer the only one to be considered at a meeting Dec. 27.

The Mallory offer needed to be considered yesterday to be placed before stockholders. Hughes' bid for the eight-month-old airline is $22 a share, or about $81 million for the 3.7 million shares outstanding.

At left the hostess readies for her guests in a pantsuit with a formal look. The delicately embossed fabric gives of glints of gold from its gold metallic yarn. Couturier touches of mink cuffs and jeweled neckline are prevalent this season. Center is the hostess coat for high fashion entertaining with its swirls of coral with gold metallic yarn. Fashion and comfort combine in the free flowing lines and inverted front pleat with large frog closure. Sparkling stripes make the scene at right in black, green and pink silk in a classic coat of simple lines. Special touches are jeweled buttons, cuffed sleeves and deep side slits for lounging comfort.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Debutante Ball Has New Look

By MOLLY MARIN

Things will be different from the past six years when the 1968 Marin Ball debutantes make their bows Saturday evening. The setting will be "downtown San Francisco," and some 600 guests, family members, escorts and ball committee will gather in the Mural Room of the St. Francis Hotel for the presentation of the 20 girls.

The party will begin earlier this year, with cocktails served in the Colonial Room for guests while the girls and their escorts get in some last minute practice of the Cotillion figures they will dance later in the evening. Later they will have dinner in the Colonial Room.

Then at 8:30 p.m. guests will adjourn to the Mural Room for dinner before the presentation ceremony, which is scheduled for 10:30, as always. Judge Jordan Martinelli will introduce the debs, who will then gather with their escorts for the grand march and the traditional dance with their fathers.

H. Moir for friends who share her interest in music.

Attending the luncheon were Mesdames John Rollings, Jerry Crane, S. H. Huff, A. C. Ong, Thomas Lembo, William Lamers, Harold Reimers, John Meloney, William Black, R. N. Harrington and Burton Vaupen.

THE WILLIAM A. Hamiltons of Mill Valley have a house full of guests for the holidays. In addition to their son, Eric, from Sunnyvale; their daughter, Mary, and her husband, William Roberts of San Francisco; Mrs. Hamilton's brother, Peter Molson, and his wife are coming from Los Angeles. With them will be their daughter Cynthia, who came home from Sussex University in England bringing an English friend with her.

MARGARET HUETTER, ranking member with the German Counsel General's office in San Francisco, was a recent dinner guest at Rubini's restaurant in Fairfax, where she joined Mr. and Mrs. Jack DiMaggio for dinner.

THE ANNUAL cocktail party and buffet given by Dr. Donald Lastreto at his home in San Rafael will be on Saturday evening. Special guests will include Dr. and Mrs. William Bender of Belvedere, Mr. and Mrs. George Johns of San Francisco and Miss Eunice Griffin of Montreal.

Not A Heartbreaker Considers Self A Normal Freshman Girl

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a normal, ordinary freshman girl, am on the Student Council, get good grades, etc.

I think all boys are great and lots of fun, and I could never live without them. But I'm not serious about any certain one, and don't want to be for a long time.

The trouble is if I joke around with a guy, compliment him on a good football game, or something, within a week, he's asked me to go steady. In one class, I just asked a fellow for help with my homework, and it almost broke him and his girl up. It's embarrassing. Some of the girls are beginning to talk about me.

I'm not beautiful. I don't even act sexy. I try not to flirt, but I'm naturally friendly. I am not "for sale." So what am I doing wrong? — NOT A HEARTBREAKER

DEAR NOT:

What are you doing right? A lot of girls would love to have your formula.

. . . And a few will resent what they can't understand, i.e. how any girl wouldn't jump at the chance to go steady. Too bad for them. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am going with a boy I like a lot. We've been dating for three years, so it must be love or something similar.

But he loves to tease me. Every time he sees a cute girl he practically drools. He even brags about how much he got from her the night before. I know he's putting on, but how can I get it across that what he says hurts? — TRYING TO SMILE

DEAR TTS:

Why don't you tell him? Trouble about being a good sport is you get more of the same.

If a blow-up doesn't cure old Ogle Eyes, then try some ogling on your own. Maybe you both need a change of scenery. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am an adopted child and I am afraid of my father. He is a deacon in the church and very religious. His punishments are what bother me. My mother won't stop him.

The other night I asked to go to a school dance. He called me all kinds of bad names in front of my friends. After they left, he made me get down on my knees and beg forgiveness.

I did as he asked, and then he sat on me! I think he sprained my wrist, as it hurts like mad today. I guess he sat on me to show me the weight of the Devil. Is that right?—CRUSHED

DEAR CRUSHED:

It sounds as if the Devil is weighing pretty heavily on your father. If other punishments are as bizarre, you'd better discuss the situation with your minister. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm so glad you printed the letter from "Little Sister." She made me see how selfish I am. You see, I'm the "big sister" in my family, and I haven't set a very good example. I call my little sister a pest and ignore her more than I help her.

From now on I'm reforming. I'm going to try and make her like me. — BIG SISTER

DEAR SIS:

Remember that the next time you-know-who gets into your make-up box. — H.

Create Poinsettias To Last

For sheer splendor, few plants can rival the flaming beauty of the poinsettia. Though brought from Latin America just a century ago by Joel Roberts Poinsett, an American diplomat after whom it is named, the poinsettia with its rich red-and-green coloring has firmly established itself as the traditional Christmas flower.

Almost everyone would like to have one of these brilliant plants along with the familiar wreath and stockings, but a poinsettia can run beyond the budget of people with many other Christmas bills. The solution for a family with a bit of patience and Christmas spirit is a life-like "poinsettia" made of crepe paper and a few household items like cardboard and glue.

The secret is in using double crepe paper for the red brachts (which resemble petals). Double paper is thick enough to give the plant the "body" it needs to avoid drooping or curling. At the same time, it's pliable enough to be molded back into shape easily if the kids can't resist the temptation to touch.

ARE THEY OR AREN'T THEY? They are. Made of paper, that is. But it would take more than a casual eye to tell this poinsettia wreath and plant from nature's own. The secret is in the double crepe paper, pliable enough to be shaped naturally, yet thick enough to avoid drooping or curling. With a little patience, a mother and her helpers can fashion home-made flowers at a fraction of the store-bought price.

The following two sets of instructions will enable you to create an attractive display for your home.

For a large poinsettia suitable to hang on windows or walls or to place in the center of your holiday table you'll need:

1 fold red double crepe paper
1½" strip of leaf green crepe paper
Strip of yellow crepe paper 1" wide
All-purpose white glue
Cardboard circle 5" across

From red crepe paper cut 16 large petals and eight small petals. To make a pattern, cut a pointed petal shape 10" long and 4" at the widest point — for the small petal, 8" long and 2" at the widest part. Cup (stretch slightly between fingers) each petal at the tip and through the widest part of the petal. With a knitting needle you may "draw" veins on the petals.

Paste eight of the large petals to the cardboard disc, overlapping the petals slightly. When starting second row of large petals, place them in between those in the first row. Then paste the eight small petals in between the second row of large petals.

Cut about ¾" deep into the 1½" strip of green crepe paper creating a fringe. Paste in place for the center, working from outside to inside. Roll 8" of the 1" wide strip of yellow crepe paper to form a tight roll. Make eight of these rolls and paste them to the fringed center.

NOTE:

If you are using this decoration where the back disc will show (such as in a window), paste green crepe paper to the back of the disc before you begin flower.

To create individual flowers to be assembled into a plant, you'll need:

1 fold flame red, white or pink double crepe paper
Buttercup yellow primrose yellow double crepe paper
1 fold moss green leaf green double crepe paper
#7 Wires
Green spool wire
2 bunches stamens
All-purpose white glue
Roll of stem winding

Cut nine large petals 5½" long and 1½" wide at widest point of petal and six small petals 4½" long and 1" wide at widest point for each flower. See photo for shape of petals.

Cut several strips of yellow crepe paper ½" wide and 4" long, cutting lengthwise along the grain. Wind strips lengthwise around a 4" length of spool wire. Paste to hold in place. You'll need about nine lengths of wire covered with yellow paper.

Cut the heads from one end of about 10 stamens and paste stamens around yellow "peps" (lengths of wire). Wire nine peps to the tip of a #7 wire. Add the smaller petals near the center and the larger ones on the outside. Arrange the petals until all the spaces are filled.

Cut leaves 5" long and 2" wide at widest part. Wire the backs of the leaves by applying a line of glue down center of leaf back.

Arrange the finished flowers to resemble a plant in a flower pot filled with sand or styrofoam.

She Leads Volunteers At Kaiser

Mrs. John Rauschkolb of San Rafael is the new president of the Kaiser Foundation Hospital Volunteer League. A four-year member of the organization, she has previously served as vice president and chairman and buyer for the gift shop.

Beverly Rauschkolb and her husband, a training assistant for the post office, have lived in Marin six years. They are the parents of John Rauschkolb, who is in the Naval Reserve, and Mrs. Philip McNairy of Virginia and the grandparents of Michael McNairy.

Members of the volunteer league serve patients in the Kaiser Foundation Hospital, and anyone interested in joining the league may contact Mrs. Rauschkolb.

Elected to serve with Mrs. Rauschkolb are Mesdames Herbert McComber, vice president; Richard E. Lane, recording secretary; Mark Manion, treasurer; and Wesley Perez, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Victor Jovino and Mrs. Russell Green are serving as members at large to the board.

Robert G. Biberston Weds Frankie G. Fox In South

A Dec. 6 wedding at the Los Angeles Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints unuited in marriage Frankie G. Fox and Robert Glen Biberston.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fox of Rohnert Park, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Melba Biberston of Yaciapa and Harry Biberston of South Gate.

Mavis and Kathy Fox were their sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Linda Hansen of Provo, Utah; Mrs. Richard Salyer of Yuciapa, the bridegroom's sister; Nancy Roberts of Baldwin Park; Colleen Cannon of Spokane, Wash.; and Becky Milhous of South El Monte.

Darryl Biberston was his brother's best man, and the bride's brother, Duane Fox of Alhambra; Richard Salyer of Yuciapa; Lyn Ellsworth of Yuciapa; Darryl Anderson of San Francisco; and the bride's brother, Byron Fox of Rohnert Park ushered guests to their seats.

Frankie is a graduate of El Monte High School. She attended Brigham Young University and is employed as a receptionist at Don Bosco Studios in San Francisco. In addition to the attendants, the bride is the sister of Tommy, Lynn and Erwin L. Fox, all of Rohnert Park.

Robert attended high school in South Gate and was graduated from Stanford University. He is part owner and general manager of Tape O Teque in Berkeley. Richard Biberston is also his brother.

Receptions were held for the couple at South Gate Ward and Petaluma Ward chapels. The couple will live in Berkeley following a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

Shopping in the Village
with Pat Reynolds

Town & Country Village

IT'S CHRISTMAS TIME IN THE VILLAGE! You are invited to browse and window shop to your heart's content . . . no pressure, just fine merchandise offered by friendly, interesting shops. All Village shops are open evenings through Christmas Eve for your shopping convenience and TO WISH YOU AND YOURS A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Heedless of the wind and weather, our Lisa-Dog sallies forth in her snappy plaid plastic raincoat and Santa-red boots. Should the inclemency be cold as well as wet, she first dons her red turtleneck sweater to complete her winter-time outfit from MUTTS OF MARIN.

SANTA EATS HERE!

True to his word that The HICK'RY PIT is a family restaurant, Chris Gartman has elected to stay closed Christmas Day so that his fine staff will be able to celebrate this world's most famous birthday with their families. So, if you are planning on a HICK'RY PIT homemade pie to top off Christmas dinner, be sure to order in time and plan to pick up your delectable pastry a day in advance. Holiday shoppers find The HICK'RY PIT the perfect spot for a great cup of coffee or a full meal and, if the children are along for the excitement, they are more than welcome at this informal restaurant. They'll find their favorites on The HICK'RY PIT menu and understanding service makes sure that hungry youngsters are fed fast . . . as I said, this is truly a family restaurant!

Don't just stand there wringing your hands, dear . . . your last-minute shopping problems will be sweetly solved by VILLAGE SWEET SHOPPE. They carry lovely gift boxes of Hooper's and Blum's famous candies and their selection is really remarkable (if Aunt Martha likes all creams but Cousin Harriet favors chocolates, VILLAGE SWEET SHOPPE is prepared). Be sure to notice their delightful imported chocolate tree ornaments . . . bright foil wrapping looks so pretty on The Tree and youngsters eyes will pop as you offer an ornament as a gift.

Stanley Toy, KUBLAI KHAN'S very friendly owner, has asked me to pass the word that his charming restaurant will be open both Christmas and New Year's Day. If you have yet to sample this superb Oriental and Continental menu you are missing a treat. The food is marvelous, atmosphere quiet and attractive, the service couldn't be better and prices are more than reasonable . . . now, what more could you ask for?

Attention Sewing Santas . . . K. MYERS FABRICS carries an outstanding selection of shimmery brocades for your own holiday party wear, plus all the popular fabrics you'll want for certain-to-be-appreciated gifts. K. MYERS FABRICS is well staffed with people who know their merchandise and who also know how to show patience and a bit of kindness during the holiday rush. To wit: my Junior High School Melinda needed all kinds of supplies for her "home ec" course and was graciously helped by people who managed to find a little extra time for a budding seamstress . . . very nice, and a very nice store!

Hello, Mother! Up to your eyeballs in baking, shopping, wrapping . . . to say nothing of such mundane, every-day-type jobs as ironing? Well, join me in a big "thank you" to Master Chef Louis Reimers of L'ENTREE and his delicious take-home casseroles. Louis' casseroles are really dinner entrees and can be served with pride to anyone . . . they freeze beautifully right in their original container and require only a half hour of effortless oven time. L'ENTREE casseroles are handy any time of the year and a real "life saver" during the holiday rush.

With holiday visiting in full swing, a most thoughtful host or hostess gift could be a bottle of fine wine from VILLAGE LIQUORS. This well-stocked store offers all the favorite whiskies in attractive holiday wrap but, also carries an extraordinary collection of domestic and imported wines. Should you be a bit hesitant about your choice, just ask Dan, and he will be very helpful.

ON THE AGENDA

Clubs Celebrate The Yuletide Season With Parties And Fun

Christmas parties lead the list of events for the next week as a festive breather from the more serious club meetings and activities of fall.

THE OUTDOOR ART CLUB'S Evening Section will have a Christmas party Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Mill Valley home of Mrs. M. Donaldson Lennon. For the program Mrs. George Gustafson will give a special Christmas reading.

THE TRADITIONAL Christmas Champagne party given each holiday season by the Women's Auxiliary of the San Francisco Yacht Club for the club's membership is scheduled from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday at the Belvedere clubhouse.

Mrs. Dorothy Shemanski is chairman; Mrs. George Fritz, decorations chairman; and Perry Harris, music.

MEMBERS AND guests of the Fairhills Guild of the Marin Museum of Science will have a bridge luncheon Friday at the home of Mrs. Theodore Martin in San Rafael. Starting time is 10:30 a.m.

A BENEFIT Christmas boutique will be held Thursday at Bel Aire School in Tiburon in room 12, beginning at 9 a.m. Decorative and gift items will be sold, along with holiday foods until 3:30 p.m. Mrs. Beverly Larson is chairman, assisted by the Parent Teacher Club president, Mrs. Ruth Louis.

Funds will go toward additional playground equipment for the enlarged play area.

THE CHRISTMAS party of the Women's Section of Peacock Gap Golf Club will be held on Thursday at the clubhouse. After cocktails and luncheon, there will be a gift exchange, and the current Captain, Mrs. Alvin Cole, will preside at the installation of the new executive committee.

MEMBERS OF the Donald V. Westlund Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Novato will have their Christmas dinner at the Lodge in Novato at 7 p.m., Thursday.

Members will go to the home of the president, Mrs. Harold Harker, following the dinner. They will bring their secret pal a gift, an exchange gift for the tree and canned food to make up two or three boxes of groceries for a needy family in Novato.

Mrs. Grover Owen is reservations chairman.

A CHOIR from the Novato Association of Girl Scouts will sing Christmas carols on KTIM radio at 2:45 p.m., Thursday.

Mrs. Robert Rickard is the director and Mrs. James Chatfield, pianist.

SANTA WILL be coming by boat to the deck of the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere on Saturday.

His appearance will be during the annual Christmas party for the children of club members, which will begin at 1 p.m. Movies, entertainment and refreshments are part of the annual happening.

Mike Shea is chairman.

BELVEDERE NURSERY School, Inc., including Belvedere, Tiburon and Hawthorne Nursery Schools and the Marin Child Development Center will be closed for the Christmas vacation from Dec. 20 until Jan. 6.

Janet Schwab Is Bride

James H. Farren Jr. wed Janet Leslie Schwab Dec. 7 at St. Sylvester's Catholic Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Charles W. Bennett of Mill Valley was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia M. Kramer of Glendale, Francine A. Lento of Sacramento and Donna R. Ziemer of San Quentin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Schwab of Greenbrae.

The bridegroom's brother, Paul Farren of San Francisco, was best man. George Dickman of Santa Clara, Robert Thorfinsen of San Rafael and the bride's brother, Philip Schwab of Greenbrae, ushered.

Col. (ret.) and Mrs. James H. Farren of San Francisco are the bridegroom's parents, and he is the brother of Paul and Linda Farren and the grandson of Mrs. James Farren of Oakland.

A reception at Ft. Scott Officers Club in the Presidio of San Francisco followed the ceremony. The couple are living in Mill Valley.

A Second Term For Club's President

MRS. VERA LAWSON

Sailing, motor boating, working at the Sausalito Cruising Club—or just any activity on the water — are what Mrs. Vera Lawson, new president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Sausalito Cruising Club, says she enjoys most.

This will be the second term as president for Mrs. Lawson, who served previously in 1962, and she was also secretary several years. In fact, she says, in the 20 some years since she was a founding member of the auxiliary, she has been everything from janitor to president, and the club is her main interest.

Currently she is busy with plans for the annual rummage sale in February which provides funds for improvement of the club.

Born and reared in Coatesville, Pa., she was graduated from high school there and attended the University of Pennsylvania two years. Employed as secretary to the vice president of the American Assurance Company in San Francisco, she has also taken business courses at the College of Marin and in night school in San Francisco.

The new president has lived in Marin since 1950 and has no children. Her other interests are golfing, music and her recently acquired Puli, a kind of Hungarian sheep dog, which is rare in this country, she says.

Princeton Students Tell All In Their Guide To Girls Colleges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The editors of Princeton University's student newspaper, in a guide to girls' colleges, says Vassar coeds "run the spectrum from the prude to the promiscuous." Some Vassar girls agree.

Marylee Hardenbergh, a 20-year-old junior, laughed and said, "It's probably accurate. You can find that anywhere. That's a pretty safe description".

Then she added, "It would be Princeton that would come up with that remark. It sounds like a weekend-oriented type mind."

But a description of Wellesley coeds in the book titled "Who the Girls Are" drew a negative response.

It said most Wellesley girls "have tried both grass (marijuana) and sex once. They didn't like either one."

"I don't think that's true," snapped a Wellesley student who asked that her name not be used.

The 112-page book is devoted primarily to giving brief biographies and snapshots of 1,500 coeds at eight women's colleges.

Peter G. Brown, a junior from Erie, Pa., who edited the volume, said, "This little book does no less than spell the demise, the defeat, the absolute abolition of that atrocious anachronism, the blind date."

"Wow!" said Louise Harris, whose picture is in the book. "I never thought they'd pick me in a 100 years." Louise is a Skidmore freshman from Upper Montclair, N.J.

Lisa Vandermade of Montclair, N.J., a Smith freshman who does "quite a bit of blind dating," said she hoped having her picture in the book would help her in that line.

Lisa Connor of Morristown, N.J., another Smith freshman, said, "I don't like people just to judge someone on looks, but it does let anyone who knows me at Princeton know that I'm at Smith."

"Every girl in my dorm sent a picture because the fellows at Princeton have promised to do our student handbook," she added.

"Who the Girls Are" is a sequal to Princeton's 1965 publication, "Where the Girls Are," which was much ridiculed but became a bestseller in campus bookstores.

Guy Burns Weds Rita Marie Polo

Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Burns are on a wedding trip in Northern California following their marriage Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

The bride is the former Rita Marie Polo, daughter of the Carl M. Polos of Novato. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School and the University of California at Davis.

Pamela Reiser of Sunnyvale was maid of honor, and Douglas MacArthur of Davis served as best man.

Guy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burns of Davis, formerly of San Rafael. He is a graduate of Lowell High School in San Francisco and U.C. at Davis. The bridegroom is the brother of Gail and Gary Burns.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony.

DRAMA REVIEW

Sam Levene Keeps Alive 'Don't Drink'

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — Woody Allen, a comedian and gag writer, has strung together a lot of jokes and a plot that creaks at times into "Don't Drink The Water," which opend at the Curran Theater last night. Since most of Allen's gags are the telegraphing sort, the play depends upon its actors to make us want to see the conclusion of the jokes.

Luckily for this production, it has Sam Levene. This veteran of Broadway and master of the tossed-off bon mot keeps things moving with the aid of several other cast members.

TV SHADOWS?

Levene is almost hoist on his own petard, however, for he also directed the show and has allowed some of his players at times to treat Allen's characters as TV shadows reading lines from a cue card. Director Levene has broken the rule which says an actor must always play the character with the utmost seriousness to achieve the effect of farce, while actor Levene never once falls into the trap, but plays Walter Hollander as the serious, pompous little Newark caterer that he is.

Let not the above seem to indicate that Allen's play has one whit of serious content, for it has not. Though the Hollanders are trapped as suspected spies in the U.S. embassy in a Communist country, Allen never once slips into politics. One of the play's funniest lines, however, comes as a mob surrounds the embassy, and the priest who has already pointed out that the country is predominantly Communist says, "There appear to be quite few Communist agitators among them!"

GOOD BACKING

Giving Levene good backing is Gary Krawford as the bumbling son of the ambassador, whose every idea leads to trouble; Don Draper as the embassy assistant who ends up thinking he is the Wright brothers, and Vivian Blaine as Mrs. Hollander.

Walt Wanderman's Father Drobney is unmercifully broad, while Ron Abbott gets neither fun nor menace from Krojack, the secret police chief. Peter Bosche does a nice bit as the chef, and Gloria Bleezarde's miniskirted, whiskey-voiced American girl is amusing.

Jo Mielzinger's set is drably undistinguished and Levene tends to allow his actors to all stand in a line along its shallow confines.

Despite all this, the play has Sam Levene the actor. He is a very funny actor, who does not depend on tricks, although he is not above using them at times. But basically his Walter is a very human, very believable man; beset by domestic and business problems, plus diarrhea — presumably from drinking the water.

And if I have seemed to pick apart the play, it is only because I hate to see things that could be done so much better being left only mediocre. Still I sat and howled at a lot of Allen's gags. A lot more belong on the video tube only.

"Don't Drink The Water" will play through Jan. 4, nightly except Sundays at 8:30, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

"FLEA IN HER EAR"

Ann Weldon (left) and Carol Teitel play a pair of scheming wives in Gower Champion's new production of the Georges Feyeau comedy, "A Flea in Her Ear," which opens at 8:30 p.m. today at the Geary Theater, San Francisco. The comedy is the American Conservatory Theater's opening production of the Bay Area season.

Organist, Harpist To Give 'Carols By Candlelight'

"Carols by Candlelight" is the title selected by organist Wilbur F. Russell and harpist Joel Andrews for a concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

Russell is director of music for the church and associate professor of sacred music at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, and Andrews is a virtuoso harpist-composer-teacher, who lives in Mill Valley.

Russell says the purpose of the concert with candlelight only is to enhance organ and harp music in a Christmas atmosphere and to present some of the repertoire which as been associated with Christmas for the past 400 years, but not necessarily the time-worn carols. The concert will also mark the third anniversary of the Leonard W. Buck Memorial Organ.

Featured will be French noels of Claude Louis Daquin; the 14th Century German Carol "In Dulci Jubilo" in settings by the contemporaries Marcel Dupre and Hermann Schroeder, as well as three settings by J. S. Bach. Martin Luther's hymn "Vom Himmel Hock" will be heard in settings by contemporaries Helmut Walcha, Ernst Popping and baroque composer Johann Pachelbel, concluding with the canonic variations on the Bach theme.

Andrews will play music which he has arranged from early lute suites of France and other music which was interchangeably written for lute, harpsichord, harp and/or organ.

Grabhorn Press Founder Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Edwin Grabhorn, one of the two brothers who operated the exclusive Grabhorn Press, died yesterday. He was 79.

He and his brother Robert founded the Grabhorn Press a half century ago. It published hundreds of artistic typographical masterpieces which were distributed in small numbers to collectors.

The brothers donated a collection of 1,600 rare books, including a single-leaf attributed to Guttenberg, to the San Francisco Public Library three years ago.

ART REVIEW

Group Show Tighter Than General Rule

By LAURA DEVENDORF

The Arlene Lind Gallery, 473 Jackson Street, is currently doing the same with an eight-man show of prints, photographs, canvases and sculpture in which only two artists, Gerard Caris and Brook Temple, are not from Marin.

With this many artists the show, naturally, has variety. It is also a lot tighter than you might expect as most of the gallery is dominated by four talented and sophisticated printmakers.

Of these, Temple's full-toned serigraphs are lustrous masses of blue, green and red, decorated with dancing bands of curved shapes in contrasting colors. Caris' prints, on the other hand, add nothing but a few well-chosen black lines to break the blank white spaces.

Most satisfying intellecutally, are Eleanore Bender's latest prints. Gray, black and brown circles and rectangles are beautifully balanced on flat and embossed areas of white.

Each seems like a mathematical reduction of a theme she has offered sucessfully in the past and each has a still serenity in new simplicity.

For balance, there are Houlgate Davenport's ornate, totally personal, haiku-inscribed etchings which are as unique and colorful as Persian carpets. An inner glow and magic extends through all of them, enhanced by the poetic thoughts she has penciled across the bottoms.

The reactions to David Sherbon's nubbed branching forms and arched figurative pieces is mixed. At times these welded brasses show a jewelers gift for detail while at times they are not exciting neither in concept nor in execution.

The same could be said for J. Miller's photographs. The black and whites are often moody and sensitive while the ones in color have little that is moving about them.

A few, really to few, of Ralph O'Neill's free-form arcs of stone and of Darrell Crisp's tiny editions of his bulging, geometric shaped canvases complete the show, which has unusual import for such usual holiday fare.

Pills And Alcohol Blamed For Death

Paul S. Raugust, 3-year-old restaurant owner found dead outside his Sausalito home early Nov. 2, was a victim of an overdose of pills and alcohol, Deputy Coroner Keith Craig said today.

Craig listed the case as an apparent suicide and said the pills consumed were tranquilizers and sleeping tablets.

Concert Tomorrow

The annual Red Hill Band Christmas concert will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Isabel Cook School auditorium on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo. No admission will be charged.

Bond Committee To Name Leaders In San Rafael

A steering committee mapping a campaign for San Rafael School District's $2.1 million bond election Feb. 18 last night agreed to select area vice chairmen for each of the 12 elementary school attendance areas.

The names of the vice chairmen will be released later this week, reported Supt. John F. Plank, after all 12 positions have been filled.

About 40 persons attended the committee meeting in the district administration building, he said.

Mrs. Rosemarie Mauroni, president of the San Rafael Council of Parents and Teachers, was elected secretary of the steering committee.

The group set its next meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 6 in the district administration building.

Mental Health Unit Equipment Requested

Equipment needs for the Community Mental Health Center will be presented the Marin Hospital District board today.

The list includes outdoor furniture, a potter's wheel for occupational therapy, and spare drapes. The board will meet at 6 p.m. in the Marin General Hospital cafeteria for dinner, then move to the Coral Room at 7 p.m. for the regular meeting.

James W. Knight is president of Fairfax Lions Club.

Regional Library Pact Is Approved

The machinery to establish a $500,000 regional county library in Corte Madera was unanimously approved last night by the Corte Madera Town Council.

The action came in three steps: The council passed a resolution notifying the board of supervisors that the town is withdrawing from the county's free library system; it approved a program agreement with the county for construction and operation of the proposed new library, and approved an option agreement on a library site.

The town at present has a branch county library. By withdrawing from that system, it now will form a joint powers agency with the county, an action which will permit issuance of revenue bonds by that agency to finance the purchase of land and the building of a library.

Proposed is purchase of a 2.7-acre parcel on Meadowsweet Drive owned by Fred Sanford and costing $210,000. The library building will cost about $290,000, town officials said.

Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said under the agreement with the county, Corte Madera would continue paying the equivalent of what it normally pays to the county for library service, and the county will finance the remainder and operate the library.

The option to buy the Sanford land would be good until Oct. 15, and may be extended for another year. It would cost $4,233, the amount equal to 1968-69 property taxes on the land. Corte Madera would pay one-third of this amount and the county would pay the remainder.

Withdrawal from the county system is effective July 1. The board of supervisors was scheduled to consider similar approval today.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

ZONING — Unanimously voted to include restaurants in the permitted uses of professional and administrative zoning of the town. The action came on application of Philip Swigard, who said a Denny's restaurant is proposed for such a zone east of Highway 101 near the Paradise Drive intersection.

RESIDENCE — Liberalized a policy which until now restricted the residence of town employees to within a five miles. New boundaries are slightly beyond that range — north to Ignacio and extending to Fairfax, Mill Valley and south to the Golden Gate Bridge. The council retained the right to waive the requirements in individual cases, however.

DOG CONTROL — Continued to the 7:30 p.m. meeting Jan. 6 any action on proposed changes in its contract with the County of Marin for dog control.

STREETS — Accepted Fairview Avenue improvements in the Madera Park subdivision, and accepted reconstruction of Sausalito Street from Buena Vista Avenue to the southern town limits.

FLOOD CONTROL — Passed a resolution accepting completion of three flood control pumps.

CONFERENCE — Approved attendance by Arthur N. Morrison, director of public works, at a three-day California Street and Highway Conference in Los Angeles starting Jan. 30.

SALARY — Raised Morrison's monthly salary from $1,100 to $1,184. The action, effective Jan. 1, came after the council learned that Morrison was being considered for the post of superintendent of operations of the Alameda County Water District at a salary of $1,184 a month.

HOLIDAYS — Agreed to close Town Hall at noon on Dec. 24 and Dec. 31.

Johnson Lights National Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, lighting the National Christmas Tree for his sixth and last time, says his prayer remains unchanged.

"My prayer now, as it has been in each of these other Decembers," he said Monday night, "is for peace and reconciliation abroad; justice and tranquility at home."

Johnson lit the 74-foot-high Engelmann Spruce from Uinta National Forest in Utah—covered with green lights set off by strings of white lights—at a ceremony in freezing temperatures.

Silverthorne Will Fight Retrial Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ex-banker Don C. Silverthorne plans to fight the government's attempt to retry him on embezzlement charges in connection with the 1965 folding of his San Francisco National Bank.

Attorney George Martinez told the U.S. District Court yesterday that he found a "good body of law" which tended to show it might be "cruel and inhuman punishment" to put a man as old as Silverthorne (62) on trial again.

Besides, said Martinez, it was his opinion that the government lost the original case "through its own fault." Silverthorne was convicted on 13 counts but the verdict was overturned by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

"If your thesis is correct, it would be impossible to retry any case reversed by an appellate court," Judge George B. Harris told the attorney, who represented the Tiburon resident.

"But I am willing to hear the matter out," he added and set Jan. 15 for a hearing.

Flu Bug Calls Off Journey By Humphrey

Humphrey originally had been scheduled to arrive here yesterday for a two-day visit but postponed his arrival until today because he was suffering from the flu.

Corte Madera Raps Larkspur Annex Hope

The Corte Madera Town Council last night girded itself to contest the neighboring City of Larkspur for the annexation of a portion of the San Quentin peninsula.

Because it said the area "just naturally" fits better with Corte Madera and that Corte Madera would have better planning and development than Larkspur, the council unanimously voted to oppose any annexation petition Larkspur might file with the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Larkspur last Wednesday introduced an ordinance to prezone 69.5 acres of the Hutchinson Quarry — east of Highway 101 and located in a 200-acre peninsula strip that Corte Madera is eyeing — as light industrial as a prelude to annexation.

David Van Pelt, of Dan Coleman Associates of San Rafael, city planning consultants, noted at the Larkspur meeting that annexation eventually could lead to absorption of the southern portion of the peninsula by that city. He said annexation by Larkspur would be more logical than annexation to San Rafael or Corte Madera.

Larkspur, he noted, had better access than the other two cities.

The Corte Madera council, which a year ago indicated to the Local Agency Formation Commission that the 200-acre parcel was in its proposed "ultimate boundaries," last night protested that Larkspur's zoning would be casual and permit what Corte Madera Mayor Edward W. Colthurst said would be a "hodge-podge" of concrete-making plants in the area.

He said an unsightly array of commercial enterprises including trailer parks probably would follow. "I think we should oppose it just on the grounds of esthetics alone," he said.

Colthurst said later Corte Madera's annexation of the parcel would be followed by a careful general plan. It could include light industry, he said, but would have tight restrictions and could "be a beautiful area."

Councilman Byron D. White, referring to the parcel's as adjacent to Corte Madera's northern border, said the land "just naturally belongs to Corte Madera."

Youth Pleads Guilty On Marijuana Sale

William Preston Sullivan, 20, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge that he sold marijuana in September 1966. A second charge of selling the weed was dismissed by the district attorney.

Sullivan was told to return to court Jan. 13 for sentencing.

Nun Convicted

MERANO, Italy (UPI)—A court convicted a Roman Catholic nun yesterday of beating children at an orphanage and sentenced her to three months in jail but suspended the sentence.

Vietnam Veterans Any Different?

Two Find Maturity In Service

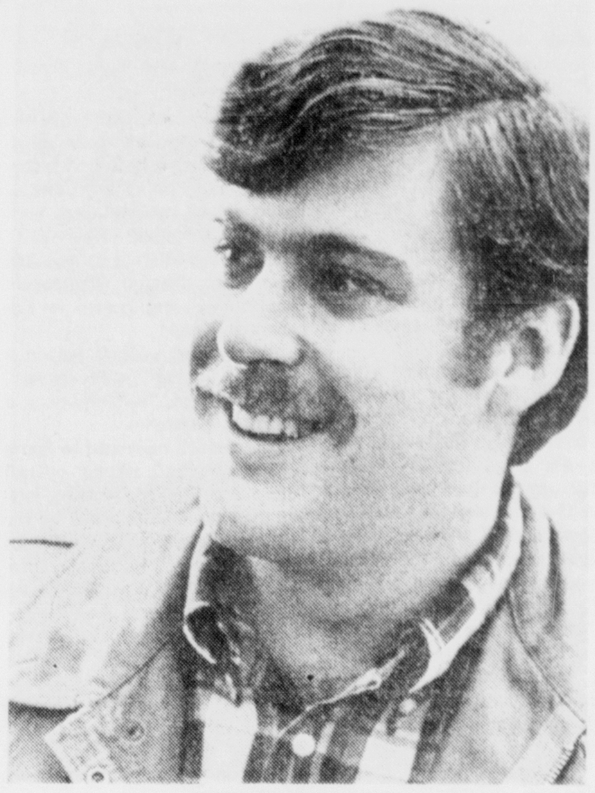
By MARY LEYDECKER

Is the veteran of the unpopular Vietnam War a different man than his forebears, who came home from other American wars to receive a welcome suitable for heroes and thanks from a grateful nation?

Although two young men, both of whom saw heavy action in Vietnam and are now back in school at College of Marin, disagree about overall views of the war, they agree with an old truism: The Army forces you to grow up.

Bruce Makinson, 21, of San Rafael and Carl Jensen, 25, of Novato had very different experiences in Vietnam, however, and probably met them as two very different individuals.

CARL JENSEN
He made long road back



BRUCE MAKINSON
Says he is not a hero

Makinson smiles easily and often as he speaks of "the good guys" he met in the service, but Jensen's pensive eyes show the marks of the tremendous pain he endured during months of hospitalization for very serious wounds.

Are these two young men typical of the new breed of veteran?

At least satistically, according to spokesmen at the county veterans service office and the State Department of Employment's veteran division.

"About 80 per cent of these young men from Marin County have come back to school, and most select formal training," said Charles Truax of the employment department.

A GI bill similar to the benefits given after World War II and the Korean War encourages veterans to continue schooling, the officials said.

Both Makinson, who enlisted in the Army at 17 because he was a "lousy student" and Jensen, who was drafted while in his third year of college, agree that they have come back with a much more serious outlook on getting an education.

From there, their viewpoints diverge.

Makinson, who lives at 4 Hillview Avenue with his parents, first talked of his experiences in Vietnam, where he spent 13 months.

"A pretty good time" was his description of three years in the Army, but he referred mainly to the friends he made, not his tour of duty as a crew chief in a helicopter which evacuated wounded men.

Although Makinson has no plans to enter any part of the medical field, he said that helping care for wounded men "didn't bother me too much," explaining it was probably due to the fact that his mother is a nurse and his father a mortician.

"I don't think we (the U.S.) should ever have become involved in the Vietnam War, but I don't see any easy way to get out now," was Makinson's view on the overall war picture.

"Sometimes when I was there, I thought we ought to get it over with as quickly as possible in any way we could," he added.

Was it hard to adjust again to civilian life?

Makinson said, "No, because I spent 19 months in Alabama with the Army after coming back from Vietnam."

Since he left College of Marin just before taking finals in his previous term there, Makinson, a Marin Catholic High School graduate, started over as a freshman.

"I just go to class and leave," he said, explaining his lack of interest in student affairs as due more to lack of time than anything else. He works 30 hours a week at Ross General Hospital, where he assists in the pharmacy.

He is only enrolled for two courses this semester and plans to go through college at a leisurely rate, aiming for a teaching career, possibly in history. He has 36 months of eligibility under the GI Bill but is saving it until he enters a four-year college.

"I didn't have much choice. I wasn't fighting the system," Makinson said about his three years in the Army.

Asked if he though he had received a hero's welcome when he came home, Makinson grinned and said, "I wasn't a hero. Very few guys were."

A little over two years ago, the Independent-Journal published a picture of a smiling young man who had won the Dipsea Race. It was Jensen, and today he is starting to run again — a triumph of grit and guts over wounds he received when he stepped on a mine.

Only two months after he arrived in Vietnam as an infantryman, Jensen was sent on a "search and destroy" mission into a Viet Cong tunnel. At the entrance, he hit an antipersonnel mine, which left him with 68 fragments of shrapnel in his body, many broken bones and a hearing loss.

Jensen said he remembers being evacuated in a helicopter and fearing that he was losing his broken arm.

After six and a half hours of surgery in a Vietnam hospital, where most of the shrapnel was removed and fractures of the jaw, foot, hand and arm set, Jensen was flown to a Japanese hospital, then to one in the Philippines.

Finally he arrived at Letterman General Hospital, in San Francisco, where he spent a year having plastic surgery and therapy.

He still has 18 small pieces of shrapnel in his body which occasionally fester and work themselves out. He is beginning to gain back the 37 pounds he lost and said that "it's just time now" for him to regain better use of his battered body.

"I think mankind should find a better way than war to solve problems," Jensen said. "I'm really against all wars but especially this one."

Like Makinson, he feels that a land war in Southeast Asia is a mistake for the United States. "But if we're there we ought to fight a guerrilla war with guerrilla tactics, not on a semiconventional level," he added.

"They're fighting only to stay alive," he said of the purpose of Americans in Vietnam.

Did his experience have any value?

"It taught me appreciation of simple things — like a warm bed, clean clothes, good food," Jensen said, but mainly he remembered that "we lost a lot of guys."

Although, like Makinson, he said he doesn't have time for student activities, Jensen said he has found today's students to be "more aware of issues like Vietnam and racism."

As to antiwar demonstrations, Jensen said, "I think maybe they're doing some good," but he added that he felt that if they are violent, they are just as bad as war.

Because of his wounds, Jensen, who was a physical education major before he went into the Army, has changed to a recreation major. "I just want to get my degree and get a job," he said.

Jensen, who attended College of Marin and Sonoma State College before being drafted, returned to the Kentfield campus to take courses he needs because of the change of major. He plans to transfer at the end of the semester.

While carrying a full load at the college, he is working for five recreation departments in the county.

Afraid that people would pity him because of his wounds, Jensen said he was shy when he first got out of the hospital. "That helped a lot," is how he described meeting the girl he plans to marry in August. Lynn Minnich, 21, is a physical education major, whom he met after returning from Vietnam, and "who didn't compare me with the way I used to be."

Seemingly unaware of the multitude of young college students milling about as he talked, Jensen said, "they have a right to be their age."

He also had thoughts on teen-agers, with whom he hopes to work in his career. "Until people stop looking on teen-agers as a liability, problems with them will continue," he said.

"I didn't have any choice," Jensen concluded about his Army experiences. "I didn't want to be court-martialed and possibly lose my rights as a citizen."

Big Forgery Gang Suspect Arrested

A 23-year-old transient, who police said may be a member of a forgery gang which has swindled California banks of nearly $50,000, was arrested yesterday by San Anselmo officers.

Booked into Marin County Jail for investigation of forgery, possession of stolen checks and possession of a stolen credit card was Ronald Victor MacWilliams.

Police Capt. Chester C. Orr said MacWillias was arrested at the Wells Fargo Bank in San Anselmo at 12:40 p.m. while attempting to make a $1,000 withdrawal on a checking account.

Orr said the withdrawal was against a $1,273 deposit made Friday by MacWilliams, who allegedly forged the name of Clarence W. Morgan and used a blank company check stolen last December in a burglary of the office of John J. Nathan and Son, general insurance brokers, San Francisco.

Orr said MacWilliams was arrested after bank officials were alerted of operations of a gang which would make minor deposits and withdrawals early in the week, then deposit a check for about $1,200 on a Friday.

On the following Monday, he said, before the deposit check could be verified, the gang would make a $1,000 withdrawal. Orr said MacWilliams also deposited money at the Crocker-Citizens National Bank in San Anselmo last week, but hadn't yet attempted a big withdrawal.

He said 400 blank checks were stolen from the San Francisco firm. He said the credit card and identification, found in MacWilliams' possession, were allegedly stolen from Morgan, of Shingle Springs, El Dorado County.

The gang normally operates with two men to a team, Orr said, but no one was with MacWilliams. MacWilliams remained in jail in lieu of $12,500 bail. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Driver Faces Plea On Marijuana Count

Leonard Gilbert Nathan, 25, of Berkeley, arrested on a narcotics charge Saturday because he drove too slowly on Highway 101, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge that he possessed marijuana for sale. He was told to return to court today to plead to the felony charge.

Nathan was arrested when a California Highway Patrol officer noticed his car going too slowly. The officer reportedly found marijuana and hashish in the car.

Marin Panel Backs Joint Bus Service

A modern bus system between Marin and San Francisco should be financed and operated under an agreement between the Marin County Transit and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway districts, transit directors decided, 5-1, today.

Dissenting was Thomas T. Storer, who objected that the agreement "would limit the mode of transportation to buses," and does not include San Francisco as a party to the agreement.

The motion to seek the agreement with the bridge board came from Peter H. Behr, Ernest N. Kettenhofen, John F. McInnis, William A. Gnoss and Dean N. Meyer voted with Behr. Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera was absent.

The resolution calls for early negotiations to establish the bus system.

The resolution also notes that the "agreement should look toward possible future merger of the Marin County Transit District and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, or the creation of a new entity combining the powers and resources of the present districts."

California has more agricultural land under irrigation than any other state.

Tiburon Variance Is Granted

The Tiburon Board of Adjustments last night approved a request by Ransom S. Cook for a 10-foot sideyard variance for property at 106 Mount Tiburon Road, development administrator Phil V. Scott reported.

Scott said the variance was granted after Cook modified plans increasing the sideyard from seven to 10 feet. The city's ordinance requires a 20-foot sideyard setback.

The board also approved an application by Frank Tomsick for no frontyard setback, sideyard setbacks of four feet and extention of the rear building line 16 feet into the public zone for a building at 2316 Mar East Street, Scott said. The approval was conditioned on design approval by the board of design review.

A request by Fitzie Dawson to construct a duplex at 135 Solano Street was denied, Scott said. The board took no action on a rearyard variance request pending a decision by Dawson on whether he would construct a single family home on the site.

A lot split application by Kenneth A. Frost to divide property at 15 Tanfield Road into two lots, both less than the required 40,000 square foot minimum, was denied.

Mill Valley Eyes Center Removal

Faced with a tab of $42,000 to $80,000 to move the Community Center to a temporary location, The Mill Valley City Council last night instead asked City Planner Harvey E. Bragdon to produce plans showing where a permanent center would fit in the Harbor-Enchanted Knolls-Project 17 area.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said it will cost $42,400 to move the center to the sewage treatment plant site, or $80,900 to move it to the 11-acre Enchanted Knolls site.

The center is in the way of the middle school now under construction and must be moved by June.

Balmer favored the sewage plant site, which he said would have room now and would be vacated by the sewage facility in about five years when a coastal plant is built to serve Southern Marin.

Councilmen were unconvinced.

"That place down there . . ." councilman Robert H. Andresen began.

"Stinks," interposed Mayor Dean N. Meyer.

"It does indeed," Andresen finished.

Balmer said the sewer plant can be odor free if operated properly, but plant manager Ross Benson said that was impossible for a bio-filtration type plant like Mill Valley's.

Including $7,000 for replacing a shed on the sewage site, "this is a $50,000 minimum for a temporary building," Councilman Jerome C. Hauke said. "I'd favor spending that . . . for a new permanent building . . . on a crash program."

Richard J. Young, parks and recreation commissioner, agreed. In digging out costs, he said, he estimated a new building of 3,500 square feet would cost $66,000 on the Enchanted Knolls site. The present center has 5,000 square feet.

"We'll be throwing away money . . . to move this," Councilman Rodric L. Robinson said.

Based on Robinson's suggestion, Councilman George Wickham finally moved to have Bragdon present a plan on Jan. 20 showing where the building should go. The council agreed unanimously.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

SPOILS — Received copies of a letter by Marin County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost advocating a plan to dredge the Sausalito Canal whereby 700,000 cubic yards of spoils would be dumped in deep water near Alcatraz Island and carried to sea by tides and currents. Cost would be approximately $900,000, cheaper than the alternative of barging spoils to sea and possibly a plan acceptable to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, according to Frost. The spoils would cover 70 acres if dumped on land or in the shallows of Richardson Bay.

MILITANTS — Heard Robinson suggest the council, in light of student and militant unrest on San Francisco State College and other campuses, keep in close touch with officials at Tamalpais High School to be ready to take any action possible to "prevent any such confrontations" at Tamalpais.

APPOINTMENT — Took under advisement a proposal by Meyer to name Mrs. Janet Mountjoy to the Architectural Advisory Commission to succeed Matt Kopenhaver. Under a new policy, Meyer gave out qualification sheets on Mrs. Mountjoy and another candidate, Robert M. Tanaka, and the council will study the sheets and advise Meyer at the Jan. 6 meeting of its preference.

REFUSE — Agreed to rent a spot behind the sewage treatment plant to Mill Valley Refuse Service as a truck storage yard for $100 a year. The company will build a road to the now unused site. Andresen voted against the proposal, saying the council should first determine proper rental value.

SUBDIVISION — Authorized Alto Sanitation District to annex a 22-lot subdivision east of Highway 101. Alto sewage is treated at the Mill Valley plant.

LICENSE — Gave final approval to an amendment setting a 25 per cent penalty for failure to pay a business license fee when due.

New Cabs Voted In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The police commission has announced it will permit 110 more taxicabs to operate in San Francisco — the first such expansion of cab service in 20 years.

The commission yesterday awarded the 110 new permits to 90 of 270 applicants, who have 60 days to get their cabs in operation. The city currently has 739 cab permits, of which 503 are held by Yellow Cab Co.

Commission President J. W. Mailliard III said "existing permit holders are operating under efficient management and are making a profit," but "under normal conditions they are inadequately serving the public."

Mailliard noted that the new permits, unlike those issued in the past, are not transferable.

Budget On Agenda

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Association of Bay Area Governments' executive committee will consider ABAG's 1969-70 budget at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Berkeley Room of the Hotel Claremont. The proposed budget, which is financed by dues from counties and cities and from federal funds, is to be prepared by the finance subcommittee at 5:30 p.m.

Five Marooned In Antarctic

LONDON (AP) — Five British explorers are marooned in the snows of the Antarctic, and the Royal Navy is steaming to the rescue.

The five members of the British Antarctic Survey were aboard a twin-engine plane that was force down by bad weather in Graham Land a week ago.

The plane apparently was undamaged but is short on fuel. The navy said the men all have standard foul weather clothing for Antarctic conditions and emergency rations for 30 days.

The Admiralty sent the 2,641-ton ice patrol ship Endurance on a 1,000 mile dash from the Falkland Islands to set up rescue headquarters off Adelaide Island.

Council Endorses Higher Density For Enchanted Knolls Ridge Area

After nearly three hours of discussion and a coffee break for informal consensus-making, a new zoning density totaling seven dwelling units per acre was approved last night for 76 undeveloped acres of Enchanted Knolls by the Mill Valley City Council.

But the long fought-over proposal may have to go back to the planning commission before returning to the council for final action.

The council approved a three-part proposal by Councilmen George Wickham to allow 6.5 units per acre on 49 acres east of the ridge line and nearest Highway 101, four units per acre on 19 acres west of west of the ridge, and 17 units per acre on eight acres near the frontage road and now zoned for multiple residential use.

The plan was passed 4-1, Rodric L. Robinson voting against it and Wickham, Jerome C. Hauke, Robert H. Andresen and Mayor Dean N. Meyer voting for it.

Robinson objected that the plan set no overall density for the entire 76 acres, and said developers conceivably could develop the denser parts and sell the rest, whereupon the new owner would seek higher density for his portion.

The Wickham plan was the third offered as councilmen scribbled furiously to find a density formula to allow profitable development by developers Warner R. Odenthal, Eugene C. Hartner and Sherrill Broudy and keep low density developmen next to existing homes in Enchanted Knolls.

"If the past council played a numbers game" with density, Robinson said, "we're playing a calculus game."

The council debated two hours on a proposal setting overall density at 7 units per acre, lower than the 8 units asked by the developers but a step up from the planning commission proposal for 6.5 units per acre overall.

The commission had approved three zones of 4.5 units per acre on the west side, 6.5 on the east side and 17 per acre on a five-acre parcel on the frontage road.

Andresen objected the overall density plan was "only delaying the final determination" of densities inside the acreage, which would still have to be set in plan review of the developer.

Andresen, Wickham and Hauke combined to beat the motion 3-2, and Andresen then suggested a coffee break to seek a consesus.

After the break, Andresen proposed densities of 15 for the 10-acre frontage parcel, four for 19 acres west of the ridge and six for the remaining 47 acres.

Wickham seconded the motion, but Planning Commissioner Robert E. Burton objected the proposal left no flexibility as intended in the plan review district.

Developer Odenthal said the proposal, allowing 357 units instead of 330 allowed under present zoning, was not enough difference to do any good.

Andresen's motion lost 4-1, even Wickham voting against it, and Wickham then presented his proposal.

Meyer said a ruling will be needed from City Atty. Leland H. Jordan on whether the proposal must go back to the planning commission for consideration before final council passage. Jordan was out of town last night.

The Wickham formula would allow 531 units — exactly one under the 532 allowed if a flat density of 7 units per acre had been approved.

Fire Board Hires Firm On Bonds

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board last night retained San Francisco attorneys Orrick, Herrington, Rowley and Sutcliffe as counsel for a proposed $580,000 bond issue for district improvements.

Public hearings on the proposed issue will be scheduled later, Fire Chief Richard Oswald said. The bonds will finance a new main station, upgrade the water system, buy fire apparatus and improve training facilities.

The board also recommended that the Marin County supervisors appoint William K. Gealy of 308 Todd Way, Homestead Valley, to complete the term of former chairman John F. O'Connor, who has moved from the district.

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board also:

HYDRANT MONEY — Added $2,165 to the hydrant fund for further hydrant and main improvements at Oswald's request. The sum was surplus in the hydrant fund last year and went into the general fund.

CHRISTMAS — Announced Santa Claus will visit schools in the district Friday to hand out pamphlets on fire prevention during the holiday season, and will ride through the district Saturday and Sunday handing out candy canes.

TWELFTH NIGHT — Scheduled a Twelfth Night Christmas tree burning ceremony for 7 p.m. Jan. 6 on the Tamalpais Valley School playground.

VOLUNTEERS — Accepted as full-fledged volunteer firemen two men completing six months probationary status, Tad Alvord and Arthur Quaster.

Rolling Quake In Mid-Alaska; No Casualties

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —A long, rolling earthquake lasting about 90 seconds hit south-central Alaska early today but the only damage reported was a brief power outage at Kenai, 60 miles from Anchorage.

The National Earthquake Information Center at Rockville, Md., said the quake had a listing of 6.25 to 6.5 on the Richter scale. Its epicenter was about 130 miles southwest of Anchorage in the Chigmit Mountains in the vicinity of 10,197-foot Redoubt Volcano.

"Of course there was some concern on the part of all who remember 1964," said Police Officer Charles Audino. "But there was nothing like panic, or anything akin to that."

Audino was referring to the tremendous Good Friday quake of 1964 in which at least 115 persons were killed and damage was in the millions of dollars.

Antiwar Marine Ails After Hunger Strike

1-J Special Report

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. — Marine Pvt. John Robinson, 19, one of the "Marin City Nine," won't be released from Portsmouth Naval Prison until he regains his health, impaired by a hunger strike, although his six month sentence is up, officials said today.

Robinson, who participated in an antiwar demonstration in July in which AWOL servicemen chained themselves to clergyman in a Marin City church, began a hunger strike Oct. 27 as a protest against the Vietnam War.

The Marine, who is from Westport, Conn., originally was given a bad conduct discharge but this has been lifted. Friends of the youth said that he fears that he will be sent to Vietnam as soon as he is released from prison.

Officials said today that once he regains some weight and gets over a kidney infection he is to return to active duty.

His weight dropped from 200 to 140 pounds and he was transferred from the prison to the base hospital, but officials said that yesterday he was taking food voluntarily.

A Boston-based antiwar group, the New England Resistance, has petitioned the Marine Corps to release Robinson as a conscientious objector.

Pleads Innocent

Leonard Jason, 41, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge of car theft in Larkspur Nov. 28. Jury trial on the charge was scheduled for Feb. 10.

VIEW HOME

This property is in an area of fine homes, near Marin Terrace School. 4 bdrms., 2 baths, all elec. kitchen, oak floors, entry hall, a 3rd bathroom is roughed-in and an additional room is uncompleted. This modern home is only $32,500. And why is the price so low? This home is very dirty, but is not actually damaged in any way. Paint and cleaning will do wonders. If you don't mind a little cleaning, take advantage of this low price.

SUMMONS
(General)
NO. 52532

Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Marin.

DAPHNE B. HOPPER, Plaintiff,
vs.
HUGH D. HOPPER, Defendant.

You are directed to file with the clerk of this court in which the above entitled action is brough a written pleading in response to the complaint within ten days after the service on you of this summons, if served within the above named county, or within thirty days if served elsewhere (except that if the action is against the state pursuant to Section 738.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure, within 180 days). You are notified that unless you so file a written responsive pleading, the plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or will apply to the court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

City, County Officials Give Lawmakers Christmas List

Long lists of new laws they would like for Christmas were presented yesterday to Marin's state and federal legislators by county and city officials.

All understood that like Santa, the legislators could not deliver in many cases, but still there was no harm in asking.

The event was the annual workshop between local officials and legislators in the Civic Center, and about 50 officials attended the two-hour session.

At the top of everyone's list was property tax relief, although few speakers had more than a vague idea that something must be done about the problem.

The strongest pitch for new legislation was by Betty Presley, head of the county's department of public social services (welfare), who termed "scandalous" the state Legislature's failure for 12 years to increase its contribution to Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

During the same 12 years, she said, the cost of living has risen 25.75 per cent. Marin, to meet the gap, now is spending $427,800, mostly property taxes, she said. Statewide, it is costing counties over $7 million annually to meet the gap.

Federal funding of the aid automatically would increase if the state hiked its participation, said Miss Presley, thus eliminating the county's need to fund a gap.

Modernization of the states' Welfare and Institutions Code also should provide for annual increases in state funding to meet increases in the cost of living, she told the legislators.

Present were Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both San Rafael Republicans, and staff representatives of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and Don H. Clausen, R-First District.

Supervisors John F. McInnis and William A. Gnoss noted that because three new supervisors will join them in January, they preferred to wait until then to prepare a legislative program. Gnoss, however, said he hoped for legislation so school buses could be used during the day to take senior citizens and welfare recipients shopping.

The outgoing supervisors, however, were not so reticent.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer led off with suggestions that "something be done" about property tax relief, that tax increases on home improvements be deferred until the home is sold, that a portion of gas taxes be used for mass transit.

Also, that there be a statewide mass transit bond measure, a requirement that drivers show proof of public liability insurance to get a license, that the voting age be lowered to 18 or 19, that residency requirements to vote be shortened, that there be nationwide voter registration, that there be both state and local fair campaign practices committees, that counties have the option of making supervisorial elections county-wide instead of by district, and that jury pay be hiked.

Later, Storer added that there should be a law to require drivers to pull over to allow faster vehicles to pass, even if only one vehicle is following.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen suggested that public employees be given only partial disability payments if they still can work. At present, only total disability is allowed for in state law, he said.

He also suggested that homeowners be allowed to get some credit on their property taxes for improvements, and that any increase in property taxes due to the difference between the present and the highest and best use be deferred until a property is sold.

Kettenhofen added that partial fees should be charged by the public defender's office, which now can only collect its whole fee or nothing at all, that the state pay interest on overdue payments to counties, that the state "pick up a large share" of the cost of welfare to families moving to Marin because their relatives are in San Quentin Prison and that the Marin County Transit District be abolished and its functions transferred to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Commenting on this last suggestion, Bagley said he would try again to replace the bridge district with a "San Francisco-North Bay District, but I don't know if next year will be the time to push it."

McCarthy noted that he would try in the coming legislative session to set up a regional transportation agency or to expand the authority of the bridge district to other forms of transportation.

Supervisor-elect Peter Arrigoni Jr., who unseated Kettenhofen in the June primary election, suggested that supervisorial elections be held with the November general election whenever there are only two candidates. This would eliminate the long "lame duck" term of a supervisor who lost in June. Kettenhofen favored this suggestion.

Arrigoni also urged federal legislation to provide more federal money for flood control projects.

Also presented was a nine-point legislative program by County Superintendent of Schools Virgil S. Hollis.

His program called for a law to provide fact-finding, mediation and arbitration for public school employees, an areawide tax on districts contracting with the county schools office for bus service, extension from age 5 to age 3 of training for mentally retarded children.

Also, creation of a state agency to carry out experimental programs, more state funds to local districts for special programs for gifted students, increased allowances for kindergarten classes, continuance of federal aid to districts near federal facilities, more federal funds for experimental education centers and more state funds under the Miller-Unruh reading program.

Larkspur representatives urged that retirement residences be subject to some city charges even if they are owned by a tax-exempt group. The city noted that The Tamalpais, now being built, could someday be owned by a tax-exempt group, and under present law the city would lose all revenue from it.

Mill Valley representatives called for state legislation to end "unjust taxation imposed on incorporated taxpayers by county governments."

Argument Ends In Shotgun Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A San Francisco man was held on murder charges today following a shooting which grew out of a traffic accident.

Eugene Rogers, 26, was charged with the slaying of Benjamin Holmes, 52.

Police said Holmes was killed with a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun at Rogers' home last night. Investigators said Rogers borrowed the victim's car during the day and was involved in an accident. Holmes went to the suspect's home to discuss the mishap.

Admits Marijuana

Gerald Mathew Pointer, 21, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge he possessed marijuana Feb. 25, when stopped by the California Highway Patrol on Highway 101. His case was continued until Jan. 13 for sentencing.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Cold Hands From Bad Circulation Should Not Be Merely Ignored

A 28-year-old woman suffered from poor circulation.

"Winter is my worst time," she said. "If I go out-of-doors without a heavy coat my fingers tingle, become cold and turn bluish. This persists until I duck into a warm doorway or lobby. As my fingers begin to warm upthe skin reddens and burns; and then it returns to normal."

VAN DELLEN

THE STORY was typical of Raynaud's phenomenon. When the woman consulted me, her hands looked and felt normal. It was a cold day, so I asked her to go out without gloves and to leave her coat unbuttoned. When she returned, her fingers were stony cold and white. Shortly thereafter, the digits became blue, red, and warm.

Subsequent studies showed that the condition was not the aftermath of an injury, pressure on a nerve, previous frostbite, or certain collagen diseases.

"WOULD IT HELP to move south?" Not necessarily, because emotional stresses can also shut off the circulation by narrowing the small arterioles in the fingers.

In addition, chilly mornings and evenings are not uncommon in the south and spasms may develop when the body is exposed to the lowered temperatures.

Emotional aspects are more important in some than others. A few need psychotherapy, along with tranquilizers to relax the vessels.

FOR THE MAJORITY, the best remedy is to wear suitable clothing when out-of-doors. Warm up the ar in blustery weather before driving. Avoid chilling at all times.

It may be necessary to put on gloves before taking food out of the refrigerator.

Avoid injuring the hands, because a small cut or lesion may take a long time to heal.

Vasodilating drugs, such as Priscoline, Vasodilan, and nitroglycerin, may prove helpful.

UNLESS TREATMENT is instituted, the disease may progress, leading to painful ulcers or gangrene of the fingertips. Dr. Raynaud's original patient had the right idea: She shook her hands, ran home, and put them in hot water.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

EAR NOISES

Mr. E. writes: Ear noises both me day in and day out and at night, too. But when I am asleep, I don't hear them. Is there any cure?

REPLY

Sleep is wonderful. May I suggest a thorough examination to determine the origin of your head noises. Causes vary from early deafness to a brain disorder. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

AVOIDING BRONCHITIS

A reader writes: How can the system be built up so that every cold won't turn into bronchitis?

REPLY

Important factors are adequate rest and nutrition, cleanliness, moderate exercise, and moderation. Spare the bronchial membranes irritation from tobacco, dust, and strong fumes. The risk of infection can be minimized by avoiding exposure to crowds and to persons with colds.

PULLING JUNIOR'S EARS

C. E. writes: Some mothers pull a child's ears as a form of punishment. Doesn't this cause deafness?

REPLY

No, but ear pulling is painful and if done often, could lead to a deformity of the ears. The hearing parts are in the skull, where they are safe from cruel adults.

HERNIA AND CANCER

A reader writes: If a hernia is not treated surgically, whill it become malignant?

REPLY

No, but it may strangulate, and cause an emergency.

SWIMMING AND ARTHRITIS

J. E. K. writes: Is it true that children who swim a lot in cold water suffer from arthritis when they reach adulthood?

REPLY

No. Arthritis is a common disorder and some forms are related to wear and tear associated with strenuous physical activity. Cold water is not a causative factor, although with age, joint pain may increase.

Panther Tells Of Cleaver Guns Order

OAKLAND (UPI)—One of six Black Panthers arrested after a shootout with Oakland police last April says Eldridge Cleaver ordered the Panthers to arm themselves with guns for a ghetto patrol that night.

Warren Wells, 21, made the charge in a statement allegedly given to police from his hospital bed while he was recovering from wounds sustained in the shootout, although his defense attorney had objected to police questioning.

The statement was read into the record yesterday in Superior Court, where Wells is on trial for assault and attempted murder in connection with the shootout in which one Panther was killed and two policemen wounded.

One of the six Panthers arrested was Cleaver, now being sought on a fugitive warrant after his parole was revoked because of his part in the shootout.

"Cleaver said we were going to go out and patrol the area and for everyone to take a gun," Wells said in the statement. "Someone asked Cleaver why we needed the guns and Cleaver said if the police stop and try to kill us we will fight back."

"Everyone took a gun, so I took one too — a rifle they call 'the Enforcer'," Wells continued, adding that after the Panthers reached the West Takland ghetto area they parked.

"All of a sudden Cleaver jumped out of the car. Then I heard someone say, 'Cops, take cover.' That is the first time I knew there were police around.

"I opened the door and crawled about five feet on the sidewalk. As I opened the door my rifle fell out on the sidewalk. I didn't touch the rifle.

"Then I heard a lot of shooting and I got up and ran about ten steps when I was shot. I crawled to some bushes and lay there for about an hour when I was arrested.

"I did not do any shooting at any time. I want that understood. I left my gun at the car," the statement said.

Flea Market Due Consideration Again

For the third time, the Sausalito Planning Commission will consider an application for an arts and crafts flea market on Harbor Drive at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The commission considered the proposal by William McQuiston on Nov. 20 and Dec. 4 but could reach no decision.

Aviation's Birthday Rites At Kitty Hawk

KITTY HAWK, N.C. (AP) — Sixty-five years ago today Orville and Wilbur Wright made man's first successful heavier-than-air flight.

The Dayton, Ohio, bicycle makers made the flight, and ushered in the air age, over the sandy coastal hills of Kitty Hawk.

And at Kitty Hawk the anniversary is marked with speeches, flyovers by modern planes, and the unveiling of portraits of distinguished fliers.

President Johnson, proclaiming today Wright Brothers Day, recalled in Washington that the flight was shorter than the floor of the giant C5 cargo plane that was test flown this year. "But those brief flights, in the sand hill area outside Kitty Hawk, N.C., on Dec. 17, 1903, launched the air age. They changed mankind's way of life," the President said.

Orville made the first successful flight, having won the privilege by a toss of a coin. He flew 120 feet and remained in the air 12 seconds. The brothers made three more flights that day, the longest 852 feet in 59 seconds by Wilbur.

Maj. Gen. Nils O. Ohman, commander of Bolling Air Force base near Washington, D.C., is the principal speaker at today's ceremonies.

Pentagon Given Satirical Award For F111 Program

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N.C. (AP) — The top award of the Man Will Never Fly Memorial Society for 1968 goes to the U.S. Defense Department for the controversial F111 jet fighter program.

The society announced last night it was awarding its national antiaviation citation presentation to the department for "a consistent and overwhelmingly convincing demonstration of the futility of flight."

"At a taxpayers' cost of $7 million per machine," the society said, "the Air Force alone has crashed nine F111s, not to mention those which have plummeted to earth in what are called 'unrelated testing incidents.'"

The Man Will Never Fly Society was formed in 1959 as a spoof of the Kill Devil Hills Memorial Society, which sponsors an annual observance of the Wright Brothers' first flight.

Its membership, which comes from several states, has adopted the motto: "Birds Fly; Men Drink."

Pony-Car Crash Injures Girl, 8

An 8-year-old Woodacre girl received minor injuries yesterday when her Shetland pony ran into the side of a slow-moving car, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Katrina M. von Staden, of Scott Street, was treated by her family doctor for a bump on the head and a cut nose and finger.

Waterfront Plan Due Airing Again

The Sausalito City Council will hear a preliminary presentation of the city's final central waterfront plan at 8 p.m. today at city hall. George Mader will present the plan for consultants William T. Spangle and Associates.

City Mgr. George M. Patterson will also present the resignation of Police Chief Edward S. Kreins, who is leaving to organize a new police department in Pleasant Hill.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Directors of the Marin Hospital District, Marin County, California is inviting separate sealed proposals for the landscaping of the Community Mental Health Center Grounds, Marin County, California.

Instruction to bidders, plans, specifications, and other contract documents are available at the office of Henry Cole, Landscape Architect, 1653 Second Street, San Rafael, California for examination without charge and reference is made thereto for particulars. Copies may be secured at the office of Henry Cole, Landscape Architect, 1653 Second Street, San Rafael, California upon a deposit of $30.00 per set.

Bids must be in a sealed envelope clearly marked "Bid" and filed at the office of the Board of Directors of the The Marin Hospital District, Marin General Hospital, Marin County, California prior to 7 P.M. January 28, 1969. Bids will be opened and read publicly at that time.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or a cashier's check payable to said Hospital District which shall be given as a guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into a contract satisfactory to said Hospital District and which shall be liquidated damages for failure to do so. The check shall be in the amount of ten percent (10) of the bid.

The successful bidder shall furnish a faithful Performance Bond for one hundred percent (100%), and a Labor and Material Bond for fifth percent (50%) of the amount of the bid, together with proof of adequate Workmen's Compensation and other insurance as specified.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

The Marin Hospital District Board of Directors reserves the right to reject any and/or all bids, waive any irregularities and to be sole judge of the responsibility of any bidder and the suitability of the materials and/or services rendered.

Pursuant to law, said Hospital District has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates for legal holiday and overtime work in the locality in which the work is to be performed for each craft or type of workmen or mechanic needed to execute the contract, which will be awarded the successful bidder.

Marin Originates Bulk Of Span Commute Use

About 95 per cent of commuters crossing the Golden Gate Bridge into San Francisco in the morning are from Marin County, according to a commuter survey taken by the Marin Transit District on Nov. 20.

This and other information from the survey will be presented to the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the bridge administration building.

Y. T. (Tito) Sasaki, engineer for the transit district, said a sampling of 500 commuter questionnaires from the 21,000 cards returned showed that 25 per cent of the commuters come from Ross Valley; 21 per cent from the San Rafael-Terra Linda area; 18 per cent from Mill Valey; 13 per cent from Tiburon-Belvedere, 9 per cent from Sausalito, and 8 per cent from Novato. Only 4 or 5 per cent are from Sonoma and Napa counties.

Many of the commuters reported that they start to work about three hours ahead of time in order to beat the traffic and obtain parking spaces, and thus must kill a couple of hours in San Francisco waiting for their offices to open.

The tri-partite panel, composed of representatives from Marin, San Francisco, and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, will also discuss transit planning between Marin and San Francisco and a proposed joint powers agreement between the transit and bridge districts to set up a modern bus transit system.

Sonoma Supervisors Scold Dentist On Sewer Battle

I-J Speckal Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County supervisors yesterday voted start of condemnation proceedings against land owned by a Petaluma dentist in a new sewer assessment district.

Dr. Raymond Nizibian of 1475 Mountain View Road had protested the inclusion of his land in the sewer district on Sunnyslope and Mountain View roads. Health department officials had ordered the area to be sewered, saying septic tanks could no longer serve the area safely.

Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella of Sonoma criticized Dr. Nizibian for his reluctance to become part of the district.

"Immigrants like Dr. Nizibian should feel like they owe America something and should pay their share," Vella said.

Noting it would cost Sonoma county $400 to acquire $50 worth of property, the supervisor said: "That adds insult to injury because Dr. Nizibian makes three times as much as we do on this board."

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors also:

HORSE -BARNS — Awarded a contract for construction of three horse barns at the Sonoma County fairgrounds to James Construction Co. of Santa Rosa on a low bid of $42,860.

GRANDSTAND ROOF — Delayed awarding a contract on construction of a roof on the fairgrounds grandstand. Low bidder was Hayco, Inc. of San Rafael at $51,650, but supervisors learned the bid was being challenged as incomplete by other bidders.

PRESERVES — Added to the list of County agricultural preserves the property of Julien B. Girnad, 295 Rainsville Road, Petaluma.

Neighbor Faces Murder Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — A young grocery clerk has been accused of slaying a mother and her infant son, then setting fire to the apartment to cover up the killings.

Kevin Goode, 22, who lived in the apartment next door to the two victims, was charged yesterday with homicide and arson in the deaths of Agathe Hughes, 31, and her son, Francis, 2 years old.

Police said Mrs. Hughes her body slumped over a bathtub, had been strangled with a towel. Her son, face down in the tub water, had drowned.

Goode was one of several neighbors who rushed later into the burning apartment and it was he who called police after the bodies were found, authorities said.

Martin Hughes, 36, the father and husband, was at work at the time at the Irish Tourist Bureau on Fifth Avenue in Manhattan. The family came from Ireland.

Student Association Executive To Speak

Karen Duncan, a 1963 Novato High School graduate now employed by the National Student Association, will speak on "Institutional Racism" at 8 p.m. Thursday before the Novatans for Racial Equality at Our Lady of Loretto Parish Hall.

Tennis Popularity In Australia At A Low Ebb

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — The 57th Davis Cup Challenge Round between the United States and Australia starting here the day after Christmas Day looms as a complete financial flop and, as a result, might be the last played under the present amateur format.

Cup competition probably will have to go open to revive worldwide interest. A move in that direction will be made this weekend in a meeting of the big four tennis powers—the United States, Australia, France and England.

A major blow to Australian sponsors came today with the announcement that the Australian oil firm which backed television coverage in the past was withdrawing from the picture. No television sponsor is available and that is an automatic loss of $12,000.

"It shows how low the tennis image has dropped in Australia," moaned Neville Vickers, Challenge Round chairman.

Season ticket sales for the three-day event December 26-28 went on sale here Monday, and reaction at best was tepid.

"The sale was well below that of 1963, the last time the United States played here," said Lance Hoskins, secretary of the South Australian Lawn Tennis Association.

Only half of the 7,000 seats were sold for the Memorial Courts, where Arthur Ashe and company will attempt to bring the cup back to America. The Americans are overwhelmingly favored over the Australian team depleted by pro raids.

The tennis bloom has gone in Australia which once looked upon the game as a sort of religion.

The Queensland Championships in Brisbane last week, which provided a Davis Cup preview between top U.S. and Australian players, drew between 300 and 600 daily. In past years as many as 10,000 have paid to witness practice sessions alone.

Once American Davis Cup players invading Australia were treated like visiting VIPs. Worshipful fans would queue to get a glimpse of them going from practice to their hotel. Children swarmed them to get autographs.

Now the young men in the blue blazers with red, white and blue shields hardly raise an eyebrow. Their arms loaded with rackets, they move among the Australian populace almost unnoticed.

Tennis has generally lost its magic in this big under-populated continent at the bottom of the world where sport is king.

The London-to-Sydney auto rally, football news and horse racing have pushed the Davis Cup to the back of the sports pages and sharply trimmed the lineage devoted to the racket boys.

Flying over Australia at night the traveller no longer sees lighted courts dotting the countryside like a checkerboard—many have been sold for real estate—and it is no longer common to see school tykes trudging to class with racket equipment in hand.

Most observers blame the collapse on the fact the Australians have won the Cup 15 of the last 18 times and competition has become boring. Others say the move to the pro program is the reason. Fans want only to see the best — the pros.

The American team under Captain Donald Dell and the Australians under veteran Harry Hopman got down to serious two-a-day practice today.

Tennis in Australia—like the old gray mare—ain't what she used to be.

Reg Carolan Could Earn A Lot Of Playoff Loot

REGGIE GOTROCKS — Next Sunday I'm going over to Oakland Coliseum and cheer my head off for Reg Carolan of the Kansas City Chiefs in their American Football League Western Division playoff game against the Oakland Raiders.

Don't get me wrong, now; deep down inside, my heart will be pulling for the Raiders with provincial pride. But I want Reggie to see me and hear me shouting his name, exhorting him to great heights just in case Kansas City wins.

You see, Carolan is a long-time friend of mine from his athletic stardom and Eagle Scout days in San Anselmo where he attended Drake High School. And, he stands to earn considerable loot this post-season should the Chiefs go all the way to the Super Bowl in Miami.

Already Been There Once

Two seasons back Reg played in the first Super Bowl and, although the Chiefs lost to the Green Bay Packers, each member of the losing team received $7,500. That, coupled with his league championship share of $5,308.39, gave Reg a $12,808.39 bonus in addition to his regular football salary and whatever he earned as a substitute teacher in Marin County during the off-season.

When he came home and stopped by the office for a visit, the big guy was a picture of success, coins jangling in his jeans, greenbacks almost spilling out of his pockets.

Could Be Valuable Friend

Of course, I was financially fat in those days and didn't have to put the touch on him, but with the cost of living going up, Reg may be a valuable friend in need the next time he stops by the office.

That, then, is why I'll be rooting for him next Sunday. For a tight end, Reg Carolan is pretty generous. If things go well for him, he could pocket around $20,000 in playoff loot and, a friend in need, is a friend indeed.

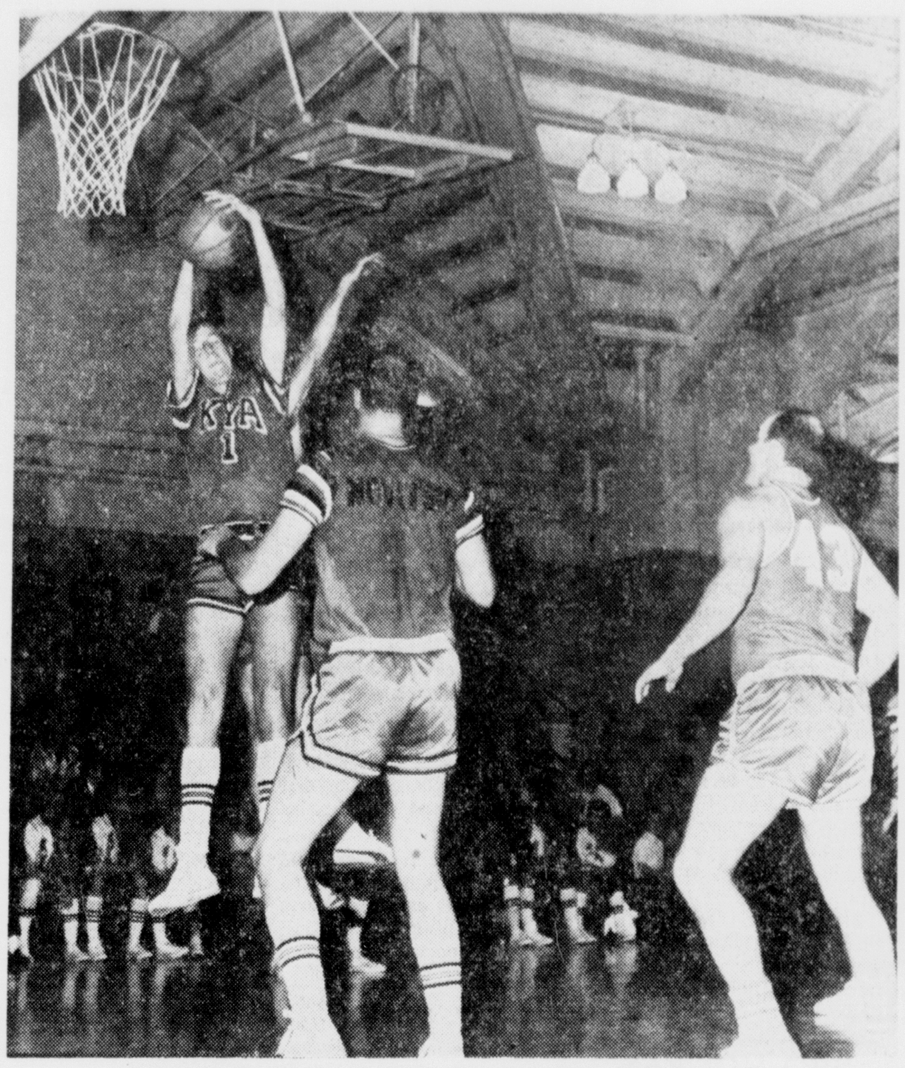
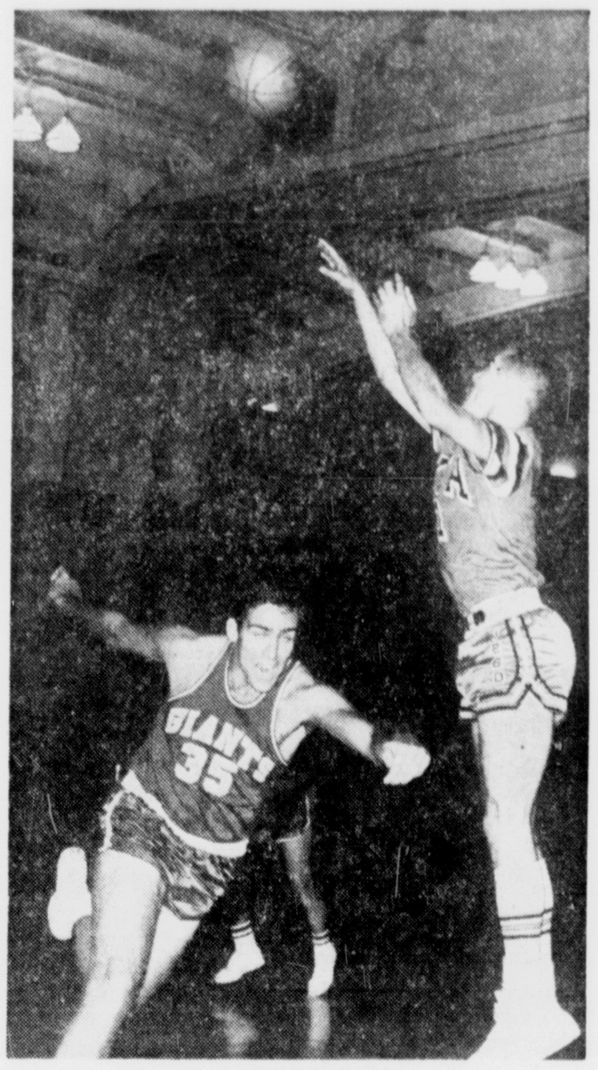
More Alum Players Needed

THE JAN. 18 football game between alumni of San Rafael and Novato high schools has run into a snag, to wit: The National Collegiate Athletic Association has notified game officials that any college player would lose a year of eligibility if he played in the alumni tussle. Thus, officials need more manpower and any old grads from either of those high schools who'd like one more fling at athletic glory should contact coach Bob Muster at San Rafael or Al Scott at Novato. Practices are currently in progress.

CHARLES MONTE, chairman of the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club's North-South Marin High School Football All-Star Game, announces the first player selected for the 1968 game. His name is Matt Monte and according to proud papa Charles, "He yells like a quarterback but kicks his legs like a halfback. He arrived last Thursday and weighed in at 7 pounds, 11 ounces." Mother and son are doing fine but pop's out looking for a helmet Matt's size.





REDWOOD WONDERS UPSET RADIO ONEDERS

Ali Starts His 10-Day Sentence

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Dade County Jail accepted its quickest quipster yesterday when Muhammad Ali — formerly Cassius Clay — surrendered to serve a 17-month-old, 10-day sentence on a traffic charge.

"I'm here to pay my debt," the ex-world heavyweight boxing champion said at a press conference before turning himself in at the jail. His sentence was for driving on an expired license.

Ali was made a jail trusty.

Ali's 10-day sentence—if attorney Henry Arrington can't get it reduced on grounds Ali is a Muslim minister—could be a preliminary to the main event for the former champion.

"I might have to do five for the Army thing, so this will be conditioning for me," Ali said.

The man who once boasted of a "float like a butterfly, sting like a bee" boxing style, said he would like to return to the ring "for financial reasons" once his legal problems are resolved.

"People ask do I miss boxing and I have one answer—No. Boxing misses me," Ali said.

"Your eyeblink is 4-100s of a second," Ali said. "That means if you blink your eyes I can hit you and be back again before your eye opens."

Ali said it would be tough for him to get back into condition to fight again but once he did he could beat either Joe Frazier or Jimmy Ellis, who share the various versions of the heavyweight boxing crown, because of his speed.

"They're easily hit people," Ali said. "People are hitting them who are not one quarter as fast as I am."

COLTS, RAMS DOMINATE

Five 49ers On Pro Bowl Team

Five San Francisco 49ers will be on the Western Conference team in the Jan. 19 National Football League Pro Bowl game in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

On offense, fullback Ken Willard, flanker Clifton McNeil and guard Howard Mudd will represent the Prospectors, while linebacker Dave Wilcox and back Kermit Alexander will man positions on the defensive unit.

EIGHT COLTS

Just as they dominated the league's Coastal Division, the Baltimore Colts topped the selection with eight players on the west team.

Quarterback Earl Morrall led the Baltimore delegation as a tribute to his job in helping the Colts win their division crown after Johnny Unitas was injured.

Other Baltimore players selected by the Western Conference coaches were halfback Tom Matte, ends John Mackey and Willie Richardson, tackle Bob Vogel, defensive tackle Fred Miller, linebacker Mike Curtis and defensive back Bob Boyd.

SEVEN RAMS

The Los Angeles Rams, who waged a season-long battle with the Colts for honors, landed seven men on the West team including quarterback Roman Gabriel. Other Rams named were Charlie Cowan, David Jones, Merlin Olsen, Maxie Baughan, Tom Mack and Joe Sibelli.

Baughan and Forrest Gregg of the Green Bay Packers are the veterans on the squad, both chosen for their eighth Pro Bowl appearance.

LIONS, BEARS

Detroit and Chicago landed two players each. The Lions are represented by Lem Barney and Charles Sanders while the Bears will be represented by Dick Butkus and Roosevelt Taylor. The Atlanta Falcons' only member of the team is linebacker Tommy Nobis.

The Western Conference coaches selected 34 players while the coach, after he is named, will be permitted to name a 35th member of the team.

San Rafael Wrestlers Lose To Santa Rosa

San Rafael High School's varsity wrestling team lost to Santa Rosa High yesterday, 30-23, but the San Rafael junior varsity won its match, 33-25 with the Santa Rosa JV.

Gibson, Marichal Collect Most N.L. Hurling Honors

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals and Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants cleaned up most of the pitching honors in the National League during 1968, official averages showed today.

Steve Blass of the Pittsburgh Pirates took the only other major title. His 18-6 record gave him a .750 winnin gpercentage, tops in the league.

Gibson, who had a 2-1 record in the Cards' losing effort in the World Series with the Detroit Tigers, posted a 1.12 earned run average in 34 games—the lowest in the history of the league. The previous record of 1.22 was by Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Philadelphia Phils in 1915.

In addition, Gibson had a 15-game winning streak which stretched from June 2 to Aug. 19.

Gibson had a 22-9 won-lost record for a percentage of .710. He allowed only 11 home runs in 305 innings. He walked only 62 and those included six intentional walks.

Marichal, finishing with a 26-9 and a .743 percentage, won the most games. The 30 games he completed also topped the league and his 326 innings pitched were high. However, he gave up the most hits—295.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs made the most starts, 40, and he and teammate Bill Hands each yielded 26 home runs, tops in the dubious gopher ball category.

Claude Osteen of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Ray Sadecki of the Giants lost the most games—18 each—as they each posted 12-18 marks.

The 94 walks issued by Bob Veale of Pittsburgh were tops in the league.

Wrestlers Win 40th Straight

Novato High School's varsity wrestling team chalked up its 40th consecutive victory yesterday with a 33-18 decision over San Ramon High in Danville.

English Farmer Wins Marathon Auto Race

SYDNEY (AP) — Andrew Cowan, a 31-year-old English farmer, flashed from fourth to first place in the London to Sydney car marathon in the final runs today.

So far Cowan officially is only the provisional winner of the $24,000 first prize because the penalty points are not yet fully checked. But there is virtually no doubt that he has won in his Hillman Hunter.

Second is Paddy Hopkirk, in a British BMC 1800, $7,210. Second prize and third is Ian Vaughan in an Australian Ford Falcon GT $4,800. According to the unofficial tally, Cowan had 50 penalty points, Hopkirk 56 and Vaughan 62. Two accidents and mechanical trouble put three who were ahead of Cowan out of the prize money.

Leader Lucien Bianchi of Belgium, chief driver of a British-entered Citroen, was in a head-on collision with a Mini car 113 miles short of Sydney.

He was pinned in his car for 20 minutes during which he told rescuers "I want to get to Sydney—I want to get to Sydney." But he was taken to Nowra Hospital where he is expected to remain 24 hours for treatment of facial injuries and

An Early Vote For San Rafael In Cage Race

By GARY TISCHLER

Enough games have been played now to take a slap-happy stab at trying to determine a winner in the upcoming Marin County Athletic League basketball race.

I've got no money on it, but here's the way it seems to me: 1. San Rafael; 2. Novato; 3. Redwood; 4. Terra Linda; 5. Drake; 6. Tamalpais; 7. Marin Catholic; 8. San Marin.

SAN RAFAEL—The Bulldogs are 4-2 won-lost now and seem to be getting good play out of the non-experienced members of the club. We'd say the 31 points out of junior guard Bruce Nave against Armiijo last week is learning fast.

Coach Mike Diaz, for a change, has height and experience in Ron Taylor, Roger Thomas and Phil Sleezer. Add Nave and Lowell Widmer and sixth man Bruce D'Ambra and the usual Bulldog tenacity and you have a pretty potent bunch that could go all the way.

NOVATO — If a team will win on sheer talent, the Hornets ought to do it in a league that finds no team standing head and shoulders over anybody else. The brew of Steve McNalley, Ed Herrnberger, guards Bob Ament and Gene Barnes, plus forward Larry Ferguson and 6 foot, 7 inch backup sophomore Don LaFierre is pretty strong. McNally is one of the finer shooters in the league; Hernberger shoots well and does a great job on the boards. Barnes, given time, could devevelop into the best playmaker in the league. And Ament is pure hustle. The bench is good, headed by LaFierre, guard Mike Phillips and Dave Perron.

REDWOOD — The Giants had their usual Drake Tournament fiasco, getting beat by Terra Linda after a tough loss to Petaluma, but all they lack is some real board strength. The bench is deep, the first five are talented with excellent shooters in Jerry Piro, and Roger Smith, backed up by more little fellows like Jeff Boro, Skip Corsini and Rod Carew. The height is supplied by inelegant but effective Jim Peters and Phil Simpson. The Giants have beaten good teams, such as Salesian of Richmond and Lincoln of San Francisco. The Drake tourney may just be a jinx, but it probably did no good for morale.

TERRA LINDA — Everyone keeps getting surprised by the Trojans, but they shouldn't be. Coach Bob Corley has a veteran crew, good height, fine ballhandlers. Mike Timmel and Mike Peden provide the height, Byron Sakanari and Bob Nadell the guard experience. Pat Purcell is the best ballplayer on the squad, but he has cut down his shooting. The backup crew works fine when mixed in with the vets, but collapsed and almost blew a hefty lead against Napa.

DRAKE — If hustle wins games, the Pirates would have won their own tournament. But there is little height when you consider that Fred Wescott at 6-2 is the biggest man on the squad and the rest look like midgets. But the Pirates do go all out. Wescott is the top scorer, but Dave Alvarado, Clark Jamison, Art Pfaff and Bob MacLean all can put it in. So can Jeff Meeker, underneath.

TAMALPAIS — The Indians have a problem. They have yet to discover where the basket is. The only victory they have is a 34-33 squeaker. But the potential is there for the MCAL defending champs with decent height provided by Bill Secor, and veteran experience by Ron Small and Don Mackin. They won't win it this year, but they'll win some, eventually.

MARIN CATHOLIC — The Wildcats, who have been in awfully fast company this season, will win more than just one game. It's a question of when. They may jell as a team, but it will probably be too late when they do. Mike Murray heads a brand-new double-team entry which will once again go-go-go. But the 'Cats will have to do it without giving up 80 points or so, which is what they've been doing.

SAN MARIN — The MCAL's newest entry, is at least a year or two away from challenging for the title but Gary Howard, who is averaging in the 20-point category, could, be the league's super-star this year.

Marin Skaters Win In Pee Wee Hockey

Marin Junior Hockey Club's Pee Wee team tied Berkeley youngsters 3-3 Sunday at Raydine's ice rink in Corte Madera.

Murray Journeay scored two goals and Pat McPartlan the other for the Marin team. Credited with assists were Maury Carmody, two, and Shawn Mitchell and Gene Presley, one each.

COSTLY ACCIDENT — Lucien Bianchi, chief driver of a British entered Citroen, was pulled out of the vehicle's wreckage today after it crashed head-on into another car at Nowra, Australia — 113 miles short of the finish line. The British car had been favored to win the London-to-Sydney, Australia marathon. Bianchi was reported in "satisfactory" condition today in a hospital. (AP Wirephoto)

bruises. His condition is reported as "satisfactory."

Bianchi was asleep at the time of the collision with co-driver Jean Claud Agier at the wheel. Agier and the occupants of the other car received only minor injuries.

Gilbert Staepalaere, driving a German Ford, broke a tie rod 200 miles from Sydney in a stretch where there are 300 turns in 15 miles. He hit an embankment and overturned but was not injured.

Briton Roger Clark, in a Cortina, had mechacical trouble and although he bought an axle from an Australian Cortina owner he lost so many points that he was out of it.

That left the way clear for Cowan to drive carefully into Sydney so he would not lose penalty points or have an accident.

Thousands of people lined the highway as the cars approached the finishing point on the outskirts of the city at Warwick Farm where another 10,000 people awaited them, cheering and swarming around the cars as they arrived.

Cowan sipped champagne that was thrust on him as he sat on the roof of his car for pictures and told newsmen, "We just went on and on and on . . . I feel bloody fine."

Organizers had picked some of the worst roads and track for the 3,400 miles through Australia from Perth to Sydney, and cars required an average 50 miles hour including stops. In some sections they had an average of 60 miles an hour and for long distances many were running at over 100 miles an hour.

Of the 98 cars that started from London Nov. 24, 72 arrived in Perth and of these about 60 are expected to finish in Sydney.

With Cowan in the iwnning car were Brian Coyle, 27, from Scotland, and Colin Malkin, 25, a director of group of garages in the English midlands.

Their car had protective kangaroo bars mounted on the front, eight headlights and spot lamps and a 34 gallon fuel tank. They carried four spare wheels and tires on the roof.

Nancy Richey Holds No. 1 Net Ranking

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nancy Richey today held the No. 1 women's ranking recommended by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Official recognition probably will be forthcoming when all tentative rankings are submitted for approval at the USLTA's annual meeting in Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 8.

This honor marked the second time Miss Richey, of San Angelo, Tex., was named top U.S. women's player on a solo basis. She earned this laurel in 1964 and shared co-ranking with Billie Jean Moffitt King in 1965. Miss Richey was second in 1966 and 1967 to Mrs. King, who turned professional this year.

Julie Heldman of New York, returning from a brief retirement, turned in some brilliant tournament work during 1968 and for that was named No. 2 women's player. Vicky Rogers of New York moved up from 10th to third place.

Rounding out the top 10 in the recommended rankings were Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis; Kathleen Harter of Seal Beach, Calif.; Peaches jbartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich.; Kristy Pigeon of Danville, Calif.; Linda Tuero of Metairie, La.; Stephanie DeFina of Hollywood, Fla., Patti Hogan of Irvine, Calif., and Cecilia Martinez of San Francisco.

Miss Richey and Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, Calif., were named the No. 1 doubles team.

PLAYER OF WEEK

Santa Clara Ace Wins Top Honor

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Santa Clara's Bud Ogden is the Northern California Player of the Week for his work in the Cable Car Classic.

The Broncs stunned previously unbeaten Houston 75-50 and then polished off USF 78-56 to dominate the San Francisco basketball tourney last weekend.

Ogden was honored by Northern California sports scribes yesterday for his 42 points and 27 rebounds in the two games. "Bud didn't make a mistake in either game," Bronc mentor Dick Garibaldi said in praise.

Santa Clara, which moved into the tenth spot in national ratings because of its performance, hosts unbeaten North Texas State Friday. The Texans are averaging 99.6 points a game.

But it's a rough week all the way around for Bay Area quintets. USF is at sixth ranked New Mexico in the Lobo Invitational Friday.

California hosts fourth-ranked Cincinnati tomorrow and then goes against 12th rated Purdue to open the Sun Devil Classic at Tempe, Ariz., Friday night.

Stanford closes down its old pavilion by entertaining Cincinnati Friday and ninth-rated Kansas Saturday. The Indians move into the new Roscoe Maples Pavilion after these games.

Many think that California's team has the stuff to join UCLA and Santa Clara in a Golden State-dominated top ten in the nation.

Bear Coach Jim Padgett said that the games with Cincinnati and Purdue "will let us know if we're ready. We're still experimenting and I'll be giving several of our boys a chance to see what they can do."

USC Wins, Stanford '5' Loses

The Rose Bowl isn't the only collision between West Coast and Ohio sporting teams these days. There's some wild basketball battles going on, too.

Last night, for instance, Cincinnati called on Southern California and got drubbed while Ohio State squeaked by Washington State in a wild one.

At Los Angeles, big Ron Taylor hit 11 of 17 shots for 27 points and grabbed 19 rebounds in leading the Trojans to an 83-68 win over the fourth-ranked Bearcats. Rick Roberson had 25 for Cincinnati, now 4-1 going into tomorrow's gaem at tough Cal.

Ohio State squeaked past Washington State 75-74 when Jim Cleamons scored with four seconds to go. The contest saw Ohio State draw a trio of technicals.

Stanford called on Wyoming and absorbed an 87-73 setback. Don Griffin scored 24 for the Tribe, but didn't get much help.

Ghilotti, Kettle Cagers Triumph

Ghilotti Brothers and The Kettle romped to easy victories last night in the San Rafael Recreation Department's Class A Adult Basketball League at San Rafael High School gymnasium.

Ghilotti Brothers, with Ken Anderson scoring 21 points and Jim Garanica adding 20, beat Sausalito Pharmacy, 76-51. MacArthur Smith's 17 points led Sausalito.

Roosevelt Green was a one-man gang for the Kettle as he scored 29 points in a 67-46 victory over Taberna. Denny Striett scored 16 for the Kettle and Bill Sparrow scored 13 and John Farrar 11 for Taberna.

Storms Cheered Duck Hunters; Better Days Ahead For Anglers

STEVENS

A reader of this column, Bob Johnson, sent me a picture of timely interest. It showed two guys in a rowboat, huddled together to escape the pouring rain which was soaking the pair. In the same picture was a second scene in which two hunters, in a roofless blind, were getting soaked in the driving rain. One hunter says to the other hunter: "Just look at those fools!" indicating the men in the skiff.

That scene might well be a shot taken today or the several yesterdays of cold rainy days in this part of California. Oddly the picture is germane to present fishing and hunting activity over most of the Bay and Delta region.

NO QUESTION but what the wet and windy weather cheered the duck hunters who have blamed "bluebird" weather lately for a dearth of ducks in the air. The avid anglers may look forward to an improvement of stream conditions in the coastal waterways. Practically every coast stream from near Santa Cruz to the Oregon border has had its bar-bound mouth washed clean, allowing the steelhead awaiting opportunity to enter the mouth to proceed in due time on their spawning run upstream.

HOWEVER, MOST streams are spewing yellow mud from back-in-the-hills tributary streams. If your desire to feel the electric thrill of a super-game steelhead tugging and fighting the hook is centered around the south and central coastal waters, it's up to you to sit back and wait for a spell of rainless days. Hold back at least three or four days of ideal weather in most streams, and from four to seven days for others. As always, I caution all steelhead anglers whose wont is to ply their efforts on certain tributary streams to call a dependable source of "on-the-ground" information.

IF YOU'D rather stay home keeping dry and dreaming of better days to come, you might spend a little of your spare time reading and studying a booklet by George B. Hartzog on basic and general regulations for the operation of pleasure craft on the rivers, lakes, waterways and seashores administered by the National Park Service.

It's well worth the while of anyone owning or operating a pleasure craft.

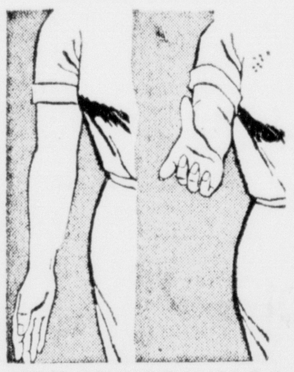
New color pages with pictures and descriptions of the Channel Buoy Guides, the Storm Warning Flag System, and the Uniform State Waterway Marking System have been added to this new and improved booklet.

INFORMATION ON lighting regulations, recommended life saving and fire fighting equipment, as well as the statutory rules of the road are included in the brochure.

Send for this remarkable booklet; it's well worth the bargain price of 30 cents. Address your request to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



While the slightly hooked ball is considered best of all deliveries, some women prefer the straight ball. They seem to be able to control this type more easily. If you're one, don't be ashamed to use it. But concentrate on rolling the ball high into the 1-3 pocket from the right-hand side of the alley. Your thumb should be exactly on top of the ball at release and don't twist your wrist.

Smith In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Redskins rookie Jim Smith, who suffered a broken neck Sunday in Washington's season-ending National Football League game with Detroit, was listed in satisfactory condition in a hospital Monday.

Team physician Dr. George A. Resta said there has been no indication of paralysis.

Two New Schools For West Coast Conference

SAN JOSE (AP) — The University of Nevada and Nevada Southern University have been elected to membership in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

The Wolf - pack and NSU's Rebles will become full participants starting with the 1969-70 school year. They are replacing San Jose State and the University of California at Santa Barbara which have announced plans to withdraw from the WCAC next June to join the new Pacific Coast Conference.

WCAC Commissioner Walter J. McPherson announced the results of yesterday's election by the remaining six members of the conference—the University of San Francisco, University of the Pacific, St. Mary's Santa Clara, Loyola of Los Angeles and Pepperdine.

The two Nevada universities were selected over the University of Portland, the University of San Diego and Seattle University, which also applied for membership. There was no discussion of possible expansion of the conference.

Ohio State QB Hurts Shoulder

RAY NITSCHKE
Defensive star

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rex Kern, the often-injured quarterback of Ohio State's Rose Bowl-bound football Buckeyes, is sidelined again.

Hayes moved sophomore Ron Maciejowski into the No. 1 quarterback slot immediately and said that if Kern doesn't recover before the Jan. 1 game against Southern California "Maciejowski will do a fine job for us at quarterback . . . He's a good one."

FOOTBALL

ATLANTA — Coach Norm Van Brocklin of the NFL's Atlanta Falcons fired the coaching staff he inherited when he took over from former Coach Norb Hecker last October.

WASHINGTON — Redskins rookie Jim Smith, who suffered a broken neck in Washington's season-ending NFL game with Detroit, was listed in satisfactory condition in a hospital and is expected to remain in traction from two to six weeks.

NEW YORK — Ray Nitschke of the Green Bay Packers has been named Associated Press defensive player of the week in the National Football League for his play in last Sunday's game against the Chicago Bears, which the Packers won, 28-27.

Free safety—George Saimes, Buffalo; Bill Baird, New York.

JACK HANLEY'S COLUMN

Feeney Next Commisioner Better Late Than Never

By JACK HANLEY

Chub Feeney will be the next Commissioner of Baseball. His appointment will be announced this week when major league owners meet Dec. 20 in Chicago. Nobody in baseball is going to ask "Who's he?" as Willie Mays did when William D. Eckert was appointed to the job three years ago.

As soon as Eckert was forced out of office at the major league winter meetings last week, Feeney logically was made a top candidate for the post. During the past week owners informally agreed Feeney was best qualified for the job.

INDEED, HE is. Feeney, more formally known as Charles Stoneham Feeney, has been in baseball since he was knee high. But Feeney's knowledge of the game and its rules is just one of his qualifications. He is a polished executive with an Ivy League and legal backgorund.

Feeney, a native of New Jersey, is 47. His Dartmouth College class of 1943 was accelerated because of World War II and he was graduated in 1942. He served 3½ years aboard a sub chaser and destroyer, finishing his naval career as a senior grade lieutenant. Then he picked up a law degree at Fordhan (1946-49).

FEENEY'S WIFE, Margaret Ann, is a New Jersey native, too. They grew up together in Maplewood where their parents still live. The Feeneys have five children. Katharine, 19, who now is attending Connecticut College for Women, her mother's Alma Mater; Charles Jr., 18, known as Stoney, a student at College of San Mateo; John, 16, attending San Mateo High; William, 12. Crocker, Jr. High in Hillsborough, and Mary, 8, North School in Hillsborough.

Schooling of the children was an important factor in Feeney's decision. The commissioner's job means the family will move back east. There will be no abrupt switch in schools for the four younger Feeneys. But the move does mean the boys probably will follow their father at Dartmouth, Mary her sister and mother at Connecticut College for Women.

There isn't an owner in baseball who doesn't respect Feeney. His work on the all-important rules committee not only has been substantial but progressive. And baseball can use progressive ideas of the kind Feeney has to offer.

Baseball players also respect Feeney. His reputation for fair dealing in salary negotiations is well known.

"He never lays down any take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum," is the way Willie McCovey sums up Feeney's approach to salary talks.

IT SEEMS incredible that it has taken baseball owners this long to recognize a baseball man for the job of commissioner. The first one was a jurist, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis; the second one a politician, Happy Chandler; the third one a newspaperman, Ford Frick; the fourth one, William D. Eckert, a general.

But better late than never.

Surgery Scheduled For Manny Mota

MONTREAL (UPI)—Manny Mota, one of the Montreal Expos first draft choices, has suffered an elbow injury that will require surgery, the club announced yesterday.

Doctors feel that Mota's injury is not serious and the Expos expect him to be in preseason training camp.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 17, the 352nd day of 1968 with 14 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1903 Orville and Wilbur Wright made the first successful airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. It lasted 12 seconds.

In 1925 Brig. Gen. William Mitchell was found guilty of criticizing the Army and Navy and sentence to suspension from the Army for five years. In 1945 the Senate voted to award him the Medal of Honor posthumously and promoted his rank to major general.

In 1939 the Nazi vessel Graf Spee, chased by British warships, scuttled off the coast of Uruguay.

A thought for the day: Poet Latitia Elizabeth Landon said: "Were it not better to forget that but remember and regret."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No-trump Responses Depend Upon Your Partner's Count

Today we continue our articles on the proper response to partner's opening bid of one no-trump. Your best bid depends on the assumption that partner's bid promises 16 to 18 points in high cards, with balanced distribution and strength in at least three suits.

GAME COUNT

When you have nine or 10 points you know that the partnership total must be 25 to 27 points, with 26 points usually needed for game. If your own distribution is balanced you should consider raising no-trump instead of bidding a suit. In today's hand, North jumps to three no-trump with his nine points rather than search for an 11-trick game in diamonds.

South should try to win the first trick with dummy's queen of spades since it is possible that West has led from a suit headed by A-J-10 Actually, East wins with the ace of spades and returns the suit.

HOLDS UP KING

South refuses the second spade but must win the third. Now South must not allow West to gain the lead, since West would defeat the contract with the rest of the spades. There is no danger in allowing East to gain the lead, since East is out of spades, and cannot reach his partner's hand. (If East had another spade, the suit would break 4-4, and the defenders could take only three spade tricks in all.)

THIRD SPADE

After winning the third spade, South takes the ace of diamonds and leads the jack of diamonds for a finesse. If this happened to lose East would be unable to defeat the contract.

As the cards lie, the finesse succeeds. The play allows South to develop the diamonds without allowing the dangerous opponent (West) to gain the lead. If South had not finessed, he would have gone down.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠- J 10 9 8 4
♥- K 7
♦- Q 6 5
♣- J 9 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

Since you have only seven points in high cards, you know that the partnership total is 23 to 25 points, not normally enough for game. You should be safe at two spades if partner passes. If partner has 17 or 18 points with strong spade support he will raise to three spades, and then you will go on to four spades. If partner has less, you are willing to settle for a part score.

Health-Care Stock Rebound Is Forecast

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please explain why American Hospital Supply has gone so low and Becton, Dickinson has not. — T. DeG., E. F. At one time you seemed very optimistic about American Hospital but never mention it any more. — H. K.

A. I'm indeed optimistic about the health-care industry and believe that continued holding of Am. Hospital Supply should prove rewarding. This strong growth industry should be represented in every well-balanced portfolio.

It is generally believed that the market for hospital supplies and equipment will expand at an annual rate of 15 to 20 per cent into the 1970s. Checking my files I find American Hospital either reviewed or recommended six times since July 1.

Disappointing price action earlier this year — shares are now moving up toward their historic high of 39 — was attributable to the effect of last June's secondary that increased outstanding stock by 1.8 million shares. Earnings of 14 cents a share in the June quarter were flat year-to-year but improved to 18 cents for the September quarter — the best one to date, though again flat year-to-year.

Becton, Dickinson also reported a flat quarter in June but rebounded in the final quarter to end fiscal 1968 with share net of $1.30 vs. $1.16 in 1967, a gain of 12 per cent. This year's gain in American Hospital's earnings should be 20 per cent.

Shares are more volatile than those of Beckton, Dickinson, whether moving up or dovn, investors are currently paying a bit more for the company's future growth, judged by the price-earnings multiples of the two stocks. AHS, expected to report 65 cents a share for 1968, commands a multiple of 49X. BDX trades at 45X on estimated earnings of $1.55 in fiscal 1969. Sales projections of $365 million and $200 million respectively show relative size.

Product lines for the two companeis are in part dissimilar, Becton having diversified into manufacturing and research markets that serve other than the health-care industry. Purchase of such high-multiple stocks should be made only during market weakness.

Weyerhauser Slates Vote On Stock Split

TACOMA (BW) — Weyerhaeuser Co's board of directors has agreed to submit a 2-for-1 stock split proposal to the forest products company's shareholders.

Shareholders of record on Feb. 28 will vote on the matter at the April 17 annual meeting in the form of an amendment to the company's articles of incorporation.

Market Hit With Stiff Closing Loss

NEW YORK (AP(—The stock market closed with another stiff loss today. Trading was moderately active.

Declines were pared considerably in the final hour, but the setback was still a severe one. Fears of restrictive credit moves and the usual caution before a midweeek closing of the exchange as well as year-end tax selling were cited as factors.

Prices near the close included:

Losses outnumbered gains by 2 to 1.

Fears of a new "money crunch" and of federal restraints to curb inflation were the most commonly quoted reasons for the decline.

Blue chips gave ground along a broad front. A few specially situation stocks made vigorous progress.

Caution was ncreased also by the closing tomorrow to allow time for a catchup on paper work.

Steels, motors, nonferrous metals, chemicals, rails, airlines and drugs were among the losers.

S. S. Kresge, down 1, was boosted to the slot of most-active stock by a block of 191,200 shares.

Benguet, off about 2, was a heavily traded loser. The company termed "misleading" a report on government moves to block its acquisition of a Bahamas resort.

INA Corp. also was heavily traded and up more than 2. AMK Corp. was reported negotiating to acquire a block of INA from Bangor Punta. AMK was up about 1½ and Bangor Punta was down about a point.

United Fruit advanced more than a point in further response to an improved offer for United Fruit stock from AMK. Sterchi Brothers erased an early gain on news of a 2-for-1 split and showed a fractional net loss.

Losses of a point or so were taken by Du Pont, Goodrich, Chrysler, and Zenith. Anaconda lost about 3.

Giant Climb In Consumer Spending Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Consumer spending in California is expected to rise to a new all-time high during thei Christmas season, with an increase of some 10 per cent over the 1967 season's record pace, Wells Fargo Bank reported Friday.

Ward C. Drebs, senior vice president and chairman of the credit policy committee, said that while sales early in the season were disappointing to many retailers, they picked up sharply in November as eager buyers returned to the stores in ever greater numbers.

This spending surge is expected to continue throughout the Christmas season.

Krebs said the bouyant buying mood of the consumer reflects a number of factors:

There are more Californians on payrolls than ever before and fewer without jobs.

The banker said that the consumer's financial situation remains generally strong and he is in a position to use his credit card freely and to continue to add substantially to other short term debt.

Moreover, Krebs said, his confidence has been further buoyed by the removal of the election uncertainties and the signs of the improved outlook for progress in the Paris peace talks.

As a final point, Krebs noted that "consumer buying psychology is reflecting an apparent conviction that inflationary trends will continue and that now is a good time to buy. In fact, higher prices will absorb as much as half of the increase in his outlays this Christmas season."

To Restore Responsibility, Bring Back Woodshed

"Campus unrest can be easily solved once we recognize that its basic cause is America's refusal to wean its young," writes Rossell Baker in the New York Times.

Baker's thesis is that American parents "kill themselves" to provide college educations to a lot of "kids whose natural aptitudes might have started them already down the road to happy lives in auto repair, barbering, cabinetwork and similar crafts vital to a civilized society."

His "solution" is to present every high school graduate with a college diploma, thus satisfying the demand of corporate personnel offices and freeing colleges from attempts to educate masses of young people who have no interest in what the colleges are supposed to be there to teach.

ALTHOUGH BAKER writes with tongue in cheek, he helps bare a sad truth about American society. And it is a truth that likely contributes not only to unrest on the campuses but also to such phenomena as juvenile pot-smoking, the hippie syndrome, and other abberant manifestations among our youth.

It all goes back, we suspect, to the devotion, now two generations old, to permissive rearing of children. It results from the passing of the woodshed.

Little Mary or little Johnny, not yet out of diapers, throws a tantrum because mama or daddy snatches away the heirloom watch which Mary (or Johnny) is pounding on the floor to see what will happen.

True to the dicta of permissive child rearing, mama or daddy gives back the watch, instead of slapping Mary's bottom and letting her howl.

THE PATTERN IS SET. It is followed with the passing years. It becomes the most natural thing in the world for Mary and Johnny to burn down the college administration building because the trustees have refused to grant a degree program in navel contemplation.

Exaggerated? Not at all! Right here in Marin, when a kindergarten found it necessary to transfer some 5-year-olds from morning to afternoon classes, some of the mothers informed the teacher they could not give permission until they talked it over with the children.

Under the strange phantasies of permissive child rearing, this is supposed to help the children assume responsibility by involving them in decisions. But it does just the oppostie. They quickly learn their whims will rule, and they never learn responsibility.

AFTER A THIRD of a lifetime of such treatment, with someone else (papa and mama) paying the bills, Johnny and Mary at last get their college degrees. They then become teachers, counselors and social workers dedicated to perpeuating the system — or they serve on committees that decry the "lack of opportunity" for youth.

It never occurs to them, of course, that most has been lost by lack of opportunity to learn self-discipline through the hard school of being desciplined by their elders.

Bring back the woodshed!

Undefeated Supervisor Behr Rumored Eyeing Assembly Race

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Behr for Assembly?

That's the word drifting this way — retiring Supervisor Peter H. Behr may be interested in seeking William T. Bagley's seat if Bagley accepts an appointment in the Nixon administration.

"Losers don't get priority," this writer's source said in a jibe at supervisors Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Thomas T. Storer. They barely have concealed their hunger for another try at the electorate that rejected them.

Behr, unlike these two outgoing supervisors, chose not to run again for what was certain reelection.

A REPUBLICAN since birth, Behr is not the sort of conservative Republican the Reagan administration would prefer, but even the administration might find it more important to go with a possible winner than with a candidate who merely would toe the line.

The Republicans hold the Assembly by only one vote, so any special election would be vital to the party's nominal control of the lower house.

If the vacancy occurred, Reagan would have to call a special election to replace Bagley. He cannot simply appoint a replacement.

THE ELECTION would be a doozy. The primary would be "sudden death" if any candidate got more than 50 per cent of the votes. If none got more than 50 per cent, then a runoff between the top vote getters in each party would be held only four weeks later.

The real kicker, however, is that there would be only one ballot for voters, regardless of their party, so a strong, moderate Republican could attract a large Democratic vote in Marin.

Still up in the air, of course, is the central question of whether there even will be a vacancy. Bagley may go to Washington, but only if he gets a job significant enough to lure him away from the influential position he holds in the Assembly.

That is now up to Bagley's friends, President-elect Nixon and Robert H. Finch.

Cities, counties and special districts will be "swept aside by a tidal wave" if they continue their petty political bickering and maneuvering, he warned during a hearing on Bay Area transportation problems.

"Local government is becoming more and more intolerable, and there's a generation of Americans who won't stand for it," declared Karabian.

Proposed regional government in the Bay Area, he said, "looks good on paper, but unless you can sell it, our society is going to step on it — and over it." Local governments should start getting more interested in solving problems than holding onto their outdated powers, said Karabian.

The Cynic's Corner By Interlandi

"Great news from the Paris peace talks! They've gotten down to discussing the shape of the table!"

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Dec. 17, 1958

Williams and Burrows of Belmont, San Mateo County, was low bidder to construct a 300-unit, low-rent housing unit in Marin City at a cost of $3.8 million.

California's worst brush fire of the year burned more than 52,000 acres of watershed and grazing land east of San Juan Capistrano and part of the Marine' Corps' Camp Pendleton reservation.

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 17, 1948

The state Highway Commission ordered its engineers to investigate immediately serious hazards on the three-lane sections of Highway 101 from San Rafael to Ignacio.

Evidence of possible abortion operations at Fort Baker were unearthed with discovery of surgical instruments and supplies by a construction crew working beneath the Golden Gate Bridge.

To renew ties with the past need not always be daydreaming; it may be tapping old sources of strength for new tasks. — Simeon Strunsky.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Human Freedom Requires Flexibility

It is obvious that attempts to infringe upon the rights of majorities by a few in our universities who would wallow in the pity of self glorification is but another exposure of the mailed fist which has plagued societeis throughout their existence. The tired tactics employed are nursed from the dying dogma of Marx, and will expire in a reactionary application of truth, but the fact must be accepted there can be no truths without our determined freedom as a mass to protect our rights.

Human freedoms entrusted to us by our predecessors for growth and preservation are a vital force in our pursuits, and for any individual to deny another of their security and guidance is intolerable.

Yet a people like us, with wide diversity of interest, race, and religion, in order to exist in harmony and to progress as a nation, must adopt a quality of flexibility in our personal demands upon freedom — for in so doing we insure a conformity to the singular rights of the other individuals of the mass. This voluntary and sacrificial combining of individual rights constitute our strength as a people, and our dignity as humans. . . .

Different Report On Russian Prejudice

Your Dec. 6 issue contained a story by Dave Gilbert, a Redwood High School student, regarding an exchange language teacher from the USSR in which the Moscow visitor, Mrs. Tanya Antonova, uttered the official position on Czechoslovakia, etc., and further stated:

"Everybody is the same in the Soviet Union. There are about 100 different nationalities, yet with all those different people, we can feel no prejudice. We have no problems on our campuses like yours because there is not prejudice."

A surgeon friend who spent many months in the Soviet Union with funds supplied by the USSR Health Ministry, our National Cancer Institute, the State Department, and others, wrote this:

"What with my Russian parentage it should not be difficult to understand a certain affection I have for these people. . . . Although legally outlawed, racial discrimination, especially against Negroes and Jews, is more here (in Moscow) than in the States. . . . I have never seen Negroes stared and laughed at in the streets in the States, but it is common and brutal here."

Also, when he visited a "cultural exchange" American medical exhibit in Leningrad, he wrote:

"It was apparent that the exhibit was not just sick, but for all purposes it was dead, having been crucified and buried by the Soviet government, snubbed and ridiculed by the local doctors (no doubt on orders of the former), and slaughtered by the local press and TV. . . ."

In contrast, our reception of Mrs. Antonova was exceedingly gracious, to our credit as a healthy, free, and tolerant nation. In future, if she and/or other "cultural exchange" teachers are to attend student club meetings, U.S. history or government classes in addition to guest-instructing Russian language classes in our public schools (as was done during her week's visit), then is it not the duty of the administrations and the faculty as well to clearly indicate to our impressionable youth that representatives of totalitarian governments believe that the "end justifies the means" and therefore, their glowing descriptions "ain't necessarily so"?

Claims Bulk Mail Cuts P.O. Deficits

With so many important issues still unresolved in the world today it amazed me to see your lead Editorial in the Wesnesday, December 4 edition. It's hard to imagine a serious newspaper taking up space to complain about our government's unwillingness to subsidize the mailing of Christmas cards.

Obviously I have more on my mind than the rather meaningless editorial referred to above. For in that editorial you take your usual vicious swing at the direct mail industry.

I wonder if some day you might present the other side of the story as far as the third class bulk mailers. I wonder if you would tell your readers that the third class bulk mailer is responsible for the following:

(1) Over two million jobs in the United States today are attributable to industries who depend upon their sales efforts on direct mail.

(2) Post Office Department deficits would be enormously higher if it were not for the contribution made by the business mailer.

(3) The business mailer performs some 30 functions for the Post Office department that are not performed by the first class mailer. One of the most maligned aspects of the newspaper's constant war against the bulk mailer is the little publicized fact that their class bulk mail is more profitable (or causes less loss) than first class mail . . .

Just for once in the spirit of fair play I would like to see the editorial pages of your newspaper present the positive side of the direct mail industry rather than attempt to perpetuate the myth of "junk mail".

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A BRAND NEW patient turned up at the office of a prominent eye doctor, and was asked if he could read a card the doctor held up at the other end of the room. When he said no, the doctor moved closer and asked, "How about now?" Again the answer was no, so the doctor virtually shoved the card under the patient's nose, and barked, "Surely you can read this now."

"No," sighed the patient, then added, "I never learned to read."

Vietnam Talks Most Critical Test Of New Administration

PARIS — No test is more critical for the incoming President than the Vietnam peace talks. If within six months fairly rapid withdrawal of both American and North Vietnamese forces is not well advanced Richard Nixon will find himself in the same trap that has meant frustration and defeat for Lyndon Johnson.

That is why the changing of the guard here in Paris is so important. Henry Cabot Lodge, now ambassador to Germany, expects to come here after Jan. 20 to replace Averell Harriman as chief negotiator. The announcement of his appointment may be made even before these words are in print, although the Nixon camp is reported to have had second thoughts about Lodge in light of editorial criticism of his close relationship with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky when Lodge was ambassador to Saigon in 1965-67.

Lodge has no doubt of his ability in view of his long experience and background — two tours of duty as ambassador to South Vietnam and then service as a roving diplomat for President Johnson. He has never lacked for self-confidence at any point in his career.

ALONG WITH many Americans involved in the Vietnam quagmire, both diplomats and the military, Lodge believed that the war would end without any formal settlement. It would simply fade out as the North Vietnamese ran out of men and resources. He is still inclined to think this may be the end result rather than any pact ratified around a conference table.

But against this view must be put the long and painstaking effort of Harriman and his partner, Cyrus Vance, for they have worked in complete harmony. The goal has been to build a relationship of mutual trust with the North Vietnamese negotiators who came here after the partial bombing halt. With that confidence established the two sides can pull back, the fighting can slack off, the casualties decline. And this can take place while the wrangling continues over an eventual political settlement.

But there are those who either do not want it to happen or believe it is a superfluous exercise, since the war is bound to fade out. High on this list, it is suspected here, are Ky and President Nguyen Van Thieu. Whether they can sustain their regime in Saigon into the foreseeable future — one year, two years, three years — without the full support of a half-million American troops is the troubling question.

On the list, too, are high-ranking American military who say that within another six months Hanoi's inablility to wage war will be so evident that the Paris conference will look like a meaningless game. These are the same generals who have been saying over the years that with 100,000 or 200,000 more troops the war could be won. If it had not been for the dollar crisis two years ago Gen. William C. Westmoreland, now promoted to chief of staff of the Army, might have persuaded Johnson to raise the American force in Vietnam to 750,000, or so it is believed here.

BUT OF ALL the forces working on Harriman's successor, Ky will be No. 1. He is shrewd, a clever intriguer, reckless at times with the recklessness of the gambler ready to risk everything on a single play. He worked closely with Lodge in the massive escalation following the showdown of 1965 when victory for the Communists had seemed so close.

Masterminded by Thieu, the South Vietnamese succeeded in delaying the enlarged talks for five weeks after Johnson announced a total bombing halt over North Vietnam. This is thought here to be a principal reason the wrangle still goes on over procedures. The Americans said they would have their ally at the conference table and they were guilty in the eyes of the North Vietnamese either of bad faith or a bad blunder.

There is no reason a new negotiator should not build up a relationship of trust with North Vietnam's delegation and within that relationship inch along toward a mutual pull-back. But if the new negotiator is content to let the formal talks spin on with the side benefits ignored, then the slight momentum gained thus far will be lost. And that will suit Ky perfectly as he calls the shots for his delegation.

U.S., Russia Talk Peace, Yet Build Toward War

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As both the Soviet Union and the United States increase the kill power of their armaments and both profess a desire for peace, the question naturally becomes "peace for whom?"

Under this line of thinking, the Soviets label the visit of two U.S. destroyers to the Black Sea a "provocation."

They, however, see no provocation in the immense buildup of their own forces in the Mediterranean, and in fact suggest that the U.S. Sixth Fleet withdraw from that inland sea and leave the peacekeeping duties to them.

WHEN THE RUSSIANS and their hard-lining Warsaw Pact allies invaded Czechoslovakia they did so with the avowed purpose of preserving the integrity of the so-called Socialist Commonwealth and saving the Czechs from counter-revolution.

It had little or nothing to do with the Czechs' own feelings.

Yet, when the NATO powers expressed alarm at the buildup of Russian troop strength at the borders of NATO's eastern limits and warned against further incursions in the areas of the Mediterannean or central Europe, the Soviet Union took this, too, as proof of the West's aggressive intent.

As the superpowers have steadily increased the kill powers of their nuclear weapons, there also has developed an unwritten but existing recognition of spheres of influence.

One indication was Western refusal to intervene in Hungary's behalf during its revolution against rule from Moscow in 1956.

Another could be read into Moscow's abrupt retreat when faced with the United States reaction to the presence of its missiles in Cuba.

And it was noteworthy that NATO's warning to Russia against further incursions in central or southern Europe contained no specific threat of military reprisal. It simply meant that any such action by the Russians would make international agreement that much harder to achieve.

A FIRST RESULT of the U.S.S.R.'s action against the Czechs and its threatening posture against others who might stray from the Soviet fold, was the military revitalization of NATO.

It led Britain, Canada and Belgium to abandon plans to decrease their NATO forces and instead to reinforce them. Denmark, Germany and the Netherlands also announced plans to increase their expenditures.

NATO itself increased its air surveillance of Russian ships in the Mediterranean and considered a plan to establish a special fleet for emergency occasions. The United States promised to increase its participation in NATO maneuvers next year.

But in a starving world it also is expensive and the first question leads to the next.

When nations have used up all their resources on armament, what then?

Novatans Could Elect Mayor By Simple Passage Of Change

Should the people of Novato elect their mayor?

At first this does not seem like a logical question, but it is. The city is incorporated as a general law city. Voters elect a city council. The council in turn selects one of its members for mayor.

Nobody questioned this until Ronald Rauhecker of 91 Trish Drive raised the question at last week's council meeting. He asked why a city the size of Novato did not elect its own mayor.

Two former mayors, J. Wayne Womack and M. E. Babe Silva each thought that the way Novato did it was the only way that it could be done in general law cities. Mayor Harley McAskill said he thought the law had been changed so the people could elect their mayor directly.

The council placed the item on its agenda for its Jan. 14 meeting.

A CHECK with City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. showed that McAskill was correct. General law cities may elect a mayor, he said. The law was changed in 1959, according to Palmer.

The steps necessary for the change would be to place it on the ballot at a municipal election as a proposition to the people to elect the mayor to serve for a four-year term. It would take only a simple majority for passage.

THE SAN MARIN Improvement Association has done the entire city of Novato a big favor. It has just issued a directory of San Marin residents, listing the residents alphabetically and then according to addresses.

The directory also lists 65 young people, ages and addresses, who are available for babysitting.

This indeed is a good service, not only to the young people for getting the work, but also to couples who want to go out and may not be able to engage their usual baby sitters.

Which leads to another point. If memory serves us correctly, the Marinwood Fire Department has conducted babysitting classes.

This might bring a smile to many people, but there is a definite need for some training for this job.

In addition to the routine things such as feeding and changing a baby, and putting older children to bed, the babysitter may be called on to face emergencies. In these cases, a knowledge of what to do can be helpful.

The baby sitter should know the emergency telephone number of the doctor, fire department and police. A little knowledge in the fundamentals of first aid would not hurt, either.

We're sure that if some organization was interested in sponsoring such a course for an hour some night, it would find the young people interested in babysitting more than willing to participate. It would probably find firemen and police who would explain the functions of their departments in emergencies.

NOVATO is indebted to the General Cigar Co. of New York and Charles Schulz for making the names of two of its new citizens common household words.

They are Robert Burns and Charlie Brown. Robert Burns, the Scotch poet, achieved fame when a cigar was named for him. He is also a Maj. Gen. Robert Burns, commander of the Fourth Air Force at Hamilton Air Force Base.

When I told someone the new city manager of Novato is Charlie Brown, he commented that he supposed he would soon have an assistant named "Snoopy" hired at $8,000 per year.

ALFRED BOWMAN of Novato lost his car in a bad fire last Wednesday evening. He ran over a mattress on Highway 101 and before he could get it out from under the car, it had set the car on fire.

As he stood there watching the firemen fight the blaze, he overheard someone remark:

"I've heard about people starting a fire by smoking in bed, but this is ridiculous!"

Tricky Technique Of Offering Job So It Will Be Rejected

WASHINGTON — One of the tricks every President-elect must learn is how to offer a job to somebody in such a way that he will have to refuse it.

While Mr. Nixon spent many hours selecting his cabinet, he spent many other hours talking to men he had no intention of hiring. One of them was Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. How Mr. Nixon offered Governor Rockefeller a job, without offering it to him, is something we'll have to wait to find out when their memoirs are written. But until then, there is no harm in guessing.

"NELSON, it's good you could stop by. How's Happy?"

"She's very happy, Dick. Well, I guess you've got a tough job selecting the right cabinet for the country."

"I do, Nelson. It isn't easy to find dedicated, selfless men who are willing to come to Washington and spend four years making the great decision of history."

"Oh, it can't be that hard, Dick. I imagine there are many men who would love to serve in your cabinet."

"DO YOU KNOW of any, Nelson?"

"Well, I haven't been thinking about it much. Let me see. For secretary of state, you ought to find someone with a prestigious name, identified with public service, with a clear, liberal image, who perhaps is the governor of a very large state."

"Exactly my thinking, Nelson. But I can't think of anyone with all these qualifications. And, heaven knows, my people have looked. What about secretary of defense, Nelson? Do you have any ideas for me there?"

"Well, Dick, I think you ought to find someone with a prestigious name, identified with public service, with a clear liberal image, who perhaps is the governor of a very large state."

"I'D RATHER HAVE Volpe for secretary of transportation."

"I wasn't thinking of Volpe, Dick."

"Well, Reagan's out of the question. If I put Finch in the Cabinet as HEW secretary, I can't put Reagan in, too."

"I wasn't thinking of Reagan, either."

"Then who were you thinking of, Nelson?"

"I wasn't thinking of anybody. I was trying to answer your question."

"HOW HAPPY, Nleson?"

"You asked me that before. She's fine. Who have you got in mind for secretary of the treasury?"

"I was going to ask you about that, Nelson. Whom do you think I ought to get?"

"I think you ought to find someone with a prestigious name, identified with public service, someone with a clear liberal image who perhaps is governor of a very large state."

"How about your brother, David?"

"He's not a governor."

"INCIDENTALLY, Nelson, how's Happy?"

"Look, Dick, I have to get back to Albany. Is there anything else you want to ask me about?"

"Well, frankly, Nelson, I'd like you to be on my team, and there is one key job that everyone is going to be watching so far as my appointments go."

"Anything you say, Dick."

"You remember when President Johnson appointed his secretary's husband to the subversive activities board and the squawk that went up?"

"I sure do."

"THAT JOB is open, Nelson, and I thought that if you would consider."

"I'm sorry, Dick. I like my job as governor of a very large state. It's prestigious. It identifies me with public service and gives me a clear liberal image. I wouldn't think of coming to Washington in a million years."

83 Items Sold

The Novato Police Department made 83 sales Saturday in its annual auction of bicycles and other items picked up during the past year. The auction netted $333 which will go into the city's general fund, Police Chief Robert DiGrazia said.

Meany Boycotts Labor Group On Reuther's Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany has announced a boycott of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions until it rejects membership to a new alliance including Walter Reuther's auto workers.

Meany told a news conference yesterday he considers the Alliance for Labor Action, formed by the United Auto Workers and Teamsters Union which are both non-AFL-CIO members, a rival organization.

"We will take no part in any activities of the ICFTU whatsoever until this matter is disposed of," Meany said.

The AFL-CIO pays $515.000 a year toward operation of the international organization which conducts programs of mutual interest to its labor organization members throughout most of the world.

Auto workers president Reuther withdrew his 1.6-million-member union from the AFL-CIO last summer after a long dispute with Meany over U.S. labor policy.
